Luring Americans With Cars?

A bargain for Americans — Canadian new cars

By AB KENT
Times Staff

Victoria auto dealers may be missing out on a lucrative new sales angle that is already being exploited in Manitoba.

A dealer in Winnipeg is advertising in nearby Grand Forks, N.D., that U.S. citizens can buy their 1979 cars cheaper in Canada than they can at home.

"Maybe we should look into it," said Suburban Motors sales manager Les Starling.

Neither he nor his counterparts at other major Victoria dealerships had heard of Winnipeg's South Park Mercury Sales over-the-border campaign.

The ad blitz says North Dakotans can save hundreds of dollars on their new, Winnipeg-bought cars.

Citing a 1979 Zephyr as an example, South Park salesman Brian Jones said a U.S. buyer would pay $4,300 in American funds for the car in Winnipeg, $400 less than a U.S. dealer would charge.

Until recently, practically everything was cheaper in the U.S.

The big switch is due to poor performance of the Canadian dollar which has made U.S. dollars worth about 20 per cent more if spent in Canada.

Jones said an American purchaser in Canada is entitled to a rebate of the 9 per cent federal sales tax on automobiles and is also exempt from his own government's 15 per cent import duty.

Canadian tax and customs spokesmen confirmed the 9 per cent tax can be recovered. A U.S. customs spokesman said he is not aware of any 15 per cent import duty but said there is a 2½ per cent U.S. duty.

In a survey of Victoria and Port Angeles dealers, the Times discovered price comparisons definitely favor U.S. buyers at the current rate of dollar exchange.

Judging by prices quoted by dealers in Port Angeles and Victoria, substantial savings could be enjoyed by Americans in this area.

An American border officer said he has cleared Canadian-bought autos for U.S. citizens, including a Japanese car for a California buyer who claimed there was a saving to be had by purchasing on this side of the border.

Comparisons shown below are for 1979 basic, mid-size, four-door, medium priced domestic cars, including freight and federal taxes:

In Port Angeles in U.S, dollars, the cars and their cost: Monarch, $4,954; Aspen, $4,501; Malibu, $4,966.

In Victoria, the same cars with their Canadian costs and the comparable price in U.S. dollars with the discounts, and after Canadian sales tax deduction: Monarch, $5,665 Canadian ($4,150 U.S.); Aspen, $5,217 Canadian ($3,824 U.S.); Phoenix, $5,204 Canadian ($3,814 U.S.).

A Port Angeles buyer who bought here could save $804 on a Monarch, $677 on an Aspen, and $1,152 on a Phoenix/Malibu.

The $1,152 spread could be unrealistically great because of a difference in engine options and current model changes, bringing the difference closer to $600.

"I've never heard of anything like that before," Starling said, adding the good deal for Americans in Manitoba might be due to the fact Prairie prosperity has seen more cars shipped there by manufacturers with resultant lower wholesale prices.

"We haven't looked into it," said Brian McLean, of Empress Pontiac Buick.

Paul Smith, sales manager at Wille Dodge Chrysler, wondered how the Manitoba dealer could come out below his U.S. competitors.

"Our wholesale price is about equal to the U.S. retail price," he said.

Smith quoted from an invoice for a 1979 Dodge Aspen, basic four-door, six cylinder, no options, showing a dealer cost just $400 below the Port Angeles retail price.

Normal Victoria markup would put the retail price about $700 over the Port Angeles customer price, without taking dollar exchange into account.

McLean conceded that American used car dealers are onto something along similar lines.

He said recently at large dealer auctions in Vancouver, about 70 per cent of sales have been to U.S. buyers, apparently due to the favorable rate of dollar exchange.

Holy War Vow

Times News Services

Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini today threatened to launch a "Jihad" — an Islamic holy war — to topple Iran's Prime Minister Shahpour Bakhtiar.

Diplomatic sources said Khomeini's announcement had pushed Iran to the very brink of civil war.

It was the first time the white bearded, 78-year-old patriarch of Iran's Shiite Moslem majority has publicly threatened civil war and the second time he bitterly attacked the United States in three days.

Speaking to 200 reporters at a news conference in the Moslem school which Khomeini has made his headquarters, the ayatollah accused the United States of using Iran's oil for its own needs and "foisting unneeded weapons and advisers on the country."

Khomeini also said he has drafted a new constitution for an Islamic republic and will shortly announce the names of the Revolutionary Council's members.

Both the new government and the consitution will be submitted to a referendum, he said.

The armed forces "must join our ranks as soon as possible," he said. "They must not use machine guns against the people."

He appealed to the army's patriotism — "We want them to be free of foreign commanders and not to be under the thumb of foreigners," Khomeini said in a clear reference to the U.S. advisers who helped build Iran's army into one of the world's most powerful military machines.

After the news conference, thousands of Khomeini supports took to the streets chanting, "Welcome to Iran's holy soil!"

Meanwhile, the shah was quoted today in interview published in Paris as saying that he had been too radical in trying to modernize his country but does not regard the situation as "irremediably lost."

The shah was interviewed in Marrakesh, Morocco, for the Paris newspaper Le Figaro.

Angus Matthews and Carmela Costigan hunt for blossoms

It's Blooming Awful For Flower Count Folk

By AL FORREST
Times Staff

The flower count people are supposed to be tallying snowdrops next week, not snowballs. But are they downhearted?

"Sure we are," says campaign co-ordinator Carmela Costigan.

"This weather is very disappointing. Still, we should be able to find a large number of flowers if we try harder."

The Greater Victoria Chamber of Commerce, which organizes the annual event, will send teams of searchers into parks and other likely areas looking for blooms.

The search will be difficult.

"We've already checked out a lot of places," Mrs. Costigan said.

"There's almost nothing at Butchart Gardens, very few flowers at Beacon Hill Park. And at Government House, which always has a lovely showing, hasn't got a ruddy flower this year."

Still the count goes on, beginning Thursday, and Flower Count Central will be in Eaton's window, where girls will be receiving telephone calls and the rising totals will be displayed.

It all began in 1976 when the chamber decided to count flowers to prove to Canada that spring comes to Victoria first. A total of 183,000 flowers were counted that year.

In February, 1977, the total was 434,138, and last February it rose to 894,000.

Early predictions were for one million flowers this time but the vagaries of weather have changed all that.

"We will be happy with 500,000 — very happy," Mrs. Costigan said.

The totals, whatever they are, will be telephoned daily to Portland, where a group of 30 Victorians will be carrying out a tourist blitz, starting Sunday, Feb. 11.

The flower count ends on Feb. 14, Valentines Day.

Socred Wants 'Frog' Apology

A Socred back-bencher whose riding has a high population of French Canadians called Friday on Municipal Affairs Minister Bill Vander Zalm to publicly apologize to the province's French-Canadians.

George Kerster, whose Coquitlam riding includes the francophone community of Maillardville, said in a letter to Vander Zalm he was making the request with deep regret "when a man in public life has gained the admiration and respect of so many."

Francophones, human rights activists and civil libertarians in B.C. are complaining about Vander Zalm for a song he wrote which they say denigrates French-Canadians.

Kerster said that, although he feels the media had blown the incident beyond reasonable proportions, "the fact remains that the entire performance was unnecessary and without meaning.

"We do have sensitivities in this day and age which we must respect."

Meanwhile the Edmonton Journal has initiated an effort to ensure that Vander Zalm gets a copy of a cartoon the newspaper published Friday.

The cartoon, by Edd Uluschak, shows Vander Zalm pulling the leg off a frog and carries the caption: "It's a fun thing, don't you see?"

"We'd be interested in his comments," Journal publisher J. Patrick O'Callaghan said in an interview.

The newspaper published the cartoon two days after Vander Zalm told reporters in nearby Spruce Grove that his song labelling French-Canadians "frogs" was a "fun thing."

O'Callaghan said: "We're disturbed at the apparent attack through the courts in B.C. on the traditional right of a cartoonist to puncture the balloons of political pomposity. (He was referring to Vander Zalm's libel suit against the Victoria Times which is being appealed.)

Another cartoon showing a gleeful Vander Zalm pulling the legs off a frog was published today in The Gazette in Montreal.

Lotteries Complaints Face Probe

OTTAWA (CP) — Consumer Affairs Minister Warren Allmand Friday promised to investigate and act on charges that lotteries exploit the poor and soak up funds that otherwise would go to charities.

His remarks in the Commons were prompted by Toronto Liberal MP Jim Fleming who said a group of social agencies feels donations are declining because of lotteries. And he personally suspects that lotteries are "a voluntary tax on the poor."

The federal government and most provinces are involved in one lottery or another.

Allmand said in the Commons he will follow up on Fleming's observations and later he told reporters "if what he says is correct it deserves some action."

He said similar concerns were raised about a year ago when critics questioned the ethics of lottery advertising.

Allmand said he isn't sure what action would or can be taken. And he hadn't thought out the possibilities because Fleming had taken him by surprise.

"But the way he put it in the House made a lot of sense."

Conservatives applauded Fleming's remarks.

Fleming said Allmand's reaction gave him some hope that the government will finally take seriously the concerns he has been raising sporadically for more than a year.

He said the National Advisory Council on Voluntary Action, representing many social service agencies, said in a report many months ago that lotteries may be the reason why they are getting less revenue.

In short, people may be spending money on lotteries that they used to give to charity.

And, although he has no proof, Fleming said he suspects lotteries are a form of tax on the poor who are lured by a powerful promise that winning means "they can live happily ever after."

"We're hitting the poor on two fronts," Fleming said.

"It's sort of a double whammy."

Fleming said the government should have examined these possibilities a long time ago. He had secured a promise for some action from State Secretary John Roberts last year but nothing came of it.

Stuart Drummond, executive director of the United Way of Greater Victoria said today there is no evidence the growth of lotteries is affecting fund-raising activities here.

He said the United Way campaigns have grown at an average of 10 per cent a year for the past three years. Last year the campaign slightly exceeded the $926,000 goal.

A spokesman for the Victoria Salvation Army Red Shield Appeal also said Fleming's concern is not reflected in the Army's fund-raising drives.

"I don't think any of the large established social agencies are affected although it might be hitting some of the smaller groups," he said.

The spokesman felt that although some groups may be having difficulties raising money through raffles and ticket draws of their own they are making more on commissions selling lottery tickets.

Smoke Illness Wins Compensation

TORONTO (CP) — A woman has been awarded workmen's compensation after being subjected to high concentrations of tobacco smoke in the office where she worked.

In what is considered a precedent-setting case, a recent appeal decision by the Ontario Workmen's Compensation Board states that "unusually high concentrations of dust and tobacco smoke . . . and failure to properly recycle the air" in the office where Murdeena Johnson worked were precipitating factors in the onset of her bronchial asthma.

Mrs. Johnson, 43, a divorced mother of three, said Friday she is convinced her condition was caused by second-hand cigarette smoke.

Mrs. Johnson, who has not worked since May, 1977, was hired in 1970 by East York Hydro in a Metropolitan Toronto office as a clerk and later was promoted to billings supervisor.

"My doctor will not allow me to work in an environment where there is cigarette smoke," she said.

"They're still smoking in the office . . . so I can't go back there."

Mrs. Johnson said her condition did not start until some time in 1974 after the installation of a new ventilation system in the office.

When Mrs. Johnson's health forced her to leave her job, she submitted a claim to the compensation board but the claim was disallowed.

Lawyers for the Non-Smokers Rights Association appealed the decision on Feb. 17, 1978, and the board granted Mrs. Johnson compensation on Jan. 2, 1979, but did not notify her until Jan. 17.

In the decision, the board adds that "it is not expected that such conditions would ever again be encountered by Mrs. Johnson as most offices today are air-conditioned and all but a minority would likely be suitable for her."

But Garfield Mahood, executive director of the non-smokers' associaton said medical evidence shows that "people with the kind of susceptibilities as Mrs. Johnson can be affected by very low levels of tobacco contaminants."

Citing the 1972 U.S. surgeon-general's report, Mahood said that even in modern buildings, someone sitting next to a smoker may be exposed to a level of 90 parts per million of carbon monoxide, nearly twice the level considered hazardous for industrial exposure in the United States.

Mrs. Johnson said she has not been told by the board what her compensation will be. At present, she is receiving long-term disability benefits from East York Hydro, which amount to two-thirds her salary.

Local, Regional, National: It's All Bagged Together

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Letters mailed in boxes marked local, national and regional get dumped together and receive the same handling, the president of the Canadian Union of Postal Workers said Friday.

Jean-Claude Parrot, interviewed during a visit to this city to promote the union's side of disputes within the post office, said the post office introduced the marked mail boxes when it promised same-day delivery within regions.

But the plan did not work, he said. For the last three years, letter carriers in most places have picked up mail from each box and dumped it together in bags.

Parrot cited the marked boxes, $60 million paid in overtime last year and the post office's failure to make one firm offer in 15 months of negotiations before last fall's postal strike as examples of bad management.

B.C. Tourist Magnet

More than half of all Canadians from other provinces who plan to spend their holidays in Canada this year will probably head for B.C., says a report issued by the provincial office of the federal tourism department.

Of the 56 tour packages now being offered by major carriers participating in cross—Canada tourist promotion, 28 are offering B.C. as the principal attraction, the report says.

Alberta is running a close second with 25 package offers and Ontario has 17. Quebec has 16 and Nova Scotia 14 with all other provinces attracting nine or less. The Yukon has only two packages.

Mail Theft Nets 30 Days

BRAMPTON, Ont. (CP) — A provincial court judge expressed concern Friday over an apparent increase in mail thefts as he sentenced a former mail handler to 30 days in jail and fined him $1,500 for theft.

In sentencing Fred Frediani, 51, of Toronto, for his conviction on two counts of theft from the mail, Judge John Ord said a jail term was essential to deter other postal employees.

Frediani had worked for the post office for about 15 years before being fired after charges were laid against him last August.

Feminist's Complaint Cancels Valentines

WINNIPEG (CP) — Jean Ellison of Winnipeg was outraged by two of the Valentine's Day cards she saw in a drug store last week.

Within 24 hours, her complaint prompted Carlton Cards to order the offending material withdrawn from stores across Canada.

Ms. Ellison, 35, a self-described feminist, was upset by the apparent put-down of the women's movement the cards contained.

One of the cards, To the Women's Libber, showed a female hippopotamus in a bathing suit burning a bra. The other, To the Male Chauvinist Pig, had a cigar-smoking hog with a mug of beer sitting in front of a sign that reads, "Keep women in the kitchen."

Ms. Ellison contacted the Manitoba Action Committee on the Status of Women, The Free Press and Ron McWilliams, local manager of Carlton Cards.

McWilliams said he hadn't seen the cards, but promised Ms. Ellison he would look into the matter.

He phoned his head office and was advised the following day that district managers across Canada had been told to remove the cards.

"It was meant as no slur on women's lib," McWilliams told a reporter. "It was a comic slam.

"We feel that if a person is offended, they are justified in complaining. But it wasn't meant that way."

JCB backhoe loaders work like money machines

The JCB backhoe loader can do just about any job you want it to - and do it well. Owners call it the 'money machine' because it will pay for itself in no time. It's one of the most versatile construction machines available.

You name it, JCB can do it. It digs, loads, backfills, dozes, rips, lifts - even has a self-contained roadbreaker. Thanks to the widest range of attachments and options in the industry, the JCB backhoe loader doesn't know when to quit.

Standard production features include high-capacity front bucket; two-position dipper; independent stabilizers; and outstanding operator comfort and convenience in a full-vision cab. JCB's unique 'hydraslide' sideshift lets you position the backhoe precisely across the rear frame so you can dig up close against walls, curbs and fences.

Add JCB's versatility to its heavy duty components and rugged integral steel frame that's built to absorb the stresses usually placed on engine and transmission, and you've got a backhoe loader that really means business. Profitable business.

Call your Finning sales representative today and ask to see the JCB money machine. It's a sound investment.

Graphic Example Of Dollar Shrink

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The U.S. Mint has unveiled a new smaller dollar coin — but it isn't silver.

The coin, honoring suffragette Susan B. Anthony, will be put in circulation in July, when enough are produced so they won't become collectors' items.

The cupro-nickel coin is just a little bigger than a quarter and weighs 8.1 grams.

Secretary of the Treasury Michael Blumenthal pressed the first new smaller dollar at the San Francisco Assay Office and conceded its size symbolized the shrinking value of American money.

Viets Have Crossed Border: China

HONG KONG (Reuter) — China has accused Vietnamese soldiers of crossing the border and killing four Chinese border guards and wounding seven others in two separate incidents Friday.

The deaths bring to 12 the number of Chinese Peking claims have been killed by the Vietnamese in a recent spate of bloody border incidents.

China's Hsinsua news agency said today Vietnamese troops crossed into southern Yunnan province and opened fire on Chinese border guards, killing four of them and wounding five.

In another incident in Kwangsi province, two Chinese soldiers were wounded when mines planted by Vietnamese exploded, the agency added.

U.K. Cracking Down On Strikers

LONDON (CP) — Britain's Labor government took a tougher line Friday against the tactics of trade union extremists pressing for large pay rises.

Ministers and members of the Labor Party — normally an ally of the unions — criticized wildcat pickets blockading hospitals, stopping burials and closing down schools.

After denouncing what he called "free collective vandalism" in Parliament Thursday, Prime Minister Callaghan called in four union leaders, saying the way the strikes have been run was shocking the nation and ruining his re-election hopes.

Prices Minister Roy Hattersley said in a radio interview Friday it was time unions stood up against members who are giving them a bad name.

Hattersley also dismissed as fantasy any idea that the government would authorize higher pay offers to 1.5 million low wage earners pressing for increases ranging up to 40 per cent.

Conservative Opposition Leader Margaret Thatcher called for a campaign against the "few thousand wreckers" in the union movement.

Speaking during a factory tour in north London, Mrs. Thatcher said she was appalled at the callous way strikers were picketing hospitals.

There was no let-up in low-paid workers' industrial action Friday. About 1,100 of Britain's 2,300 state hospitals were only accepting emergency cases because of sporadic stoppages by cleaners, kitchen staff and other staff.

East London's Queen Elizabeth Hospital for Children — hit by a 24-hour strike Friday — turned away volunteers who offered to do strikers' duties. Hospital administrator Gail Sharp said she did not want to risk upsetting union organizers by accepting volunteer assistance.

Unions have rejected employers' offer of 8.8 per cent pay increases. Hattersley said it would mean Britain's financial ruin if the government gave local authorities the go-ahead to award even 15 per cent increases to the low-paid workers.

Hattersley said the general election — which must be held by mid-November — should not take place until after the industrial unrest has ended because the election would be dominated by "wild statements."

Leaders of 10,000 water and sewage workers called for a strike next week if negotiations did not improve on a 13.9-per-cent raise offer.

An Amazing New System

For groups and organizations which find it difficult to keep their membership lists up to date, for social service agencies required to file material on individuals they help, for private companies looking for a method of keeping personnel information well-organized and accessible, there's an amazing new system of data storage and retrieval available on the market.

No longer is there any need to rely for identification purposes on the impersonal and easily-confused social insurance number or similar numeric codes. For example, the embarrassment caused the organizers of the Canada winter games in Brandon, who asked all athletes for their SINs, according to Sports Minister Iona Campagnolo, "so the things they bring with them will not be lost," would never have arisen if they had used the alternative available.

It is a strikingly simple system utilizing only 26 basic symbols, which can be arranged to form almost an infinitude of combinations. Very fine distinctions and nuances of meaning are simply conveyed with just a few "sets." An added advantage is that most people can be trained in a reasonably short time to "write" and "speak" fluently using the fundamental signs. No sophisticated hardware or software is required for the process — materials available universally may be used for instruction.

These symbols are linked together in special ways to form what the experts call "bits," and, what is even more amazing, these bits are joined and recombined as entire "ideas." Storage represents no problem. It may seem unbelievable but thousands of pieces of information can be kept in a container no bigger than a sandwich. Many of these containers are kept in central repositories, open to the public for consulting at fixed times. Alternatively, the same messages can be enlarged and projected in public displays. Flexibility and versatility are its key characteristics.

Some cultures have used the system in an ingenious way to "name" individuals. At birth, each citizen is assigned a unique combination of symbols which remains his for life. Subsequent achievements and honors bring with them additional identifying symbols, and occasionally some are deleted. These peoples find the system the essence of simplicity, and can't understand the modern trend in countries like Canada to quantifying everything under anonymous integers.

Would a social insurance number by any other digit be as sweet?

One More Round

All we want to know from Saanich Ald. Sandy Noel is what he will do if he fails again when he tries to win support for the Royal Oak industrial park at next Monday's council meeting.

Is this his final fling? Will a defeat this time mean the end of the proposal forever — or at least for the next several years? Or will Noel and the other supporters of the idea keep finding pretexts on which to revive it every six months until they either manage an affirmative vote or all retire from the political scene?

Noel says he believes a motion to reconsider the idea will pass on a five-to-four vote on Monday night. His counting surprises some observers who, despite intensive searching, can find only four supporters for the idea on council — Noel and fellow aldermen Fred Severson, David Paterson and Geoff Vantreight. Mayor Mel Couvelier and three other aldermen, John Mika, Howard Sturrock, and Mary Casilio, have been strongly opposed to the project before; rookie Ald. Irene Block has never voted on the idea but has stated publicly she is against it.

It is quite possible one of these former opponents has changed his mind on the question, but it doesn't seem likely.

Even if the motion to reconsider does pass, what happens then? The whole matter must go back to public hearing, and it is easy to anticipate once again the months of desperate politicking, the Chamber of Commerce looking at the jobs that would be created through the park, the Royal Oak residents looking at the tremendous changes it would bring to their quiet neighborhood. It's quite likely the battles would become so intense council would have trouble accomplishing much else during the "campaign" period. It did last time.

The whole effort might be worthwhile, however, if everyone knew this was the last kick at the cat. Although council thought it had disposed of the matter last year, it obviously lives on in the minds of many. One more round would be worthwhile if it were to put the matter to rest, no matter what the outcome.

But one more round will be nothing more than a tremendous waste of time and money if it is only the precursor to more and more rounds because neither side is willing to give up when it loses.

Land Use Controversies: What Will Hurt Least?

The 4½-hour public hearing this week on the future of the Highlands district spotlighted as clearly as anything could the most fundamental questions of land use now facing us. To put it in its simplest possible terms: where do we put the people who are being added to this area's population through immigration and through birth?

Officially the question asked at the Highlands hearing was whether the Capital Regional District should rezone the 15,000-acre area to allow subdivisions of 10-acre lots or whether it should retain the current zoning which requires a minimum lot size of 45 acres. Yet everyone knew the practical meaning behind the question was whether the Highlands should be allowed to stay in its virtually undeveloped state or whether it should be developed for housing, albeit high-class housing on large, almost hobby-farm size, lots.

In a letter to the editor written after the meeting, one of the opponents of the rezoning, Kerry Joy, writes most eloquently of the stakes involved in the matter.

"The issue," he writes, "is simply that the Highlands represent Victoria's last opportunity for a major green belt and regional park within 20 minutes' drive of the city centre. Other major capital cities have greenbelts or urban forest parks available on their doorsteps. In Ottawa, Oslo and Auckland . . . the citizens have been far-sighted enough to provide this kind of recreational amenity for the benefit of present and future generations of all residents and tourists. . .

"The alternative is the loss of the region's last eight miles of undeveloped saltwater shoreline, eight mountain peaks, 15 lakes, acres of wild-flower meadows and miles of hiking trails. This is a priceless heritage which our regional cannot replace after the land speculators have had their way."

He is quite right on all counts. No one who has heard the hoot of owls at night on Highlands roads, who has seen the stonecrop spring from Highlands rocks, who has seen the clearness of the Highlands' lakes can feel good about the idea of having that wilderness replaced with neat, white bungalows; tidy, square gardens and a few dogs and chickens. The Highlands now, for goodness sake, is so unspoiled that you can sometimes walk for miles without even seeing the rusty tin cans and broken beer bottles that so often symbolize "recreational land" in this province.

Yet, if one alternative is the loss of that wilderness, what are the other alternatives?

The loss of what little good farmland now remaining on the Saanich peninsula and in Metchosin? That land not only provides a greenbelt — privately-owned, like the Highlands — but also produces homegrown food in an age when we are repeatedly told of the need to lessen our dependence on imported foodstuffs.

The loss of the few small three- and five-acre parks throughout the developed areas of Greater Victoria? It is true that more housing could be built on those small areas, but that would mean there would be no open space in the city at all, that one would have to drive 10 miles or more out to the Highlands to visit a park. Ironically, a decision like that would probably end up harming that same Highlands area through overuse.

The loss of the existing single-family homes and duplexes in Victoria's many neighborhoods? People could be accommodated by replacing that existing low-density housing with higher density apartment blocks and townhouses, but how many of us would be prepared to give up our privacy and our lifestyle to preserve the Highlands?

There are no easy alternatives. Since we cannot build a Berlin Wall around the Capital Region and allow no more immigrants, we must make plans to accommodate a growing population.

That requires land. Since no more land can be created, it requires existing land. There probably is not a corner of this region where the population is going to like providing nearby acreage to house more and more people.

The question we all need to consider, politicians and ordinary citizens alike, is what will be the least unpleasant way of finding that land, what sacrifice can we make that will hurt least. — B.McL.

FRED CLEVERLEY

Gets It Coming and Going

WINNIPEG — As Manitoba Premier Sterling Lyon begins a new legislative session, the second full session since the 1977 election, he is beginning to be plagued by a malady so common that is should be called "the premier's disease."

Just as Ed Schreyer before him had, on the one hand, critics who were convinced that he was galloping into socialism and, on the other, supporters who became increasingly critical of him for not moving left fast enough, Sterling Lyon is already creating two camps of critics.

The first is more readily identifiable. These are the people who are convinced that Lyon wears jackboots under his pinstripe pants, squeals with delight as he signs dismissal notices for civil servants and somehow was involved with the order to turn off the gas that was made public at the beginning of one of the winter's first snowstorms.

Helps Opposition

These are the critics who often find a sympathetic reporter's pencil or a television crew at the ready whenever they find more "evidence" of right-wing tyranny in the present provincial government.

They are the delight of the opposition, who often find that their own political organizational skills fit right into the protest projects, and can contribute to the government's embarassment without having to take the direct blame.

Less obvious are members of the other camp. They include Lyon's supporters, whose criticism is based on his attitude toward an individual project or interest, and those who are convinced that while Lyon is fond of making right-wing speeches to appreciative audiences in New York, he is a real pussycat when it come to implementing right-wing policies.

Because of the slowness with which all governments move, these critics are becoming more frustrated with each passing month, and some are daring to voice their criticism.

One group is the Manitoba Farm Bureau. Although technically non-political, there is no doubt that the bureau's opposition to the New Democratic policy of encouraging farmers to sell their land to the government put it squarely in the Conservative camp during the last election.

The bureau also supported the Conservative opposition to marketing boards, particularly in the cattle industry. But the bureau's latest brief to the government reveals that it is not too happy with all the Conservative farm policies, either.

Although the Conservatives ended the state farm land ownership program and established the beef check-off system, and not a marketing board, they were soundly criticized by the farm bureau for not supporting the marketing boards in poultry and other products the bureau wanted. How the Conservatives could support one marketing board and not another was not explained.

STERLING LYON
. . . case of 'the premier's disease'

The operators of the two cable television systems in Winnipeg thought their troubles with the Manitoba Telephone System were over when the Conservatives were elected. Conservative members who were now in cabinet had been extremely critical of the government telephone system's plan to take over the ownership of all cable hardware in the province and to turn the cable companies into little more than collection agencies for the fees that would be set by the telephone officials.

These cable operators are still shaking their heads over their discovery that while the government may have changed, telephone policy did not. They suspected that the socialists were interested in the telephone takeover of cable facilities as a means of gaining control of information, but were amazed to discover that the Conservatives wanted the same ownership, not so much for control, but as a means of making money.

No goverment agency received as much criticism from the Conservatives in opposition as Autopac, the compulsory government automobile insurance scheme. Even Premier Lyon appeared to make it clear that he intended to end the government's monopoly by allowing private companies to compete. After 16 months in office, competition is nowhere in sight and the Conservatives seem more determined than the socialists ever were to stamp out what competition exists.

Winnipeg retailers who sought to give motorists a break by eliminating the deductible on windshield replacements were threatened with extermination by the government if they continued.

What's It Thinking?

In the field of labor, Sterling Lyon is getting blamed for thinking about right to work legislation in Manitoba, when the facts are that the only reference to such a law was contained in a resolution passed by the union of Manitoba municipalities. While the unionists have labelled this request as a sure sign that the government will ride roughshod over workers' rights, business in Manitoba is beginning to question the delay in changing any of the Schreyer laws that gave Manitoba the most union-oriented labor code in Canada.

It is a case of one set of critics being angry because the government is not thinking about changing a law, and another set being angry because it might be thinking about such a change.

It is often said that a government will remain in office as long as the number of people it irritates remains less than the number it does not.

But as Manitoba's premier is rapidly discovering, people can be irritated because you do what you said you would, and other people can get just as angry because you are not doing immediately what you said you would.

It is a classic case of the "premier's disease."

Time Running Out

Your editorial of Jan. 20, Reforestation, was a good review of the tree-planting problems in this province. But read it over again and note that no one has suggested a "forestry" solution to the dilemma. It is easy for the IWA leader to recommend increased spending on reforestation. And it is good politics for the Council of Forest Industries to point to the planting progress made over the past decade and remain silent on the fact that they are continuing to add more and more clear-cut lands to the unplanted total. And to top it, true to form, the forest service can only admit to its impotence to force the industry to replant when markets drop and they feel a slight pinch in their profits after harvesting the biggest and the best of our timber.

Truly, if you could only appreciate half of the absurd forest policy your editorial reveals you would run banner headlines on the economic threat that faces our forestry future. And the tragedy is that nothing in the new Forest Act or the recently published regulations addresses itself to the technical problems involved. As a leading consultant said in a recent interview deploring the mismanagement of our timber supplies: "Where were the professional foresters when this sorry record was being written?"

It is strange that Premier Bill Bennett's imaginative moves to have the people of this province, small loggers and shareholders, participate more concretely in the benefits from our resources, yet the minister of forests is content to muddle on. If I were chief forester I would seize the premier's mood, and especially given the economic prosperity in the forest industry at present, to compel some real forest management reinvestment from the industry. I would cut back on granting permits for indiscriminate clear-cutting and log to enhance "natural" regeneration so as to apply all planting resources to a catch-up program. Some of our best lands are insufficiently restocked, if at all, and every day they remain so is a deficit for the future. Banning clear-cutting just means devising suitable, selective and patch logging methods for innumerable stands where clear-cutting is as much an economic loss as poor forest management.

I would also ban any clear-cutting along any waterway and use well known stream management technology to protect that part of our environment. It could be implemented overnight without any loss of timber supply or jobs. It would create jobs, because fisheries enhancement is eminently economically sound.

And, there is much more that could be done through an imaginative chief forester. Time is running out. — D. M. Trew, 37-1240 Newport Avenue.

Bury the Wires

It has often occurred to me that it would be a good idea for the provincial government to subsidize B.C. Hydro for the cost of burying power wires. During times like these when help is abundant it is a shame to postpone work which will never be cheaper, and would do much toward the beautification of our cities.

I recently passed through Portland, Oregon and saw the aftermath of the ice storm which rendered 30,000 homes without power. Several days after the original outages, 3,000 homes were still without power, resulting in hospitals being overcrowded and people huddled together in schools and other public places seeking relief from the cold.

Sooner or later it will happen in Victoria if we don't take the necessary precautions. — Alfred Porcher, 3823 Campus Crescent.

Gaspe Reunion

A reunion is being planned for this summer in Gaspe, Quebec, for all ranks who served there during the Second World War.

Not many Canadians know that at one time, the enemy was right at our gates off the Gaspe shore. Sailors who served at HMCS Fort Ramsay — a major base in Canada's effort to combat enemy submarines — played an important, if little known role, of Canada's defence. Now, they wish us to return.

The reunion will be held, tentatively, Aug. 3-5. It is hoped sufficient interest by former navy, army and air rorce who served there will be shown to bring it about.

Air Crew Reunion

The Wartime Pilots' and Observers' Association is sponsoring an air-crew reunion in Winnipeg, Sept. 18-21, 1980, to coincide with the 40th anniversary of the Battle of Britain. There was good representation from every area of Canada at our last reunion here in 1976, helping to bring our registration figure at that affair to approximately 3,000.

The 1980 reunion will be open to all air crew who earned wings in any air crew trade and flew with the Air Forces of the British Commomwealth in either world war, or in the Korean war.

Lampooning: 'Just as Lousy As Any Other Job'

By HENRY MITCHELL
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — P. J. O'Rourke puts out National Lampoon, which at first blush sounds like a dream of a job but the more you think of it, it doesn't.

The latest wild success of this publication, which is satirical, gross, vulgar, loyal, courteous and kind, was the parody of a newspaper. It appeared last summer with its Living Life section, its Swillmart advertising supplements, etc.

The editor is 31 years old and gazes forth with direct, grey eyes beneath a lot of silky brown hair arranged somewhat like a lhasa's.

Striped Shirt

He lives in Manhattan and has a New York complexion because of the air there, and was clad in a Brooks Brothers blazer, striped shirt and in general looked as if he might be on his way back to visit his old chemistry master at prep school.

But beneath the ordinary exterior beats a deep-seated vicious hatred of everything on earth, or, as he said, "a deep-seated vicious hatred of everything on earth."

He recently addressed the Advertising Club of Washington at lunch — they had lighted candles in silver sockets all over the place, but that's advertising for you — and had a liberating influence on the ulcer set.

Sure, he said, of course his magazine is sued all the time, but usually they manage to con their way out of court.

Volkswagen, he said, sued them for $60 million for a little parody ad they ran showing a Volks floating in a flood and bearing the bright message that if Kennedy had had one, etc.

Many felt this ad was tasteless.

"Well, how did you get out of that one?" he was asked.

"Well, my God, $60 million. We went to Volkswagen and said okay, what do you want — girls, drugs? You name it."

Volkswagen said they wanted the magazine taken off the newsstands. Right now,

O'Rourke said it had already been on the stands three weeks, and the flap over the parody ad insured that the remaining copies sold out promptly.

Some have averred O'Rourke's magazine is white male, chauvinist, sexist and not progressive.

"Well, yes, a magazine did once say we were hostile to homosexuals, always attacking them in parodies and things.

"And we have one guy who is married to a woman who is swept up in the National Organization for Women. He is always saying he thinks we ought not print this, that and the other, which might be construed as anti-feminist. Whenever he really protests, we feel sure we are right on target."

Not All Ketchup

"Yes, but are you really hostile to women, blacks, homosexuals and those types?" he was asked.

"Not really hostile. Though I can see the grounds for the accusation, all right. I think it is humor, the nature of humor. If you stop to think of it, humor is essentially conservative.

"You don't make fun of a guy's clothes unless they are different from everybody's.

"The truth is, people do have these feelings about things, however much they try to hide them. White people do fear blacks, and the feeling is mutual.

"People worry about oil and Iran, for instance. If you start sounding off about camel-traders, etc., you are being an ass. If I do, I have done half a day's honest work."

But a life of sounding off is not all ketchup and cream by any means.

"Sometimes I want to be serious. Sometimes I want to talk about life insurance. Term, straight, the kind that would be best for me. But if I see an insurance guy he won't take my problem seriously. He just wants to tell me his new Polish pope joke.

"And you have no idea what it's like to come in the office with a terrible hangover, only to find your secretary laughing like mad and dressed up in a gigantic bird suit."

And then there are those dark nights:

"When you ask yourself what you are doing with your life. When you have self-doubts. Most guys when they have had a hard day can shrug it off, blaming it on the tension of business anxiety and dealing. But if I have a terrible day, I have to acknowledge it's because we spent half the day looking for a photograph (of some outrageous thing suitable for a parody)."

Magic of Words

His publisher's company has now made a film called Animal House which is making a lot of money, O'Rourke says. He rather doubts, though, that he will stay in the parody trade for ever.

His conversation is full of words with moral connotations of right and wrong; and, while he makes some effort to keep it from showing, he rather heats up at the thought of terrible behavior, especially among those responsible for "the public weal."

It amazes him, at some level or other, that dreadful acts of injustice and corruption do not send people into a rage, but words do.

"Words are just words, after all," he says, "but there are kinds of behavior and action that result in people's hunger or sickness or death. Once I said to somebody, 'Look at all that's lousy in the world — the mind can hardly take it all in. Or all the suffering. And the one thing that sets you off is this printed word, 'nigger.' "

"Maybe," somebody said to him, "you have forgotten that words can lead to acts, or reinforce attitudes that are cruel."

"I know that," he said. "Words are magical things. They are like magic spells. You say the wrong ones and the sky falls and the sun stops and all that.

"I guess," he said, "that's why the Irish, so fresh from Celtic magic, so often make a living from words."

At first, he said, corporation types did not know what National Lampoon was. "They thought it was an Italian lamp catalogue," he speculated.

But then, he said, corporation types often spend a good bit of time "trying to figure out what part of the body you put cocaine in." (By this he meant they are not clever).

Of course he cannot write absolutely anything he might like. If he were to feel sad, or lyrical, or exalted or lost in wonder, etc., he could not write any of that for National Lampoon. He can be very funny in his work, very satirical. But there are iron limits beyond that.

"It's just as lousy," he said cheerfully, "as any other job."

Beta-Endorphin Research Offers Pain-Control Clues

In laboratories all over the world, biologists are homing in like predators on a substance which may well be the most exciting discovery in brain chemistry for decades.

The substance is called beta-endorphin, and it is a naturally-occurring chemical which appears to play an important role in controlling pain. Since its discovery five years ago, beta-endorphin has become one of the hottest properties in biology.

The latest report, from the University of California in San Francisco (UCSF), a leading centre for beta-endorphin research, shows that the substance is released when the brain is stimulated by electrical devices. Its release coincides with a dramatic reduction of pain experienced by patients with conditions like cancer or chronic malfunctions of the lower back or the extremities.

The electrical devices were invented in 1974 by Dr. Yoshio Hosobuchi, a neurosurgeon at the university, as an alternative to treatment by narcotic drugs which can lead to addiction.

He implanted electrodes in the brain, and provided each patient with a transmitter which can be used to activate the electrodes when the pain is incapacitating. He found that the use of the device enabled the patients to obtain relief from pain lasting from a few hours to several days.

The device certainly worked, but Hosobuchi couldn't quite see how. His latest experiments, carried out with Roger Guillemin, Jean Rossier and Floyd E. Bloom of the Salk Institute in La Jolla, go some way towards explaining the mystery.

Brain probes lure biologists

It turns out that the electrodes stimulate the release of beta-endorphin, increasing the quantity of the chemical in the patients' cerebrospinal fluid by between two and seven times. The beta-endorphin then acts in exactly the same way as an opiate like morphine or heroin, greatly reducing the pain experienced by the patients.

This is the first time that beta-endorphin has been monitored in human patients after brain stimulation; previous evidence which suggested that it was involved had been indirect.

It follows a report published last year by another UCSF group suggesting that the well-known "placebo effect" was also due to the release of beta-endorphin. Placebos are medically inactive substances which when injected into patients seem to have beneficial ffects on about a third of them.

The UCSF group injected 50 patients who were experiencing post-operative pain with a placebo. About a third reported a reduction in pain, but the investigators found that the pain-relieving effects of the placebo were nullified when the patients were later given an injection of naloxone, a drug which is known to counter the action of the opiates.

The conclusion was that even the suggestion that their pain was about to be relieved was enough to cause a proportion of the patients to produce their own opiate, presumably beta-endorphin. The injection of naloxone — which on its own has no effect on pain — suppressed the action of the beta-endorphin and the pain came back.

Thus, it seems persuading a patient psychologically that he is about to experience less pain has real, measurable, physiological consequences — a striking finding which could explain many curious observations on the fringes of medicine, including acupuncture anesthesia.

Taken together with evidence that beta-endorphin may be involved in obsessional over-eating by grossly fat people, and that it may be able to relieve the symptoms of mental illness in a wide range of patients, the enormous interest in the substance is not hard to understand.

Magician Shows Without Mirrors

In still one more sign of the advancing season, the Golden-crowned Sparrows are starting to live up to their name; their golden crowns are beginning to show.

Hidden, or at least subdued, through most of the winter by a cover of dull, brown feather ends, the bright, golden-yellow crowns that give the birds their name are breaking out in their full glory as those coverings wear away.

While many kinds of birds long ago completed the molt that put them in their nuptial dress, others have either not begun or are just getting their preparations under way.

Many, like the Golden-crowned Sparrows, have been wearing much of their spring finery throughout the winter — under an overcoat of winter dress. With the wear and tear of day-to-day living, the overcoat gradually wears away so that, by spring, the birds appear in all their vernal glory.

If you've been keeping a regular watch on some of our adult gulls — the immatures take up to four years to get their immaculate white heads — you'll have noticed that they're sporting rather tattletail-grey heads these days. But, if you keep up your watch, you'll also notice that gradually, as the season moves on, that grey will disappear — worn away — to reveal the snow-white head of a gull in its prime.

A little harder to spot, but still worth watching for, will be the nod the cormorants make to the need for spring finery. For most of the year our three kinds of cormorants — the Pelagic, Double-crested, and Brandt's — have little in the way of plumage differences to help us tell them apart; they just look "all black." But — and it usually begins in February, at least with Pelagic Cormorants — changes take place which not only help us identify the various kinds of cormorants but which also reveal that the cormorants are getting the message of spring.

These changes involve feathers, too, but not molt. They are special feathers, plumes if you will, that appear only during the nesting season. These plumes are usually brittle and easily damaged so that by the time the chores of raising a family are finished, so are the plumes.

First to show their new finery — or at least the first we're likely to see — will be the Pelagic Cormorants; they'll soon be sporting a conspicuous white flash of plumes on each side of their bodies, just behind their wings. Soon after the Pelagics will be the Brant's Cormorants with their, more-difficult-to-see, almost spiny, plumes that stick out like frills around their necks and cascade down their backs between their wings.

By the time their two relatives are firmly into the job of assembling their spring dress, the Double-crested Cormorants will begin to show theirs — tiny white "crests," one on each side of their heads, just over their eyes.

But by far the most spectacular change from the functional greys, blacks, and whites of winter to the equally functional, but far more flamboyant, colors of spring will be seen among the grebes — particularly the little Horned Grebe.

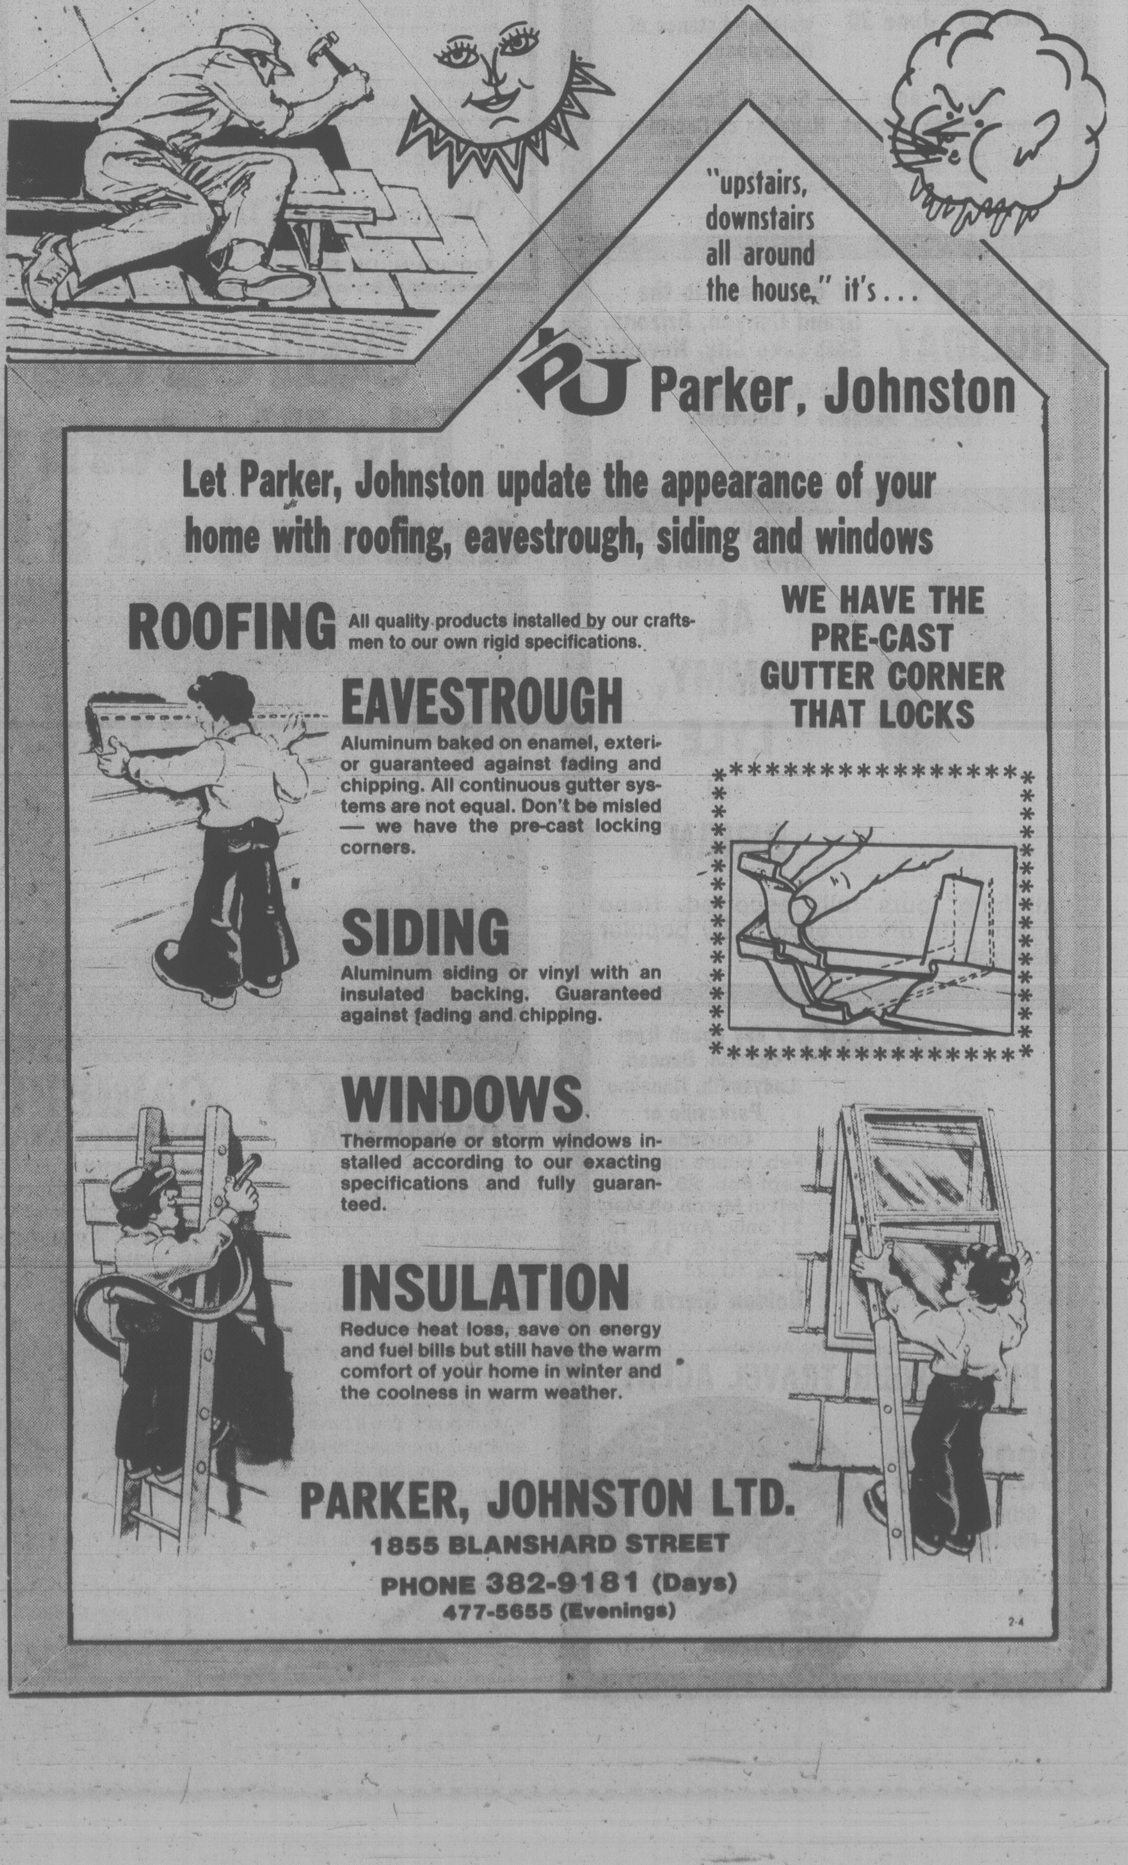
Dotting our waters by the hundreds every winter, Horned Grebes pass the season as nondescript little chaps with dark heads, whitish necks and greyish bodies. They usually arrive here looking as they do all winter. But, before they leave, in late April or early May, they'll have made a transformation that would be difficult to believe if you hadn't seen it with your own eyes — and you can see it with your own eyes.

Since Horned Grebes are confiding little fellows who tolerate people peering into the most intimate aspects of their lives, all you have to do is find some Horned Grebes — Oak Bay is a good place to look — and keep a weekly watch on them from now till they leave.

You won't notice much at first but as March gives way to April — beginning with a slight enrichment of the color of the necks — you'll see the Horned Grebes complete a metamorphosis that would challenge that of any butterfly larvae.

By the time they fly east to nest, the Horned Grebes will have doffed their drab winter dress and replaced it with a combination of rich brown, yellow and black that make them one of the grandest sights of spring.

And it's all done with feathers. No mirrors, just feathers.



"upstairs, downstairs all around the house," it's . . .

Burano's people make peace with land

BURANO, Italy — Some women sit in doorways, sewing and making lace for the market stalls in Venice, while others chat as they stroll along the walkways.

Children help with grown-up chores, but also find time to ride their bicycles back and forth across the canal bridges and down the narrow, winding streets.

A fisherman mends his nets near the harbor, while a master craftsman takes his time as he builds a boat by hand.

Sunlight bounces off one of the island's tiny canals as a boatman sculls his craft along.

Clothes are washed and hung on lines across the walkways. Most days at noon, women appear at the spigots in the squares between the housing blocks to clean small fish for the midday meal.

The local church even has its own leaning tower. The priest here says that at the windows, where the bells are hung, the tower is more than 5½ feet off centre.

Only a small percentage of tourists visiting Venice find their way to quiet Burano, a 45-minute ferry ride from classic "Venezia." There are no cars here — only a few pushcarts — and no hotels. But one can find occasional shops and restaurants — and lots of quiet.

Modern looks sweeps across a historical face

ON THE GO
With Jerry Hulse

SANTA FE, N.M. — An afternoon breeze whispers through the cottonwoods, carrying with it the scent of sage and pine. In Santa Fe, at 7,000 feet, the clear sweet air is addictive, just as are the sunsets and the Sangre de Cristo Mountains and the endlessly blue skies.

If one can overlook the Hilton Inn and a supermarket here and there, well, perhaps it's possible still to succumb to the charms of this ancient town. Multitudes have.

SANTE FE has been called "the most charming settlement in the Southwest," a gathering together of pueblo-style adobes and Spanish colonial buildings that surround a peaceful old plaza.

Even the Safeway and Chevron station look as if they'd been created by the hands of Navajo Indians.

It's the same with la Fonda and the inn at Loretto and La Posada, the latter a favorite of playwright Neil Simon. Whenever the urge to escape the real world overtakes him he retires to one of the old adobes with deep-welled windows. Later with the chill of evening he touches a match to bits of kindling in the beehive fireplace. Soon the sweet scent of pinon logs fills the night air.

SANTA FE is home to writers, painters, musicians, the cultural capital of the old Southwest. The art colony finds solace in winter's long, gray days.

Occasionally they gather at The Compound, a century-old hacienda with a tree-shaded patio and a garden that is scrupulously manicured. Rose petals float in an ancient fountain and fine wines are poured for guests.

Outside town, the Bishop's Lodge draws the affluent visitor with its Old World ambience. This 1,000-acre ranch resort was once the private retreat of Archbishop Lamy, immortalized in Willa Cather's novel, Death Comes for the Archbishop.

IT IS elegant without being ostentatious, casual without losing its appeal. Trees planted by Franciscan fathers during the early 16th century still bloom, still bear fruit. And the chapel built by Archbishop Lamy remains, frequently used for weddings by guests who stay on to honeymoon at the Bishop's Lodge.

Winds whisper through the cottonwoods and the hills in summer are green with grass and golden with chamisa.

And then of course winter follows and the lodge closes until another spring. After this, with the leafing out again of cottonwoods, the Rio Grande spills furiously with the runoff of mountain snows, hurrying across the desert.

BEYOND Santa Fe a land of cathedral-like silence exists — lonely tablelands, buttes and mesas. It is a world in which to cleanse the soul and listen to the silence, or to hear the lonely cry of the wind or the distant howl of a coyote.

Only when a jet spreads its contrail against the flawless sky is one reminded of the other world.

In the beginning outsiders came to study its historical attractions: the Plaza and the Palace of the Governors, the nation's oldest church, its oldest house, the museums.

THEY STROLLED beneath the portals of the Palace of Governors to barter with Indians. And later they looked in on the galleries and studios along Canyon Road.

During the city's 340-year history, the Palace of the Governors was occupied by the Spanish. Indian insurrectionists, Mexicans and the invading Texas Army of the Confederacy.

But now, Santa Fe, a town unique in America, faces the threat of being overrun by outsiders. During summer they choke its narrow streets with their campers and cars. Hotels and inns run close to 100 per cent occupancy. And the residents — well, some just run, leaving home until sanity returns at summer's end.

VISITORS flock to summer opera and moonlight concerts, as well as the historic town center itself.

Because of previous huge crowds, Santa Fe's famous fiesta has been moved ahead from labor Day weekend to mid-Spetember. Residents had grown weary of visitors sleeping in their cars and on lawns, and leaving behind streets filled with their litter.

Beyond the center of the city, condominiums are on the rise. Some are abominations. Santa Fe has pleaded for a continuation of the old pueblo and Spanish colonial buildings. But insensitive builders are getting in their licks.

SANTA FE'S watchdog is the Old Santa Fe Association, whose aims are "to preserve and maintain the ancient landmarks of Old Santa Fe, to guide its growth and development in such a way as to sacrifice as little as possible of that unique charm, born of age, tradition and environment which are the priceless assets and heritage of Old Santa Fe."

Mary Kay McCulloch, a striking blonde with eyes the color of Santa Fe's heavens, confessed it's a "constant, on-going fight."

In the 13 years since Mary Kay McCulloch moved to Santa Fe the population has doubled to 50,000. The town spreads.

Lively Oahu
is the home of Waikiki Beach, Diamond Head and Pearl Harbour. Here you'll find sparkling nightlife, dozens of fine restaurants, the colourful pageantry of native shows and sightseeing.
Tranquil Maui
with its spectacular blue-green mountain vistas and fertile valleys. You can horseback ride around the volcano Mt. Haleakala, take the oldtime Sugar Cane Railway, visit Lahaina, the old whaling village or simply laze on a beach.
Unspoiled Kauai
often called a sportsman's paradise. There's hiking, outrigger canoeing on the blue Pacific and deep-sea fishing for "the big one". There's Waimea Canyon, Kalahau Lookout and the famous fern grotto to see.
Fascinating Hawaii
with its wide range of contrasts. From Kau Desert to tropical, palm-fringed sea to Kauna Kea, a snow-capped volcanic mountain. Plus sights to see like the City of Refuge, Akaka Falls and Hawaii Volcanoes National Park.

Anglers on New Zealand's Lochy River can not only delight in creel full of plump trout, but eyeful of breathtaking scenery.

Eyes are the biggest catch when fishing Down Under

By HARLON BARTLETT

QUEENSTOWN, New Zealand — Among hard-core fishing addicts, trout fishing is not a popular sport on South Island, where 10-pound browns are not unheard of.

Ah, but trout hunting; that's a different story.

Sure you can fish. People do it sometimes. Troll up and down 80-kilometre-long Laie Wakatipu, that is the front yard of this tourist town of 3,000 residents.

Or spin fish at the mouth of rivers that empty into the S-shaped lake.

OR EVEN wander up and down the many rivers and fling lures and flies into them. That is known as fishing blind.

New Zealand fishermen are not blind. So they hunt trout.

No wasted motion, greatly reduced guesswork. You don't cast until you see the spots or stripe, depending on the species, on their side.

It's really easy. All you need is three or four pair of legs and x-ray vision.

The legs cannot be purchased locally. But the eyes can be rented by the hour or by the day.

THE EYES I rented belonged to Geoff McDonald. Fortunately, the rest of him was part of the deal, too. Plus land and water transportation, lunch, tackle if needed and uncommonly splendid companionship.

Until you've seen New Zealand fishing eyes in action, they aren't easily believed.

If Geoff had pointed into the Lochy River and said, "See that rock, there's a fish underneath it," I would have been tempted to believe him.

He didn't go quite that far, although on several occasions things he pointed at and claimed were fish were so assuredly rocks I would have bet the grocery money. Until they swam away.

EVEN donning his $24 sunglasses, in place of my $7 pair, at times was no help. The next day I bought a $24 pair — for $27. Inflation, you know.

"Look for gray smudges," McDonald kept instructing. Soon I was seeing gray smudges from one bank to the other. Smudges that wouldn't move if you dropped a grenade on them.

That's why anyone who shells out between $700 and $2,400 to fly here (that's Los Angeles-Auckland round trip) and numerous bucks more for room, food and transportation is cutting the wrong financial corner by not investing another $100 for a guide.

IT'S APT to seem like a bargain at the end of a day's fishing.

Sure you have great eyesight. But that's not enough. My eyes have been tuned in to outdoorsy things for 40 years without benefit of aids and, frankly, I didn't expect much trouble spotting fish in water North American writers are fond of calling gin clear. Maybe vodka clear, too.

Training is the difference. Hard to find what you're looking for when you don't know what to look for. Seeing a motionless fish in moving water three-quarters of the way across a river doesn't come naturally.

ON THE other hand, fishing blind is not necessarily a total waste of time. Only a partial one.

After leaving here I ventured south and, at McDonald's suggestion, sampled the Oreti River. Because the water was a tad dirty from recent rains, and because a gale force wind was romping across the countryside, there was no chance of hunting trout.

Rather than fly fish upstream, I headed down the river with spinning gear, casting a Little Cleo.

On the second cast I had a strike. The third cast produced a 2-pound brown. The fourth cast met with a 5-pounder. All this within 150 yards of the highway.

THREE kilometres and three hours later, I caught a third fish, also a 5-pound brown trout.

Three fish weighing 12 pounds in three hours — I'll settle for that.

Yet, I could have undoubtedly fished vast stretches of the Oreti that were fishless.

That's the big difference between North American and New Zealand trouting. Tiddlers, minuscule trout so prevalent in North American waters, don't exist in most Kiwi streams.

So you hunt. Creep along the bank, peek through bushes, hide behind trees. Eye and leg work. "Some days I get a headache from eye strain," noted McDonald.

When a trout is spotted, and 95 per cent of the time it's bigger than any trout you will encounter in the North America, the angler cautiously enters the water below the fish.

You false cast out enough line so the fly line will fall on the water below the fish, and the dry fly or nymph will land just beyond.

The casting is repeated until (1) the fish strikes, (2) the fish spooks or (3) the angler decides the fish isn't the least bit interested.

Historic court to open

St. Catherine's Court, a small Tudor mansion near Bath (166 kilometres west of London) opens to the public for the first time from April 1. The Court, built by Prior Cantlow in the 15th century, on the foundations of an earlier building, includes early panelled rooms, a library wing, and an Orangery, built in 1919. A fine medieval tithe barn and a church in the grounds will also be open. The mansion will be open from April to October 30; Sunday, Wednesday and Friday and bank holidays from 2 to 6. Admission about $1.50.

Greeks hold onto glory despite push toward west

ATHENS, Greece — With each new crisis in the Middle East, apartment rents rise in Athens, it grows harder to find a hotel room, and this old city's traffic, already a Greek tragedy, becomes more impenetrable.

Just as this city has lured travellers for centuries, it now draws those seeking safe haven from the madnesses that rage to the east and south of Greece.

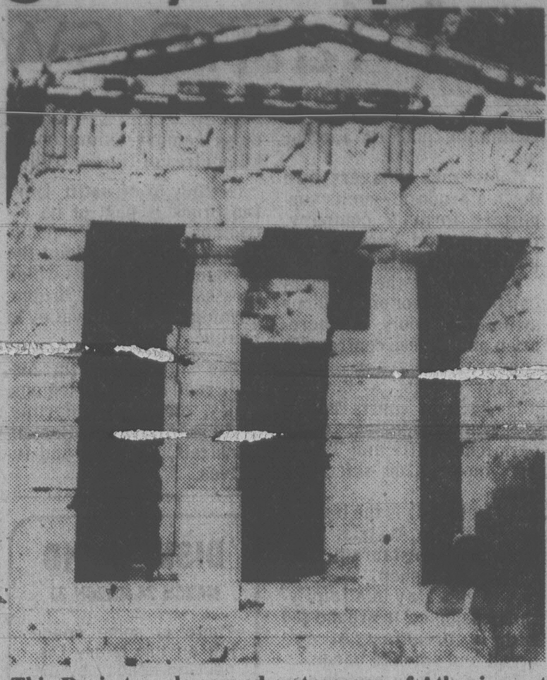
Those who must do business in the Middle East bring their families as far or as close as Athens. Telephones and Telex work here, but grow chancy or hopeless to the south and east.

There has been almost total evacuation of Lebanese business, much of it to Athens. Under a recent Greek statute called Law 89, foreign companies based in Greece that do not sell products in Greece pay reduced taxes. That too has helped to draw the multinationals.

In the countryside around Athens, freeways reach out tentative fingers past ancient landmarks of classical Greece. Modern factories rise beside them, bearing the names of multinational giants of Holland and Switzerland, Germany and the United States.

Yet somehow, in the midst of such change, Greece remains a huge bargain for the traveller. Once one escapes the metropolitan hubbub of Athens, almost every whitewashed tree trunk seems to shade outdoor chairs and tables of a taverna where the visitor is welcomed for stoic meditation or discussion over cheap ouzo or retsina or beer, feta cheese or barbecued goat sliced off a revolving spit.

The stability of Premier Constantine Caramanli's Greek government, following the debacle of the colonels' military coup (that ended in 1973), has drawn visitors as well as businessmen and women.



This Doric temple served as treasury of Athenians at ancient sanctuary of Apollo in Delphi.

In the last year of the colonels' rule, in 1972, only 2.7 million visitors came to Greece. That figure almost doubled in 1978 to about five million, a number that is more than half the entire population of Greece. The push is on to build more hotel rooms and develop new tourist areas and new tourist seasons. Panayotis Lambrias, the new secretary general of the Greek National Tourist Organization, recently singled out the new ski resort at Mount Parnassus as an example of diversifying tourist appeal.

Now the big issue is membership in the European Common Market, which is expected in two to three years. Entry into EEC is expected to raise costs in Greece. But Premier Caramanlis regards it as vital to bringing Greece into the European defence community, and would like to see Greece back in NATO, from which it withdrew in 1974 as an aftermath of the invasion of Cyprus by the Turks, the traditional enemies of the Greeks.

Facing their alliance with the economic superpowers of Europe, the Greek people, inheritors of ancient glories and recent poverties, manage stoic jokes about their plight.

To a leading Athens banker, the push to westernize Greece recently became a personal crisis. He told me his story:

"Forever, we have gone home in the heat of the day for lunch with our family and what the Spaniards call siesta. Three years ago the government began to move to eliminate the siesta. Our bank went from a six-day week to a five-day week and eliminated the siesta.

"Frankly, I thought I was too old to change. I tried it and didn't like it, and so I resigned. Our chairman came around and said, 'Look, we need you. What we'll do is put a private couch in your office and you can take a nap after lunch.' We tried that, but I was always accustomed to putting on my pajamas for siesta. It has been very trying."

Over a lavish and leisurely Greek meal in the smart downstairs Taverna ta Nissia of the Athens Hilton Hotel, I heard another view from Elly Economopoulo-Hadziotis. Born in Egypt of Greek parents, she returned to her homeland and has served as public relations manager for Hilton properties in Greece since the spacious Athens Hilton opened in 1963.

"We Greeks are always trying to find ourselves," she smiled, her flashing brown eyes and the precis- [illegible] marking her as one who has long since found herself. "We keep trying to become European, but we're not. It is hard to change. We are a complicated people."

She nods toward Greeks involved in animated conversations over other luncheon tables at 3:30 p.m. She points out details in sculpture and woodwork and tapestry in the Taverna, a showcase of crafts and customs from several regions of Greece. They have come down through generations and are perpetuated today by young artisans who devote their lives to copies of masterworks of Greek antiquity.

"Go into a fine modern shop here in the hotel, anywhere in Greece," she said. "Look at the finest pieces. They are from the classic style. Perfection was already here, two or three thousand years ago. There was nothing new after then. It is hard to live with."

In loyalties, she is unmistakeably Greek.

"The Egyptian culture was devoted to death," she said. "The absorption even today, with the artifacts of King Tut's tomb, is an example. The Greeks were always devoted to life. Just look around you here at lunch!"

She agrees that Greece must push ahead with its EEC affiliation.

"We are trying to develop industry and tourism in northern Greece particularly," she said. "But we are still a country that grows vegetables and fruit — the finest watermelons in the world."

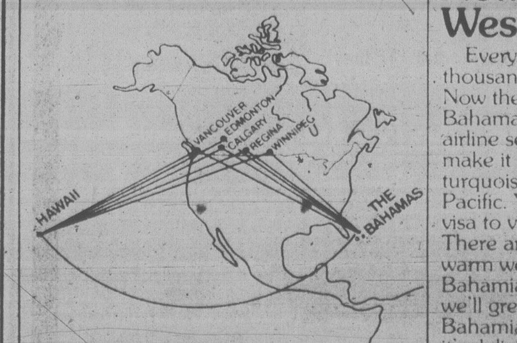
Bahamian delights for anyone who's ready for a change of Ocean.



New links with Western Canada.
Every winter, we share our sunshine with thousands of Canadians from the East. Now there are new links between The Bahamas and Western Canada; new airline services (at new low prices) which make it as easy to get to our warm, turquoise ocean as it is to get to the Pacific. You don't need a passport or a visa to visit this nation of 700 islands. There are no language problems . . . just a warm welcome from 235,000 friendly Bahamian people. And instead of a lei, we'll greet you at the airport with a cold Bahamian Delight. Like The Bahamas itself, it's deliciously refreshing and mildly intoxicating!
(It's better in The Bahamas)

An all-winter summer.
You can expect temperatures in the low 70's (21-23°C) and an ocean that may even be a degree or two warmer. We average eight hours of sunshine every day from early January through till the end of April. And at this time of year, there's hardly enough rain to dampen your swimsuit.
(It's better in The Bahamas)

New low package prices.
These are just three of the many vacation packages now available from Western Canada to The Bahamas. Prices include round-trip air fare, transfers and accommodation based on double occupancy. Any travel agent can give you details.
7 days in exciting Freeport.
Fiesta Holidays package includes accommodation at a modern apartment hotel (suites equipped with kitchenettes) close to nightclubs, fine restaurants, the casino and the famous International Shopping Bazaar. Daily maid service and welcome cocktail party also included.
From $459 per person, departing Vancouver and Victoria.
14 days in colonial Nassau.
Lobstick Tours can jet you to one of the great resort hotels on Nassau's fabulous Cable Beach. Package includes welcome breakfast, city tour and cocktail party.
From $779 per person, departing Calgary and Edmonton.
21 days in Nassau.
Fiesta Holidays 3-week package takes you to the South Ocean Beach Hotel, which has its own PGA rated golf course. Price includes scuba clinic, tennis, sailing and rum punch party.
From $949 per person, departing Vancouver and Victoria.

Fabulous nightlife.
In The Bahamas, the end of a perfect day can be the start of a beautiful night! There are nightclubs, cabarets and dozens of fine restaurants, some offering gourmet food from around the world and others specializing in Bahamian delights like conch (pronounced conk) and grouper from the shallow ocean around our sandy shores. For a taste of real excitement, visit the great casinos in Nassau/Paradise Island and Freeport. If you don't care to play, it costs nothing to watch . . . and it's almost as much fun!
(It's better in The Bahamas)

Bargain-price shopping.
Shop Nassau's busy Bay Street or Freeport's famous International Bazaar for cameras and cardigans, crystal and china, perfumes, jewellery and much, much more . . . at much, much less than Canadian or even U.S. prices. Remember that if you're away for seven days or more, you can take $150 worth of bargains back into Canada without paying a nickel in duty.

Alpinist's dream filled with tradition

Neustift's year-round fame swirls among clouds

By EVELYN OLDHAM

NEUSTIFT, Austria—This town could be a model for any depressed town looking for subsidies.

Neustift is a village with little farmland in the Austrian province of Tyrol. It has 3,300 [illegible] energetic people who have made the village so attractive to alpine lovers and ski[illegible] last year numbered 750,000.

The visitors weren't all from neighboring countries looking for lower prices—7,000 came from South Africa last winter during the southern hemisphere summer.

Neustift's big attraction is that it has the largest year-round skiing in Tyrol, thanks to glaciers. Also it is easily reached from the Olympic winter sports city of Innsbruck—only 25 kilometres to the southwest.

Nature has amply endowed Neustift. Up above, in a ring, are 40 peaks rising more than 10,000 feet high plus 40 glaciers, creating a world of everlasting snow.

A local priest, Franz Senn, realized the potential of the area a century ago and started the German-Austrian Alpine Club which has been attracting alpinists for 105 years.

In turn the club beckoned British skiers who long ago founded the legendary Kandahar Ski Club.

Franz Senn's memory lives on in a five-storey gabled dormitory at 6,000 feet where skiers can bed down cheaply.

Because Neustift developed slowly as a holiday centre, with farmers taking in guests and later expanding into pensions and guest houses, it still is filled with tradition and Tyrolean atmosphere.

The domed church still rises above the largest hotel, built in Tyrolean style with steep roofs and balconies which in summer are draped with flowers and in winter hung with crystal icicles.

Brass bands strike up at any excuse—a torchlight procession or a village festival, the musicians all dressed up in furry felt hats with rosettes and curving feathers and jackets with metal buttons and velvet collars.

Townspeople use their aptitude for meetings and discussions to develop facilities for visitors—whether a swimming pool or another inn.

Sometimes villagers turn down a proposal—so its supporters form a company, find financial backing and go ahead on their own.

As a result the burghers can boast indoor and outdoor swimming pools, a recreation and fitness centre with saunas, solarium and squash courts; a bowling alley, tennis courts and a series of gondolas, cable cars, chair lifts and T-bars that move 7,200 skiers an hour.

Also of pride is the highest ski station in Austria, complete with restaurant, pro shop and ski shop.

A week's stay in a family-run pension costs around $80 with a breakfast of rye bread and smoked bacon.

In the village are discos, dance spots, folklore shows and band concerts. Visitors who don't want to schuss the slopes all day can try skating, tobogganing, curling, hiking on groomed paths, or cross country skiing on 60 kilometres of Nordic trails.

Getting to Neustift from Innsbruck is part of its attraction. Snowy peaks gleam in the sun along the Brenner Autobahn which crosses the Europa bridge, striding the highest valley in Europe.

The autobahn is the historic road of Roman legions, popes, emperors, pilgrims, soldiers, artists, craftsmen, minstrels, vagrants and fugitives.

Fault PWA's, Says Boeing

VANCOUVER (CP) — A plane crash at Cranbrook last February which claimed 43 lives was caused by improper handling of the plane, not by a failing in the plane itself, Boeing Aircraft Co. says.

In a defence statement filed in British Columbia Supreme Court against a suit brought by Emily May Gray of Calgary, mother of one of the crash victims, the company says the 737 aircraft would have been controllable if the crew had complied with proper operating procedures.

Boeing's attempt to deny liability for the accident says a Pacific Western Airlines crew aborted a landing and tried to take off again—contrary to recognized procedures—after selecting reverse thrust.

Boeing says the crew tried a takeoff when they should have known the reverse thrusters were not fully stowed and locked and they applied the left rudder heavily, which caused the plane to bank steeply to the left. The plane then lost altitude and crashed.

The statement of defence says the plane approached Cranbrook airport below minimum altitudes and when weather conditions were below specified minimums for ceiling and visibility.

Boeing also says Pacific Western Airlines failed to train or require its flight crews to operate aircraft in line with air traffic control clearances and failed periodically to test crew members' knowledge of operation of the 737.

The aircraft company and seven other defendants in the Gray case asked that the suit be dismissed with costs. The Gray action is one of several in connection with the crash.

PEN PROBE: 'NO NEED'

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) — There is no need for a public inquiry into conditions at the British Columbia Penitentiary which was demanded by a prisoners' committee, the prison's director said Friday.

Herb Reynett also said in an interview there is no foundation to the prisoners' allegations of mistreatment outlined in a letter smuggled from the federal maximum-security institution.

'Bring Hydro to Heel'

VANCOUVER (CP) - Government-owned British Columbia Hydro must be brought to heel by politicians and be required to justify its actions, a Vancouver lawyer said Friday.

Harry Hunter, who represented the B.C. Wildlife Federation in 1977 hearings on Hydro's application for a water licence to build the Revelstoke Dam, said in an interview that the company has never been challenged before cabinet.

"They have never had to justify their rates, load forecasts, or anything," Hunter said. "Hydro isn't responsible to anybody as far as I can see."

Hunter said the corporation operates under two cabinet orders approved in 1965 and has the authority to flood land, dam rivers, expropriate private property and sell power. The orders have never been rescinded.

"One thing I'd like to see is for Hydro and the gas companies to juistify their projects. The question should be asked: Do we need these power projects."

Hunter said he would never accuse B.C. Hydro staff of incompetence.

Lawyers Request Tax Break

VANCOUVER (CP) — Lawyers attending a regional conference here resolved Thursday to urge Finance Minister Jean Chretien to afford them the same tax status as veterinarians.

The resolution, made during a meeting of the British Columbia branch of the Canadian Bar Association's provincial council, came in the wake of new federal tax proposals.

Under the new scheme, lawyers, dentists, medical doctors and accountants—unlike veterinarians and engineers—will not be permitted to form corporations for tax purposes.

The conference also was told that the newly-appointed chief judges of B.C.'s senior courts have been included on a committee which will propose changes to legislation that governs the conduct of provincial court judges.

Matching Grant Snag to Federal Aid

The federal government's commitment of grants for pulp mill modernization in B.C. depends on the provincial government agreeing to match the grants dollar for dollar, Senator Ray Perrault said Friday.

However, B.C. Forests Minister Tom Waterland said B.C. pulp mills had a very good year in 1978 and do not need subsidizing.

Under the program, senior governments would pay up to 25 per cent of the costs, while private enterprise would pay the remaining 75 per cent of any modernization programs.

Perrault said he plans to discuss the program with B.C. ministers attending a constitutional conference in Ottawa next week and feels sure Waterland may rethink his position after the proposal is presented in full.

Perrault's provided details of the grant program at a news conference following an announcement Thursday that the federal government is committing $235 million during the next five to seven years to modernize the pulp and paper industry across Canada.

The Senate leader also said the federal government is willing to unilaterally provide grants for pulp mill and sawmill modernization and reforestation and that it is seeking a forestry management agreement with the B.C. similar to agreements with five other provinces.

B.C. would receive most of the $39 million slated for pulp mill modernization in Western Canada if the provincial government agrees to share costs of the grant program, Perrault said.

Perrault stressed the grants are not an election giveaway of taxpayers' dollars to major forest products firms, but a means of improving Canada's competitive position and "to ensure an ever-increasing number of jobs for workers."

Detailing the grant criteria, he said money is only available for programs which otherwise would not be undertaken without assistance. Grants are not available for programs for which companies have already set aside funding and those subsidized must return an equal sum in benefits back to the community.

Meanwhile, Perrault said the federal government is willing to pay up to $28.8 million toward the cost of a $50 million drydock being built by Burrard-Yarrows Corporation in nearby North Vancouver. Tenders for that project will be offered this fall.

PLEASE KEEP OFF THE GRASS

SIGN OF THE SNOWY TIMES in Prince George isn't as incongruous as it seems. Randy Danchuk, seen here clearing a path for pedestrians, explained that motorists had been using the area as a parking lot and damaging the grass below the snow.

Airline Decided Not To Jump

MONTREAL (CP) — Air Canada's $47-million profit in 1978 appears to have made an impression in Patch Grove, Wis.

The following letter, addressed simply to Air Canada, Montreal, arrived from Patch Grove this week:

Dear Sir,

I'm writing to you to see if you would be interested in making a loan of $1,400,000.

The loan will be used for the building of a rabbit meat processing plant and growing facilities (to be) located at Withee, Wisconsin . . .

If you would be interested in this project, let me hear from you. Please state your terms in your first letter. After I hear from you I'll send you more information on this project.

Dan Hertrampf, president, Wisconsin Hare's.

If there is a Patch Grove, it's too small for the National Geographic Atlas. As for Air Canada, it has other plans for its money.

Now we'd like to hear from the kind of people who can help us expand even more.

As a Commercial Lender, in one of our larger branches, you'll get hands-on experience in dealing with corporate accounts. You will be accountable not only for increasing existing accounts but for identifying and developing new business opportunities as well. You'll market the full range of bank services to these organizations.

You will have specific profit and growth objectives to meet and will be measured on how effectively you manage your commercial accounts.

We'd like to hear from you if you have 3-5 years account management or credit experience with a bank or other financial institution. You must have a demonstrated ability with the many facets of Commercial Lending, including negotiating with customers, and possess a large amount of personal initiative and leadership ability.

If this sounds like your opportunity, we'd like to hear from you. Just send your detailed resume to:

Inquiry a Witchhunt - UFAWU

VANCOUVER (CP) — A federal combines investigation into the British Columbia fishing industry is a witchhunt to gather evidence for criminal charges against the United Fishermen and Allied Workers Workers Union, union president Jack Nichol said Friday.

Nichol said he and two other leaders of the union have asked the Federal Court of Canada to stop a federal combines investigation act inquiry involving union officers.

The inquiry has been adjourned to Tuesday to allow the court to rule on the application to halt the hearings.

Japanese Eye New Capital City

By TERRY ANDERSON
Associated Press

TOKYO — The Japanese are thinking seriously of moving the capital of the country out of Tokyo. It would take $20 billion, at least, to do so.

"We have to do something," said Tokugo Sakai of the Japan National Land Agency and head of the group studying the question.

"The population of Tokyo metropolitan area is now 27 million people. By the year 2000, it will be 35 million.

"A number of city services are saturated, including water, energy, housing, waste disposal. Living conditions are getting worse. The heavy concentration of people and industries means the area is vulnerable to natural disasters, especially an earthquake."

The government has set aside $500,000 to begin a Capital Reorganization Plan for Tokyo in the 21st Century.

"The study will take at least five years," Sakai said. "It will take five years after that to plan implementation of what we decide on. Then we will carry it out, probably in the 21st century."

Sakai said the capital project is part of the third development plan for Tokyo in 20 years. The first, he said, was a failure.

In 1958, the government decided to try to do something about the rapid, unorganized growth of the Tokyo area, which at that time had a population approaching 16 million.

The first development plan sought to restrict the concentration of people and industries in the city proper, and to set up satellite cities outside a 50-kilometre circle where industries could be established. The plan also included a 9½-kilometre-wide green belt around Tokyo.

The satellite cities grew, but as bedroom suburbs, not industrial centres. That threw a bigger burden on transportation facilities into and out of the capital.

In addition, expansion came so fast that the green belt got swallowed before it was ever established.

In 1965, the government junked the first development plan and tried again. The new plan tried to encourage "green areas," instead of a green belt, and moved the satellite cities even farther out. That plan didn't fare well, either, as growth continued too rapidly, although Sakai said it "couldn't be termed a failure."

One part of the second plan was a kind of pilot project for the capital move, involving the transfer of 43 government research centres to Tsukuba, a small city just north of Tokyo.

About 13,000 of the centres' 15,000 employees have moved to Tsukuba, and the rest will go this year. Sakai said the transfer of the centres eventually will take 200,000 people to the area.

CALIFORNIA RATTLED

EUREKA (UPI) — An earthquake rumbled through northwest California early today, shattering glass windows and causing items to fall off shelves.

"I think it woke up the entire county," said Lynn Turnbull of the Humboldt county sheriff's department.

She said one man reported $2,000 worth of stereo equipment was crushed against a wall.

She said some store windows were broken in Humboldt County, centre of the temblor, which also was felt in parts of Siskiyou and Trinity Counties.

The University of California at Berkeley said that the temblor registered 4.8 on the Richter Scale and struck at 1:57 a.m.

Eureka residents reported that it lasted for perhaps 30 seconds.

His Recipe For Travel Flopped

TORONTO (UPC) — A psychiatric patient who drove off with an unattended ambulance from a city hospital Friday took police somewhat aback when they eventually found him.

The man, wearing slippers and hospital clothing, was asked for identification.

He handed over a copy of the hospital's breakfast menu and declared: "These are my instructions."

Police returned him and the ambulance to Toronto Western Hospital.

A spokesman for the city's ambulance service said the vehicles are often left running outside hospitals to avoid delays when emergency calls come in.

Glazier Makes Book Curtis Won't Shelve Central Library Move

Will Greater Victoria's central library ever get moved into the spacious new facilities available only a few blocks away, or is it doomed to stay in its cramped quarters on Yates?

That question has been asked hundreds of times over the past two years, and somehow an answer has always eluded the library board.

But the final decision could be known Monday, when Provincial Secretary Hugh Curtis meets with civic and library officials.

Victoria Ald. Murray Glazier, one of those who have been pushing for a new library, says despite recent set-backs he believes Curtis will support the move to Broughton St.

"I'm fully confident it will go ahead," he said Friday.

"Curtis has been a strong supporter of the library system for some time. He's new in his portfolio, but when he's had a look at the proposal I feel he'll support it."

Library board members and Greater Victoria municipal officials were knocked back on their heels recently when Deregulation Minister Sam Bawlf warned that an expected $400,000 provincial grant would not be forthcoming.

Bawlf said the library could expect a start-up grant more in the order of $150,000.

In agreeing to support the library move, however, the four core municipalities had made it clear the endorsements would stand only if the province came through with about $400,000.

They claim — although Bawlf denies it — that the minister indicated earlier in the year that amount would probably be made available to help defray the $412,000 annual rent that's being charged.

Glazier said the possiblilty of a major reduction in financing came as a blow to municipal officials but those familiar with the library's history didn't give up hope.

"The library was established by a gift of books, in the 1880s, from a private citizen. Right from the start there was a financial controversy because there was some question about storage fees that had to be paid before the books could be acquired . . . the mayor of the day eventually put up the money.

"That was the beginning and it was a financial hassle. If you go through the history of the library now you find there were quarrels and cost-sharing fights all the way through."

Glazier said the problem is that there are a lot of differing opinons over the importance of a library.

"Sewers and water mains, sidewalks and pavement are seen by everyone as a necessary service but when it comes to libraries not everyone agrees on the importance."

He says he feels the new building on Broughton offers Greater Victoria the chance to get the kind of library facility it deserves.

Right now the proposed new library doesn't look like much, with its spacious floors cluttered with an obstacle course of construction material, but the potential is obvious.

There are walls of glass everywhere; covering in the balconied entrance, looking out over Courtenay St. to provide views of The Empress and the legislative buildings and looking in to the four-storey open courtyard.

So much light floods into the building that it seems it was designed to be an library rather than the office complex originally planned by the previous NDP government.

"It's a first class building," says Glazier, "just the kind of building you'd want for a library."

The old library, however, is found in a 1903 building that is both cramped and fluorescent-lit.

Perhaps the greatest thing the Broughton facility has is space.

There is 36,000 square feet up at the Yates location but only 20,300 of that is public space. There isn't enough room to display all the books on hand.

In the Broughton office 40,000 square feet will be set aside for the public — a 97 per cent increase.

The space, the flood of light, the open courtyard and balcony would mean a lot to a lot of people, because Victorians are book lovers.

Statistics tell the story — in an average month, 50,000 people pour through the library doors.

"And that's another reason this is such a good location for the new library," says Glazier. "If this becomes the office building it was originally supposed to be these streets around here will just be dead."

It's mess now but new site would be just perfect location — Glazier.

Rain Blanket Rolling In As Snap Snow Vanishes

Victoria had its biggest snowfall of the winter overnight and the immediate outlook is for rain, rain and more rain.

The wet snow ended the Prairie-type weather that has dominated the region for a month, with unusually cold temperatures.

A few snowflurries are possible in outlying districts tonight but by Sunday rain will be general in the region.

About noon Friday a warm system from the Pacific moved in over the cold Arctic system that has dominated the region since early January.

Moisture falling through the cold air quickly turned to snow, which continued until sunrise today.

The snowfall measured 7.9 centimetres, but most of it melted quickly and it was reduced to slush in most areas by this morning.

Driving was difficult however on side roads and hazardous on the Malahat, where a rash of minor accidents occurred despite sanding.

Saanich police reported a number of fender benders but no serious injuries.

Driving conditions were rated as fairly good in Victoria.

Taxi companies and tow trucks were busier than usual early in the morning but the rush eased off as the snow melted.

Sunday and Monday will be overcast and rain can be expected Tuesday and Wednesday.

Temperatures will continue to rise. A high of three degrees was forecast for today, rising to five Sunday and up as high as eight during the daytime next week.

Reservoirs for water supply and power generation had fallen dangerously low as a result of the drought but that problem should end with the February rain.

January was the second-dryest ever, according to weather office records.

Only 35.8 millimetres of precipitation fell compared to a normal fall of 146.3 mm. Record low for the month was in January, 1949, when it measured only 22.6 mm.

The mean (day-night average) temperature during January was one degree, compared with a norm of 2.9 degrees.

However the Prairie-type weather created the sunniest January on record with 91.6 hours, compared with a norm of 57.3 hours. However, sunshine records have only been kept for the past 10 years.

'Disc' Promoter Charged

A Victoria man was charged in provincial court Friday under the Combines Investigations Act in connection with an "energy disc."

James Freeman Batt is charged with making a representation to the public in the form of a statement, warranty or guarantee of the performance, efficiency or length of life of a product that was not based on an adequate and proper test thereof.

Batt is charged under the business name of Sunshine Jim Products and the offence is alleged to have taken place July 28 in Victoria.

Batt, who pleaded not guilty in front of Judge Fred Green and a trial date of June 15 was fixed.

Ask the Times

Q. I have received an inquiry from a friend in Britain who is trying to locate sheet music, words, record or tape in connection with two of Sophie Tucker's old numbers "I'm Having More Fun Now I'm 50" and "I'm Starting All Over Again." Apparently the material is not available in the U.K. but might be obtainable in the U.S. My inquiries here in local sheet music stores have not proved fruitful. J.M.C.

A. "I'm Starting All Over Again" is available in a book of old movie themes and can be ordered through Nelson's Music, 1315 Government. They do not have the other number in their catalogue but would be willing to try and get it for you.

U.K. Mail Backlog Arrives

Victoria-area residents whose mail from Britain has dried up in recent weeks may be in for a bonanza next week.

The post office here has been alerted by British postal authorities to stand by for 68,000 kilos of mail which has been held up by labor problems in recent weeks.

Victoria post office information officer Buz Sawyer said Friday a significant proportion of the load — probably hundreds of thousands of pieces of mail — is destined for this area.

Drug Suspect Caught

Victoria drug squad officers have arrested a 41-year-old Duncan man who had eluded police since August, 1977 after failing to appear in court on a major drug charge.

Dale Stuart Elliott was picked up shortly before noon Friday as he arrived at a marina in North Vancouver aboard a 30-foot pleasure cruiser.

Sgt. Bob Hawkes, head of the drug squad, said today Elliott will be returned to Duncan where he will face charges of conspiring to traffic in MDA and MDA-hydrochloride and trafficking in both drugs.

The charges were laid on Aug. 1, 1977 following a year-long police investigation into an MDA operation on the Island.

Also charged at the time were Arthur James Williams, 53, and Raymond Albert Ridge, 30, both of Ladysmith.

Williams is missing and presumed dead following the crash of his light plane in the Strait of Georgia Dec. 1, 1977.

Ridge was sentenced to three years in prison last November after his conviction on the conspiracy charge.

Hawkes said Elliott is also charged with possession of MDA for the purpose of trafficking stemming from an incident in Dec. 1973 also in the Duncan area.

The boat carrying Elliott was registered in the name of an unidentified woman who accompanied him. She was not arrested and no charges are contemplated.

Following Elliott's arrest officers searched a remote house on Indian Arm a couple of miles north of Deep Cove accessible only by water.

Hawkes said receipts and papers seized indicate Elliott had been living in B.C. for the past 18 months, spending much of his time on a boat.

Bay Residents Oppose Permit

Cordova Bay residents are mounting substantial opposition to Saanich school district's application for an effluent discharge permit for Claremont senior secondary school.

A Pollution Control Branch spokesman said Friday 28 objections have been filed since the school district submitted its application Jan. 3.

With the exception of the Cordova Bay Association for Community Affairs, all the objections received to date are from residents, said PCB processing engineer Jack Donald.

The Claremont application seeks a permit to discharge an average 7,500 gallons of effluent daily into a storm drain.

The school has been operating for two years without a permit.

Nearby residents claim the school's septic disposal system is faulty and that effluent seeping into ditches poses a health hazard.

However, school district officials say tests indicate the system is working efficiently and that the sewage content discharged, at 11 parts per million, is well below the permissible 40 parts per million.

Donald said no work has started on processing the application because "under controversial circumstances we don't do anything until the objection period has passed."

As the application was not advertised in the B.C. Gazette and elsewhere until Jan. 14, the 30-day period for filing objections expires in mid-February.

Donald said on the basis of tests conducted the processing engineer is required to submit a report to various PCB supervisors, and eventually a recommendation goes to the branch director or his deputy.

"If the recommendation is to refuse, it's just refused," he explained.

'Twas a Labor of Love for Wilma

max low

Work is love made visible, Syrian writer Kahlil Gibran said once.

"And if you cannot work with love but only with distaste, it is better that you should leave your work . . ."

Not everyone is fortunate enough to be able to say they work with love nor to be able to chose to leave or stay.

But Wilma Hunter was.

The Victoria woman has just retired after 21 years of teaching English to new Canadians, first under the Victoria School Board's adult education program and more recently at Camosun College, and can look back and say she loved it all.

Though since 1965 she has been pretty involved with administration as the teacher in charge of the English as a Second Language (ESL) program, Mrs. Hunter, a busy mother of four children, has over those years taught immigrants from just about every country in the world.

"It's really a joyous kind of teaching and one from which you truly get more than you put in because there are no discipline problems," she explains.

"The students are always intensely motivated to learn. You can certainly tell when you've taught a lousy lesson because they're adults and if you've bombed, you know. They don't want to waste their time and that's how a teacher knows if he or she isn't doing a good job — the students stop coming."

Wilma first started teaching English to new Canadians in Victoria in the fall of 1957, the year the Hungarian refugees came to Canada, but she became interested in the idea years before that when teaching in a Prince George high school.

"I was there when the Displaced Persons (DPs) came to this country after the war years," she says. "I met some of these people and became aware of the need for them to learn English.

"That was probably the first need for English as an additional language in Canada," Wilma points out. "It got me excited. A man started teaching the refugees in Prince George and when I came to Victoria I thought I'd like to try my hand at it.

"There hadn't been much research done on the subject but in the first year we taught we had Dr. Edith Lucas' book English and Citizenship to follow.

"That first year the students were mostly Hungarians, though we have always had mixed nationalities — Europeans from many different countries, Iranians and lots of Asians — and we have always tried to mix them up as much as possible so that English will be their only common tongue and they'll have to speak it."

When the ESL program started in Victoria there were six teachers and a few evening classes. But it grew like Topsy.

"In 1968 we opened day classes for the Czech refugees," Wilma says. "Just one day a week at first, then almost immediately it became two, then three and four."

Now there are eight classes in the day (mostly mornings), seven or eight classes running two nights a week and three more classes running four nights a week.

"This semester started Jan.8 and runs 10 weeks," Wilma explains. "But we have ongoing registration and never turn a student down. The next semester starts about March 15. We circulate information sheets around the schools and ethnic societies in five languages — English, French, Spanish, Punjabi and Chinese — pointing out there are classes and telling people to contact Camosun College."

Wilma Hunter appologizes for saying "we" all the time even though she has left (her place has been taken on an interim appointment by Mary Nemeth) but as she says, 21 years is a long time to forget.

"Everyone enjoys teaching English as a second language as there are none of the usual problems you encounter in teaching," she says. "In fact, often the students can be so funny that the only problem is you have to leave the room so you won't laugh at them."

WILMA HUNTER

I agree with Wilma on both those counts. With all due respects to my present employer, I haven't enjoyed any job as much as I did my spell of teaching in Iran.

Unlike the foreign advisers who worked on big salaries for the oil companies, I was employed by the newspaper Kayhan International on a meagre Iranian wage and both my wife and I supplimented it by teaching English. My job was with three different classes of young men who were learning to be ground control staff at Tehran International Airport. And truly, for me nothing has been so rewarding.

And that leaving the room bit . . . I can tell you!

Like the morning when Akbarzadeh handed me a letter he'd written to a friend overseas and asked me if it was okay.

"I decided write to you to invite you in Tehran," it read. "I hope you will agree to my inviting."

And the time I asked one class what you call a box in which you find matches and Hafezi said proudly "A boxing match."

On my last day at the school I was halfway through a sentence when I was interrupted by Hossein Pakravan (my brightest student) and his impromptu farewell speech.

"We are sorry Mr. Low . . . we have been as brothers with you and I am sure, wherever you travel in the world; you will never find such brotherhood and friendship as you have found in Iran and at this school."

You know, he was right

Any RRSP saves you money, ours builds it.
Industrial Growth Fund up over 400% in eleven years.*

Industrial Growth, one of six funds managed by Mackenzie Financial Corporation, has proven to be an exceptional way to make your money grow.

$1,000 invested in 1968 would be worth over $5,000 today, and this accomplished during some of the stock market's worst years. Before you invest in any RRSP plan, you owe it to your future to hear the Industrial Growth story. Call or write us for prospectus.

Saving money is one thing, making it grow is another.

THE CORPORATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF RICHMOND

FIRE CHIEF

In keeping with the Corporation's policy of having competitions for senior positions open to employees and other interested applicants, applications are invited from persons who have had considerable experience in administering the functions of a moderately large Fire Department.

The successful applicant will be responsible for planning, organizing and co-ordinating the Firefighting and Fire Prevention operations and responsible for the continuous development and improvement of the Department within a progressive Municipality.

The Fire Chief reports to the Director of Engineering Services, but is expected to exercise a high degree of independent action and judgment in administrative and technical problems.

QUALIFICATIONS: Completion of Grade 12 supplemented by a thorough knowledge of administrative methods, techniques and practices as applied to Fire Department operations. Ability to communicate effectively and promote and maintain effective public relations for the Department.

SALARY: Commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Please submit applications in writing, giving full details of qualifications, education and experience, to:

The Personnel Director,
THE CORPORATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF RICHMOND,
6911 No. 3 Road,
Richmond, B.C. V6Y 2C1

Bennett Sold His Bit: Lea

While Premier Bill Bennett's picture is on the cover of this week's Maclean's magazine with his statement that B.C. is not for sale, an NDP MLA said Friday that Bennett has sold a bit of it himself.

Graham Lea (Prince Rupert) said he was looking through newspaper clippings when he found a 1971 story saying Bennett and his brother sold 25 acres of land in their hometown of Kelowna to Marathon Realty for $875,000.

Marathon is the real eatate arm of Canadian Pacific. CP controls Canadian Pacific Investments, a company that unsuccessfully attempted to take control of MacMillan Bloedel Ltd., the Vancouver-based forest giant, prompting Bennett's statement that the province is not for sale.

"It seems there are two sets of standards the premier is asking British Columbia to keep — one for him and his family and one for the rest of us," said Lea.

"Of course, that was back in the days when the premier wasn't interested in votes so much as he was interested in money."

TMT
THE MOTOR TREATMENT ...the greatest chemical discovery for any engine since the invention of the automobile itself!

JUST ADD IT TO YOUR OIL ONE-TIME-ONLY . . . LOOK AT THE RESULTS OF THIS PERMANENT ENGINE TREATMENT THAT IS ROCKING THE ENTIRE AUTOMOTIVE INDUSTRY!

"T.M.T." penetrates every crack—every scratch—every pit mark—every hole . . . giving your engine a satin-smooth surface that's virtually free of metal-to-metal contact in cylinder walls, piston rings and bearings!

"T.M.T." allows the oil to flow freer and faster—it reduces heat and wear—as it helps eliminate the greatest engine destructor of all . . . FRICTION!

"T.M.T." — NOT AN OIL TREATMENT — BUT A PERMANENT ONE-TIME-ONLY ENGINE TREATMENT!"

Guaranteed safe—can not possibly harm your engine or component parts in any way whatsoever—and no need to use "special" oils or additives in order to add "T.M.T." to your engine. Simply open crankcase cover and pour 1 full-sized unit of "T.M.T." right into the present oil you are now using. Highly-concentrated 8 oz. container means no overflow or necessity to drain out some of your oil in order to effect full treatment!

UNCONDITIONALLY GUARANTEED!

BETTER GAS MILEAGE! Which occurs because less friction brings about reduced gas consumption with more miles to the gallon!

SAVINGS ON EXCESSIVE OIL BURNING! And the less wasted oil you use—the more efficiently the intricate mechanism in your engine will function!

SMOOTHER ENGINE PERFORMANCE! An engine that "purrs" with less vibration when idling and operates in a higher peak condition!

INCREASED HORSEPOWER AND HIGHER COMPRESSION! Which gives you more "get up and go" everytime you step on the gas pedal. Your car responds with smoother, easier performance—and less strain on the engine!

LONGER ENGINE LIFE! Less wear on internal parts can add years of life to an engine with dependable, trouble-free performance and durability that can save big dollars on less repair and replacement costs!

ALSO

THE AUTOMOTIVE SURFACE TREATMENT

The ultimate in finishes. Eliminates waxing completely. Made from Macromolecular Terpolymer. Unaffected by temperature, weather or sunlight. 3-5 times more durable than wax.

If you would like to try T.M.T. or Supercoat at no risk, we'll rush you a full-sized $25.00 unit of T.M.T. and/or an $8.50 unit of Supercoat for just $20.00 and $7.00 respectively, and guarantee your money back if you are not completely satisfied.

The views of the Mining Association of B.C. on uranium mining and nuclear power are uninformed and foolish, a spokesman for the Sierra Club of Western Canada said Friday.

Bob Nixon said the association is the victim of distorted and erroneous information from Atomic Energy of Canada and provincial electrical utilities.

P. R. Matthew, mining association managing director, said Wednesday that opponents of nuclear power were using scare tactics and misinformation to prevent development of uranium mining and shut down nuclear plants.

Nixon said it was unfortunate the association intends to participate in the forthcoming public inquiry into uranium while closing its eyes to the broader implications of uranium mining.

Nixon said the provincial inquiry will fail to deal with the problem of nuclear power unless its terms of reference are broadened.

Camosun College Council

Five members of the 1978 Camosun College Council have been reappointed by Andy Soles, associate deputy minister of education.

They are Bruce Winsby, Curtis Purden, Bill Mann, Peter Dorazio and Janet Baird.

Mrs. Baird, a former Greater Victoria school trustee, was chairman of the college council last year, and Dorazio also represented the school board. The other three were appointed to the council by the education ministry last year.

The school board has appointed trustees Dr. Martin Leven, Win Mott, Mary Breer and Dr. Mark Fisher to the council.

5-Year Sentence For Flight

FORT LEWIS, Wash. (AP) — An Army soldier who gained 10 days of freedom by disappearing with a light plane has received a sentence of five years at hard labor for the stunt.

A court-martial Thursday also ordered that Pfc. Jay C. Turner, 18, of Brookfield, Wis., receive a bad-conduct discharge and have his rank reduced to the lowest grade, said Fort Lewis spokesman Bill Wood.

Turner set off a search in British Columbia after his Cessna 172, rented from the Fort Lewis Flying Club, crashed in a field and was found Nov. 5.

Turner was arrested Nov. 14 in Tacoma and pleaded guilty to larceny and willful destruction of government property. The court martial found him guilty of desertion as well.

Turner told the seven-member court-martial that he was trying to establish a new identity, inspired by an episode of the television series The Rockford Files.

He said he had no desire to leave the Army permanently but wanted to leave for several months to help an ailing truck driver whom he had befriended.

He never admitted directly that he parachuted and let the plane crash.

Shootout Winners Losers in Lockers

By JIM CRERAR
Times Staff

UVic Vikings went over the 100 mark for the third league game in a row Friday night, but it cost them in the locker room.

Vikings outdistanced the third-place Lethbridge Pronghorns 105-86 in a Canada West University Athletic Association men's basketball game before about 1,000 at McKinnon Gym.

But while the Vikes were shooting down their foes on the court, somebody got into their dressing room and rifled their wallets. Forward Ted Anderson lost $50 and Chris Hebb was missing $4.

Nothing else appeared to have been swiped.

That wasn't all. Coach Ken Shields was highly displeased with the way Vikings played.

"It was our worst defensive game since Christmas and there was no excuse for it," he said. "We're trying to establish a consistency of tempo with this team. We get 20 points ahead and everybody tries to play offence and forgets the defence. So instead of playing basketball, we get into a track meet."

It was an apt description of the game. Vikings started out playing well both ways, running up a 12-0 margin by 3½ minutes and leading 21-4 by 5½ minutes. After that, though, it degenerated into a foot race among the players and an exercise in higher mathematics among the scorers.

The truth is, Vikings have been getting failing grades for defence in their last two Canada West games. Last weekend in Saskatoon they beat Saskatchewan Huskies 114-68 and 102-80.

Offensively their three-game output looks impressive — 321 points for an average of 107 a game. But they've given up 234 points in that span, an average of 78 a game, so it's obvious why Shields is disgruntled.

His only respite was Tuesday's 85-78 exhibition win over Simon Fraser Clansmen. While that 78 total also seems high, it came against a team that Shields ranks with the top 10 in the country.

In any case, Friday's astronomical display enabled Vikings to retain their league lead. The win was their 12th against one loss — in Lethbridge before Christmas.

And at least guard Robbie Parris, eighth in the latest CWUAA scoring statistics, and scoring leader Reni Dolcetti escaped Shields' post-game wrath. Parris' 29 points and two-way effort and Dolcetti's 18-point performance earned praise from the coach.

UVic Vikettes, meanwhile, moved closer to clinching a playoff berth in a Canada West women's game that was similar to the men's in one respect — the defence faltered in the second half.

Vikettes beat Lethbridge 64-45, largely on the strength of a fine first half, in which they stifled their fifth-place foes 33-13. But the game got a little scrambly after that and the result was 50 turnovers, 25 by each team.

Michele Belanger earned full marks from coach Kathy Shields for her checking efforts against Lethbridge's Donna Hanna, third in league scoring at a 15.2-points-per-game clip. Hanna got only six Friday.

Vikettes have five games remaining in their schedule and can make the playoffs by winning three of them.

There was some encouraging news concerning forward Jane Favali, sidelined with a torn ligament in her right knee. Favali will be fitted with a special brace coming from Edmonton next week and there's a chance she'll return for the playoffs and possibly Vikettes' last two league games.

Meanwhile, Vikings and Vikettes resume action against Lethbridge tonight at McKinnon Gym with the women starting at 6:45 and the men at 8:30.

Skillings 'Steals' Past Longmore

By BILL WALKER
Times Staff

DUNCAN — Two Victoria rinks met head on in the first draw of the Pacific Coast Curling Association here Friday night and it turned out to be the best game of the night.

Steve Skillings of Victoria Curling Club won it from Bart Longmore of Playland 4-3 with a steal of two on the 10th end, but until the last rock was thrown, Longmore should have been the winner.

The bearded Playland skip had been in control from the start and was never behind until the fatal 10th.

He took a single in the second. Skillings was forced to take one in the third. Longmore then blanked the fourth and fifth ends and had a chance for three in the sixth but was a touch heavy on a takeout and had to settle for only one.

In the seventh, it was Skillings' turn to miss an excellent chance for three. With last rock and needing only a hit and a stick for three, he came out a trifle heavy and wide and Longmore stole a point to go ahead 3-1.

Skillings got one back on the eighth and Longmore blanked the ninth to set the stage for the climax.

Skillings got the advantage when he had got a rock in the back of the four-foot and a rock in the front of the eight foot. He had a saver in the 12-foot on the centre line, with two rocks out in front, when Longmore went down for his last stone.

Longmore had three choices:

One was to draw to the other side of the four-foot. A second choice was to play a gentle tap back on the rock in the eight foot, give Skillings a point and go for the extra end. Third choice was to go for a a double and the game or possibly a tie. He chose to play the hit and stick on the rock in the eight foot for second shot.

He came out heavy. The rock wouldn't pull. He hit the stone in the eight-foot, punched it through the house and rolled out himself to leave Skillings lying two and the victmry.

It was virtually the same shot he had played in the sixth end when he had missed a three-ender.

In other games, defending British Columbia champion Bernie Sparkes of Vancouver got the jump early on an off-color Glen Pierce, also of Vancouver, to score a 6-5 victory; Wayne Saxbee of Abbotsford defeated Jim Armstrong of Richmond 7-4, and Ivan Carlisle of Port Alberni dumped Brent Giles of Vancouver 8-4.

Sparkes was always ahead against Pierce, who missed several good chances in the early ends that could have turned the game around.

Armstrong could never find the ice against Saxbee, who stole four successive points on the sixth, seventh and eight ends.

Carlisle breezed away to a 5-0 lead over Giles but still had to throw his last rock to preserve the win.

Skillings was to meet Carlisle and Sparkes was up against Saxbee in today's first draw. Longmore meets Giles and Armstrong faced Pierce in the "B" event with the losers bowing out of the double-knockout affair.

Winner of the PCCA playoff will meet the BCCA (Interior) champion in a best-of-three series for the provincial championship at Cranbrook Feb. 12-13.

TWO RINKS SHARE SCHOOLBOY LEAD

VANCOUVER (CP) — Chris Mueller of Kitimat and Guy Corrigan of Fernie were tied for first place Friday with 4-1 records after five rounds in the British Columbia schoolboy curling championships in nearby Port Moody.

In New Westminster, Patti Jennings of Argyle of North Vancouver, Karina Dzuida of Kitimat and Diana Cook of Carson Graham of North Vancouver were tied for the lead in the girls' division with 4-1 records.

Mueller defeated Keith Britz of Chilliwack 7-5 in fifth-round play, after thumping Alan Blackmore of Quesnel 12-1 and Doug McGillvray of Centennial of Coquitlam 14-1 in the third and fourth rounds.

Corrigan nipped Blackmore 7-5 in the fifth round after beating Stacey Coomber of Powell River 10-4 and Paul Mullock of Sutherland of North Vancouver 5-4.

In girls' play, Kerry Randle of Mount Douglas in Victoria, overpowered Colleen Shipton of Winfield 13-1 after losing an 11-7 decision in the fourth round and scoring a 10-3 victory in the third.

All-Star Snub on Mind, Free Hits Career High

By Associated Press

Lloyd Free of San Diego Clippers, who grumbled openly after being overlooked for duty in the National Basketball Association All-Star game, backed up his remarks against Denver Nuggets.

Free, the snub ever on his mind, scored a career-high 49 points Friday night in carrying the Clippers to a 124-100 rout — ruining the coaching debut of Donnie Walsh.

"I was thinking about it, since I wasn't chosen," said Free, who made 12 of his 15 first-half, field-goal attempts and had 28 points at intermission. "I'm going to show them on the court."

"I was prepared not to make the (all-star) team because of the bad reputation given to me in Philadelphia," said Free, who joined the Clippers this season from the '76ers.

The six-foot-three guard, with a display of slam dunks and outside jump shots, helped San Diego to its 16th victory in 25 games while carrying the Clippers to the .500 mark at 27-27.

The Nuggets, meanwhile, reached the all-star break with a 28-26 mark.

"This has been a very difficult week for our team," said Walsh, who replaced Larry Brown on Thursday night. "The all-star break comes at an opportune time for us. Our team needs to relax. I don't plan any major changes. I haven't really had a chance to talk to the team yet."

He'll get that chance during the break for the All-Star Game, which will be played Sunday afternoon at Pontiac, Mich.

In the other NBA games Friday night, Seattle SuperSonics nipped Milwaukee Bucks 104-102, Boston Celtics beat Cleveland Cavaliers 112-98, Indiana Pacers trimmed Golden State Warriors 87-84, New York Knicks edged Philadelphia '76ers 105-101 and Chicago Bulls topped New Orleans Jazz 116-110.

Meanwhile, Washington Bullets dropped Houston Rockets 120-106, Kansas City Kings pasted Detroit Pistons 130-114, Phoenix Suns blasted San Antonio Spurs 133-108 and Portland Trail Blazers dumped New Jersey Nets 117-100.

VETERAN STUNNED

MISSISSAUGA, Ont. (CP) — Bettina Bunge, 15, of Coral Gables, Fla., stunned veteran Renata Tomanova of Czechoslovakia 6-3, 2-6, 6-1, to move into the semi-finals of a $25,000 women's tennis tournament.

In the third set, after falling behind 0-1, Bunge, ranked second in the 16-and-under division in the United States behind Tracy Austin, ran off six successive games, combining topspin, slice and chip shots to confuse the 24-year-old Tomanova to win 6-1.

In Friday's other quarter-final match, Jeanne DuVall of Dallas, Tex., defeated Marjorie Blackwood of Ottawa 6-3, 6-4.

Both DuVall and Bunge now have qualified for the next two tournaments, to be held in Seattle and Los Angeles.

HANNI WENZEL TAKES SLALOM

PFRONTEN, West Germany (AP) — Hanni Wenzel of Liechtenstein won a women's World Cup slalom ski race today with a combined time of 1:37.49, ahead of Francois Serrat of France who was second in 1:37.58.

Third was Regina Sackel of Liechtenstein in 1:37.89.

All-Canadian Division Byproduct of Offer?

By The Canadian Press

Hamilton Mayor Jack MacDonald welcomed a federal government announcement Friday that might help to bring National Hockey League franchises to his city, Winnipeg, Edmonton and Quebec City, a move that ultimately could lead to the formation of an all-Canadian division.

Recently, MacDonald has been meeting individuals over construction plans and financial aid for a private arena.

"In two or three weeks I hope to be able to reveal those plans," the mayor said. "At this time, I don't want to go too far because further explanations would be required. That could prove premature and to our disadvantage."

Earlier, the four cities were offered a total of $18.15 million by Iona Campagnolo, federal minister for fitness and amateur sport. She told a news conference the money would facilitate the cities obtaining NHL franchises at some future date.

Winnipeg, Quebec and Hamilton would receive up to $5 million each, with Edmonton getting $3.15 million. The funds would be paid out over a five-year period — subject to matching funds being made available by provincial and civic governments.

The grants are contingent in the cities actually obtaining NHL franchises and on their making the arenas available to all amateur sports groups.

Winnipeg, Quebec and Edmonton have teams in the World Association. Hamilton has no professional hockey team. The city had an NHL franchise from 1921 to 1925, when it was switched to New York City.

In Hamilton, John Munro, Liberal member of Parliament for Hamilton East, said he will meet NHL governors in New York next week to seek a franchise for Hamilton.

"We expect the WHA will disappear in the early future and that existing franchises in Edmonton, Winnipeg and Quebec City will be absorbed to form a Canadian division of the NHL," he added.

Quebec City mayor Jean Pelletier said the announcement made him "profoundly happy."

It will cost an estimated $15 million to expand the Colisee de Quebec to 15,000 seats from its current 10,000 to meet NHL standards.

The provincial government has indicated its willingness to provide $5 million toward the projected refurbishing.

The city plans to contribute $2.5 million and was counting on the suburban municipalities provide an equal amount. But at a meeting earlier this week, the suburban mayors refused to vote their portion.

In Edmonton, Mayor Cec Purves said his city is entitled to the same amount of federal money as the other cities, despite the fact it already has a 15,00-seat arena, which meets NHL standards.

"We're in the situation that we have debts on that existing building," Purves said.

In New York, John Ziegler, president of the NHL, said he received details of the federal plan in a telegram from Campagnolo but offered no comment until he has studied all of the details.

Physiotherapist's Work Load Sliced

Wes Byrnell still is busy, but the work load isn't quite as big as it used to be.

Byrnell, one-time trainer with hockey's Montreal Canadiens who has turned his back on other employment offers from pro baseball and football teams in order to live in Victoria, is the physiotherapist who has been nursing Victoria Cougars of the Western Hockey League.

And, with five Cougars sidelined at one time in recent days, it has been a demanding job.

But defenceman Scott Lang, leftwinger George Fritz and, possibly, rookie defenceman Robert Jacobson all are due to return to the Victoria lineup when the Cougars face Billings Bighorns, the Central Division leaders, at Memorial Arena tonight.

Only winger Bob Smith, still being treated for shoulder and knee problems, is a definite non-starter.

The combined efforts of Brynell, trainer Gord Hahn and team doctor Dan Buie is appreciated by Cougar coach Jack Shupe.

Brynell's understanding of athletic injuries, said Shupe, is outstanding. It is the main reason, suspects Shupe, that Cougars will have a lineup tonight which borders on the normal.

"If it weren't for the physiotherapy," he added, "some of the players still wouldn't be ready."

The bolstering of the troops is timely. Tonight's game is the first of five the Cougars will play in the next eight days.

Billings, also facing a busy week, opened its swing of the Western Division by dropping a 4-3 decision to the Bruins in New Westminster. In other Friday games, Seattle Breakers tied Portland Winter Hawks 5-5, Lethbridge Broncos nipped the visiting Regina Pats 3-2, Calgary Wranglers beat Saskatoon Blades 6-3 and Brandon Wheat Kings defeated Edmonton 8-2.

Dynasties Allow Few Easy Rides

Some of the injured are on the mend and are due to return, but Victoria Data-Tech, even in prime health, can't expect an easy ride in this weekend's Northwest International Men's Basketball League series at Central Junior High.

For one thing, Seattle Dynasties, defending-champions and the third-ranked United States amateur team for the past three seasons, rarely allow "easy rides."

Victoria, with a 5-5 won-lost record in league play, faces the mighty Dynasties tonight at 8:30 and again Sunday at 1 p.m.

Two preliminaries will precede tonight's game. Victoria Home Lumber will meet Seattle in a seniop "A" women's encounter at 5:30 while Ivy's Disco will face Burnaby in a "B" men's matchup at 7.

Home Lumber and Seattle also will meet Sunday at 11:30 a.m.

Plagued by a rash of recent injuries, the health picture has improved for Data-Tech, facing a team with a 6-1 record.

Thetis Relays Sunday

Friday's snowfall isn't expected to dampen the enthusiasm of entrants when the 12th annual Thetis Lake Relays are staged Sunday.

One of the most popular running events held in the district, and sponsored by the University of Victoria cross-country team, the relays are expected to attract the customary large entry.

Racing is on a relay format, with four runners on each team, but entrants do not have to be members of teams in order to compete.

Competition will be open to anyone, with divisions ranging from masters to an under-10 category. Registrations begin at 10 a.m. at the main beach area and will be accepted up to 30 minutes before each race.

SCHEDULE: 11 a.m. — girls 10 and under; 11:30 a.m. — boys 10 and under; noon, girls 11; 12:30 p.m. — boys 11; 1 p.m. — junior boys and girls, senior girls, open women and recreational runners; 3 p.m. — senior boys, open men and masters.

Hinkle Proves Power With Eight-Iron on 17

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — A little matter of club selection was indicative of two things at the $300,000 Bing Crosby golf tournament Friday — the power of Lon Hinkle and the strength of the cold winds that howled over the Monterey Peninsula.

Hinkle was standing on the tee on the par-three, 17th hole at the Pebble Beach course debating which club to use to negotiate the 209 yards to the pin, set in a green jutting into Carmel Bay.

It was on that hole that Jack Nicklaus hit one of the best-remembered one-iron shots in Professional Golfers' Association history in his victory at the 1972 United States Open.

But Hinkle, probably the longest hitter in golf, had the wind behind him and chose an eight-iron.

"Impossible," commented one long-time golf observer.

"I can believe it," said golfer Leonard Thompson. "There aren't four men ever lived can hit it bigger than Lonnie."

The shot landed 15 feet from the cup. Hinkle rolled it in for birdie, chipped in for another birdie on No. 18 and, with a four-under-par 68, took a two-shot lead in today's third round.

He had a 138 total, six under par, with Cypress Point yet to play. Thompson and Curtis Strange shared second at 140 halfway through this event that has the pros playing one round on each of three courses before returning to Pebble Beach for the final 18 on Sunday.

Thompson had a 69 and Strange a 70 at Cypress Point, possibly the easiest of the three courses.

John Schroeder and rookie Brad Bryant were at 141. Schroeder had a 71 at Cypress, Bryant 70 at Spyglass Hill. The group at 142 included Pat McGowan, Gil Morgan and Tommy Valentine. McGowan had the best round of the cold, windy day—a 67—while Morgan shot 73, both at Cypress. Valentine fired a 71 at Pebble Beach.

The three men who shared the first-round lead at 68—Jay Haas, Graham Marsh and Mike McCullough—drifted back. Marsh, troubled by a pulled muscle in the right leg, shot 77 at Spyglass. McCullough shot 75 on the same course. Haas took a 77 at Cypress Point.

Tom Watson, winner of the Crosby the last two years, struggled to a 76-148 at Spyglass. John Mahaffey, winner of the Bob Hope tournament, went over par for the first time this season with 75-145 at Spyglass. Ben Crenshaw was 75-146 at Spyglass.

Tour favorite Lee Trevino shot 78-153.

Bays Stretch Victory March

Oak Bay Bays continue to march along unbeaten while Victoria-area teams got away to a good start in the annual Oak Bay high school girls' basketball tournament Friday.

The Dave Morgan-coached Bays rambled to their sixth straight victory by tripping Victoria High Totems 75-51 in a Greater Victoria Boys' League matchup at Vic High.

Wayne Andrews paced Oak Bay's attack with 25 points while Wayne Russell replied with 18 for the Totems, who trailed 45-30 at the half.

Oak Bay, Victoria High and Reynolds Roadrunners came up with victories in the opening games of the Oak Bay girls' tournament.

Sue Chowen scored 16 points to spark the host Bays to a 49-42 victory over Garbaldi of Squamish. Vic High nipped Nanaimo 35-31 and Reynolds topped Dunsmuir 49-28. Prince Margaret of Coquitlam was the only non-Victoria winner, dereating Windsor of Vancouver 67-51.

At Cowichan Friday, the Thunderbirds boosted their won-lost record in the North Island Boys' League to 4-1 by trouncing Powell River 71-38 behind the starry performance of Jim Larson. He scored 30 points and hauled down 21 rebounds.

Volleyball Power In Saskatchewan

VANCOUVER — University of Saskatchewan men's and women's volleyball teams recorded two victories each in the opening day of a Canada West University Athletic Association tournament Friday.

Saskatchewan men beat British Columbia 15-11, 15-13, 15-8 and then edged Victoria 15-7, 15-9, 1-15, 15-9.

In other men's games, Victoria dropped Calgary 15-5, 15-2, 15-5 and Alberta beat Calgary 15-9, 15-4, 8-15, 16-14.

The Saskatchewan women beat Victoria's Vikettes 15-13, 15-4, 12-15, 15-10 and then dumped Calgary 15-2, 15-8-15-10.

UBC defeated Alberta 15-7, 15-13, 15-13 and then struggled to a tough 13-15, 15-0, 9-15, 15-10, 15-11 win over the Vikettes.

The round-robin tournament concludes today.

Just One Gold For Host Town

SMITHERS (CP) — The form chart went out the window Friday as the fifth annual British Columbia Winter Games opened with medals in 11 events on the line.

In previous years, the host city dominated the games but Smithers managed only a gold medal in the junior downhill ski team event on opening day.

Badminton was the big sport Friday with eight titles decided.

Diane Wilson, of Kispiox, won the junior women's singles and teamed with Gaylene Kawinsky of Terrace to capture the doubles. Liz-Anne Ogden of Quesnel was another double winner as she captured the senior women's singles and combined with Brenda Boyd of Williams Lake to win the doubles.

Cassiar entrants did well in men's singles. Anil Kaul won the junior men's title and Ken Madsen took the senior men's event. The Terrace tandem of Chuck Cey and Gordon Clent won the men's doubles while Grant Franklin and Steven Okrainee of Fort St. John won the junior doubles.

Valerie Fenton of Chetwynd won the women's two-kilometre showshoe event while Anthony Wright of Vanderhoof captured the men's two-kilometre title.

The games are a scaled-down version of ones held in Prince George last year, but facilities are taxed in this alpine community of 4,500.

Nearly 1,400 athletes are competing in 17 events while 2,500 athletes in Prince George participated in twice as many events in 1978.

Premier Bill Bennett opened the games.

NEW CALGARY BID

CALGARY (CP) — A group of city businessmen has initiated a bid to bring the 1988 Winter Olympics to this Alberta city.

The Calgary Olympic Development Association disclosed plans Friday to get the Games on behalf of Calgary and Alberta's Kananaskis Park. Three previous missions by the association to the International Olympic Committee, bidding for the 1968, 1972 and 1976 games, failed.

INDIA GETS GOOD START AGAINST INDIES

Times News Services

An aggressive opening partnership by Sunil Gavaskar and Chetan Chauhan and a lengthy third-wicket stand by Chauhan and Gundappa Viswanath powered the Indian cricket team to a first-day score of 249 for three wickets Friday in its sixth and last test match at Kanpur, India, against the West Indies.

Gavaskar hit two sixes and five fours as he clouted 40 runs in 51 minutes before he edged a ball to wicketkeeper David Murray with the score at 51. Chauhan and Viswanath put on 144 in 208 minutes before the former was stumped, having scored 79, and Viswanath was 94 not out at the close.

And in Christchurch, N.Z., a patient innings of 81 by Javed Miandad saved Pakistan from collapse as the visitors scored 220 for six wickets on the opening day of their first test against New Zealand.

Miandad's four-hour innings began with Pakistan floundering at 48 for the loss of two wickets and the score had advanced to 198 when he was the sixth man out.

Richard Hadlee was the most effective New Zealand bowler, taking four wickets for 54 runs in 18 overs.

RANCHO MIRAGE, Calif. (AP) — Silvia Bertolaccini, who scored a first-round upset over Nancy Lopez, downed Amy Alcott 2-and-1 Friday to move into the semi-finals of the $100,000 Triple Crown women's match-play golf tournament.

JoAnne Carner, defending champion of the Ladies' Profesional Golf Association event at Mission Hills Country Club, also advanced with a 3-and-2 victory over Canada's Sandra Post.

The two other golfers surviving the first two days of play were Pat Bradley and Donna Young. Bradley beat Mary Mills 3-and-2 and Young defeated Dot Germain by the same score.

The head-to-head competition offers a $23,000 first prize.

Carner and Post finished the front nine even, before Carner moved ahead with a birdie on No. 11, adding pars on No. 13 and 15 as Post lost her putting touch.

Bertolaccini and Carner will meet in one of today's semi-final matches, with Bradley and Young playing in the other.

Wrexham Moves Into Fourth Round

WREXHAM, Wales (CP) — Wrexham of the English Football League's Second Division finally reached the fourth round of the Football Association Cup Thursday night by defeating Stockport County 6-2 in a match postponed nine times because of bad weather.

Playing on a snow-covered pitch, the teams were tied 1-1 at half-time but Wrexham piled it on in the second half to qualify for a fourth-round visit to First-Division Tottenham Hotspur.

Friday's English League results:

Division III
Colchester 2 Exeter 2
Swansea 0 Carlisle 0
Southend 2 Chesterfield 0
Division IV
Newport 3 Hartlepool 2

Pakistan Concerned

ISLAMABAD (AFP) — The government of Pakistan, concerned over declining performances, has disbanded the Pakistan Amateur Athletic Federation.

A committee was set up to reorganize athletics in Pakistan on scientific lines, an official announcement said. The athletics crisis reached a head last month following the Asian Games at Bangkok at which Pakistan won only a silver medal.

THE STORYBOOK BEAUTY OF BRITAIN from just $37 per person per day*
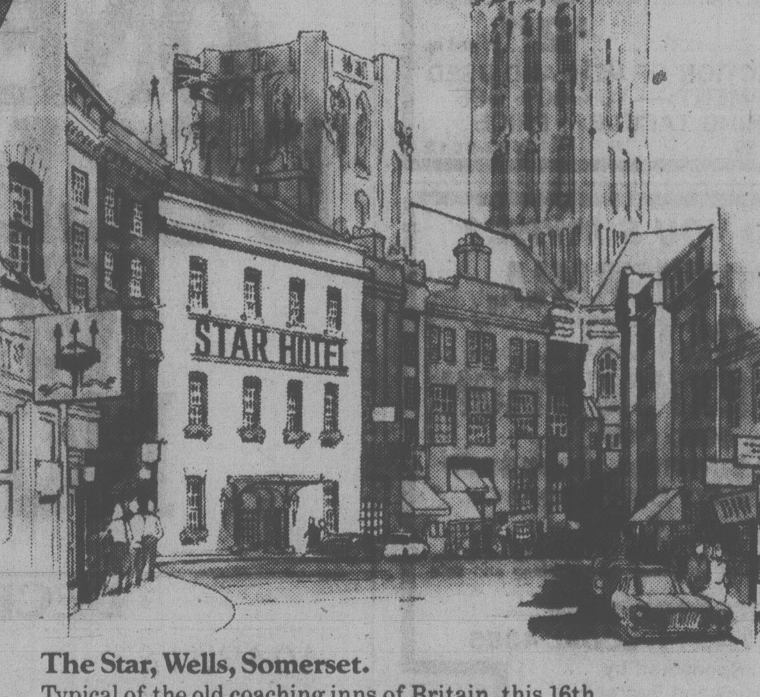
by Air Canada

Once upon a time, people thought Britain meant London. And then they began to discover the byways of Britain, where everything was peaceful, friendly, picturesque...and still a bargain!

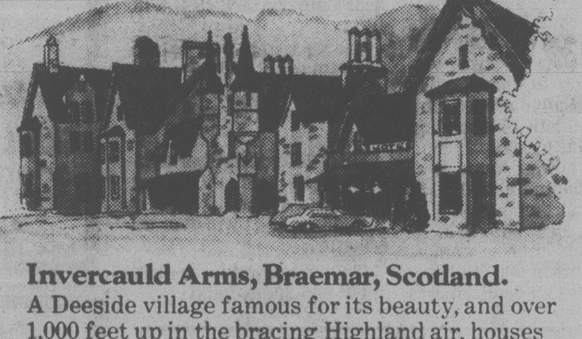
Air Canada's Charter Class Fares get you there so economically and, with its wide choice of flights, conveniently. Best of all, Air Canada knows scores of lovely country inns and hotels, all over Britain and all approved by the British Tourist Authority. Their room prices all include the fabulous British breakfast.

And with Air Canada prepaid vouchers, your accommodation is guaranteed at very short notice.

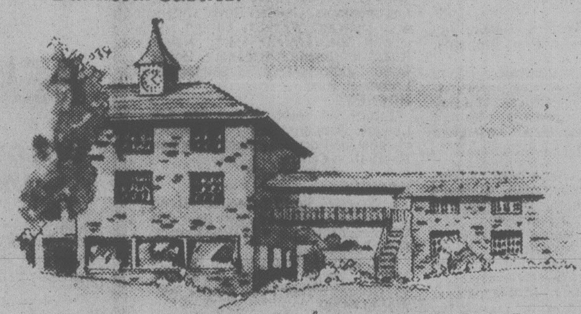
Here are five inns, typical of the delightful Air Canada choices. For a trip to Britain that you will remember happily ever after.



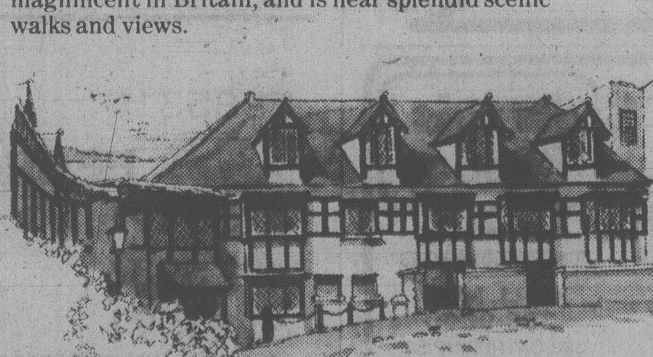
The Star, Wells, Somerset.
Typical of the old coaching inns of Britain, this 16th century charmer still boasts a cobbled carriageway. It stands within sight of Wells Cathedral, one of the most magnificent in Britain; and is near splendid scenic walks and views.



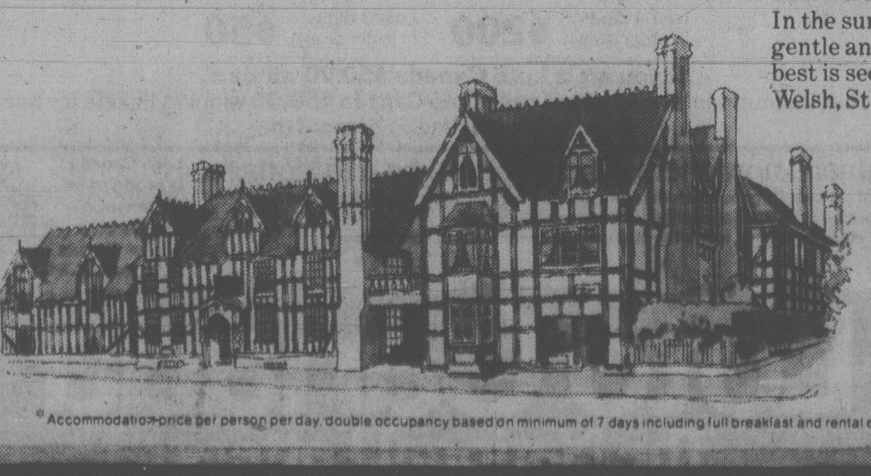
Invercauld Arms, Braemar, Scotland.
A Deeside village famous for its beauty, and over 1,000 feet up in the bracing Highland air, houses this roomy and comfortable family hotel. Nearby places of great interest include Braemar and Balmoral Castles.



Last Drop Village, Bromley Cross, Lancashire.
A complete village, lovingly created from old moorland cottages. Includes a charming hotel, pub, cozy tea shop...and of course cobbled streets for strolling. Unique, certainly; but only one of many uniquely charming inns in Britain.



St Brides Hotel, Saundersfoot, Wales.
In the sunny southwest of Wales, the scenery is gentle and the sea-views spectacular. One of the best is seen from the delightful, and typically Welsh, St Brides Hotel.



The Raven, Droitwich, Hereford & Worcestershire.
Half-timbered Elizabethan manor house converted into a comfy hotel, in an elegant spa town featuring a lively market and some celebrated natural-brine spa baths. Situated in one of England's loveliest Counties.

Getting there.
Air Canada flies to Britain nearly every day. And our schedules allow come-and-go flexibility, with charter class fares from $399 from Vancouver. (Call Air Canada or your travel agent for advance purchase details.)
Free copies of Air Canada's "Inn Britain" programme and BTA's "Britain, a Land to Explore" are available at your travel agent. Useful and reasonably-priced accommodation guides and tour planners are available through any Classic or W.H. Smith bookstore.

Getting about.
Thanks to Britain's compactness and its well-marked roads, getting about in your rental car is easy as well as economical.
Or ask about our modestly priced Britrail pass. Both give you unlimited mileage.

FRATIANNE'S THIRD STRAIGHT

Times News Services

Linda Fratianne overwhelmed her competition to win her third consecutive senior ladies crown at the United States figure skating championships Friday in Cincinnati.

Fratianne, five-foot-one and 96 pounds, convincingly won the final freestyle portion of the competition and received first place on the cards of all seven judges to take the overall title.

Lisa-Marie Allen, who finished second to her California clubmate last year, again settled for the silver medal. Another Californian, Carrie Rugh was third.

Earlier, Charlie Tickner took another giant stride toward his third consecutive title, winning the short program and extending his lead in the men's event.

And in Zagreb, Yugoslavia, Natalia Linichuk and Gennadi Karponosov led a Soviet sweep in ice dancing at the European championships as they finished ahead of compatriots Irina Moiseeva and Andrei Minenkov to take the gold medal.

The bronze medal went to Krysztina Regteczy and Andras Sallay.

In women's singles, defending champion Annette Poetzsch of East Germany maintained a healthy lead after the short program over Dagmar Lurz of West Germany and Kristine Wegelius of Finland.

Orser's Triples Top Drawer

THUNDER BAY, Ont. (CP) — Brian Orser, a 17-year-old from Penetanguishene, Ont., created the biggest excitement of the week at the Canadian figure skating championships when he landed a difficult, triple Axel jump Friday night.

Orser also included two triple Lutz jumps and a triple toe loop in his free skating final and came from behind to win the junior men's title.

"He did four triple jumps and he's only a junior. Fantastic!" chortled coach Kerry Leitch of Cambridge, Ont.

Although his landing on the triple Axel was flawed, Orser was credited with having completed the difficult move, never before performed in junior Canadian competition.

Orser's spectacular performance slightly overshadowed the senior competition where defending champions in three events moved into good position to keep their titles in tonight's final free skating sessions.

In the only undefended senior event — the pairs — 1978 junior champions Barbara Underhill of Oshawa and Paul Martini of Woodbridge, Ont., claimed the lead, as expected, after Friday's compulsory short program.

Brian Pockar of Calgary maintained a wide lead in the senior men's singles after winning the short program, and women's defending champion Heather Kemkaran of Toronto moved up to first/place ahead of challenger Janet Morrisey of Ottawa.

Lorna Wighton of Toronto and John Dowding of Oakville, Ont., also maintained their commanding lead in defence of the senior dance crown.

Other junior titles decided Friday went to Kay Thomson of Toronto in women's singles and, in the dance, Kelly Johnson and Kris Barber of Toronto.

Cheryl MacDonald and Tony Preston of the Racquet Club in Victoria dinished 10th in the junior dance with 138.18 points.

Orser's innovation in the junior free skating continues the trend to more difficult jumps. The triple Axel is considered the most difficult jump to perform successfully and is still seldom used even in international competition.

Orser said he was confident of landing his triple Lutz jumps which are becoming more common since Vern Taylor of Toronto performed one successfully in winning the 1973 novice title.

But Orser said he wasn't able to land the Axel jump during the last two days' practice but then completed one in his warmup and decided to use it because he had to make up points on leader Kevin Parker of Campbellville, Ont.

Parker, the leader after Thursday's short program, dropped to second while Shaun McGill of Mississauga, Ont., finished third.

Thompson delivered a flawless free skating performance to score an easy win in the junior women's event. She received seven ordinals—meaning all seven judges placed her first—to beat Yvonne Anderson of Vancouver and Kathryn Osterberg of Calgary.

Unbeaten Braves Scalp Legion 9-1

Unbeaten Saanich Braves, in control all the way, defeated Esquimalt Legion 9-1 Friday at the Esquimalt Sports Centre to improve their hold on first place in the South Vancouver Island Junior "B" Hockey League's Patterson Division.

Tom King, with two, Phil Varcoe, Jamie Bowes, Traacy Patterson, David Prince, Scott Connors, Ron Jobson and Marty Irvine scored for Braves, now five points ahead of Fuller Lake Flyers.

The shots-on-goal told the story. Saanich netminder Steve Hannah made only 15 saves while Ron Allan and Greg Richardson combined to turn aside 58 shots at the Esquimalt net.

Saanich held period leads of 3-0 and 7-1, with Murray Allan scoring the lone Esquimalt marker.

WEEKEND'S SOCCER HIT BY WEATHER

Friday's fall of snow in the Greater Victoria area has forced cancellation of most of the weekend's district soccer schedule.

Because of field conditions, all of the Vancouver Island League's Jackson Cup games have been postponed along with today's entire Girls' League and Lower Island Youth Association schedules.

Still in doubt, at press time, was Sunday's minor program.

Perspectives

By Rev. J. A. Da[illegible]idson

Today we comfortable Christians are tempted to step down the voltage of our commitment so that it will not blow too many of our fuses. But the New Testament shows that the earliest Christians made overwhelming commitments.

And they were not commitments to an institution or a creed or an ideology; they were commitments to a person, to Jesus Christ.

The New Testament Christians did not assume that they had it made because of their commitments, that they had somehow come to a state of spiritual perfection. Anyone who thinks that Paul, for instance, had attained spiritual perfection just hasn't read Paul's letters carefully. The smugness and self-assurance of some modern Christians do not reflect the experience of Paul and other early Christians. The essence of the commitment of the first Christians was not in achievement but in ongoing struggle.

Some three centuries after New Testament times St. Augustine of Hippo, one of the most influential Christian thinkers of all time, put the matter in its true perspective when he wrote, "God deals with us, not as we are, but as we are becoming." Christian-ness, then, is not a condition but a process. More than a thousand years after Augustine, Martin Luther echoed him when he said, "The Christian is not in a state of beginning but in one of becoming."

Your Christian commitment is not shown by the excellence to which you attain—or to which you may like to think you attain. Your Christian commitment, rather, is in all that you bring to the struggle, day by day, to serve the purposes of Jesus Christ in the world.

A Christian is to be judged not by achievement but by the integrity and effectiveness of his or her effort. Another saying of Martin Luther's gives some assurance and comfort to us ordinary, very-far-from-perfect, wavering and wobbling Christians as we strive to live our faith: "God can ride the lame horse."

Commitment and struggle: these are dominant qualities we see expressed in the lives of the New Testament Christians. But we also see another fundamental quality, a quality which can be designated by the word "outreach."

An ingrown and ingrowing faith, a self-centred faith—no matter how intense the commitment, no matter how fervent the inner struggle—is, by New Testament standards, an aberration. Christian faith cannot be grown and lived in a greenhouse. You cannot show commitment to Jesus Christ by withdrawing from the world simply for the purpose of cultivating your precious little soul. A final test of your commitment is in your attitudes and actions toward the needs and sufferings of other persons.

Dag Hammarskjold, the Swedish diplomat who died while serving as secretary-general of the United Nations expressed a basic New Testament insight when he wrote this in his notebook: "In our era, the road to holiness passes through the world of action."

Bible distribution growing

For the first time since Bible society work began in Canada in 1805, the Canadian Bible Society distributed more than eight million Scriptures in 70 languages in Canada.

Of the total distribution 242,581 were complete Bibles, and 534,854 New Testaments, the remainder being single books of the Bible and Scripture selections.

A highlight of the year was the distribution of 220,630 French New Testaments and a total of 1,543,448 Scriptures in French, mostly to Roman Catholics. The Canadian society distributes more French Scriptures each year than any Bible society in Europe or in French West Africa.

More than 325,000 copies of the Good News Bible (Today's English version) have been distributed by the Canadian Bible Society since it appeared in November 1976. This is by far the most popular of the versions in contemporary English and world distribution is more than six million copies. World distribution of the New Testament in this English version exceeds 50 million. This version has been found to be particularly helpful in evangelism.

To new Canadian citizens at citizenship courts, the Canadian Bible Society presented 140,000 New Testaments and Psalms, twice the normal annual requirements. The Canadian Bible Society makes Scriptures in braille, on records and on cassettes available to the blind free of charge and in 1978 nearly 14,000 copies were presented to the blind in Canada.

A new feature of the work of the Canadian Bible Society is the production of Scriptures in Canada. At one time, most Bibles were imported from the U.K. and the U.S. but now practically all Scriptures for use in Canada are produced locally.

Dinner reaps reward of ecumenical aid

An "amazing feat of ecumenism" has been achieved in Greater Victoria with the commitment by 39 churches of all major Christian denominations to aid the homeless and hungry in the city's own backyard.

The description came this week from Sister Bede Sullivan, chairperson of the Interchurch World Development Education Committee, as efforts began to find a secular organization to support two storefront groups, Mustard Seed and Upper Room, to fill the 40 days of Lent—and hopefully, beyond.

Sister Bede said in an interview the fact that support came from such a broad base—more than 300 people of many faiths and non-faiths attended last week's WDE Witness to Corporate Concern—heartened the organizers.

Mustard Seed, 552 Pandora, and Upper Room, 579 Johnson, minister to the poor in Canada's backyard—the street people whose only hope of sustenance, physical and spiritual, is through such missions.

World Development Education is aimed at making people realize the poverty and injustice in the Third World. Last week's ecumenical dinner was sponsored by Sacred Heart Roman Catholic Church, 4040 Nelthorpe, through its adult education and development and peace groups.

The simple supper of soup and bread was preceded with welcome and grace by Rev. Guy Merveille who described the breaking of bread together as a supper of the Eucharist.

Roy Cerbic, a former person of the streets, now director of the Upper Room, revealed himself under questioning as gentle and concerned, well able to relate to the problems of humanity, to bring comfort to those in real need. Roy also is a cook of some prowess and prepares the meals.

Trevor Williams, padre of Wilkinson Jail and pastor associated with the Upper Room, said each person who climbed those stairs is Jesus, while Rev. Phil Ross of Esquimalt United, also associated with the Upper Room, said "when we look at other people we cannot relate and be of help unless we see the Lord in them."

Grey-haired Kathy White said no one ever used bad language in her presence in the Upper Room, where she was called Mum.

She had been there three years and she said that Christ was born every day in the way of financial and moral support. She said there is a world out there and it is crying. There are many youngsters on the streets. She urged people to get out of their comfortable parishes. Teenagers needed shelter. They could do with a country home with chores to do, a spot to gain self respect.

Gipp Forster, director of Mustard Seed, once a member of a youth street gang in an eastern city, said that of his 22 associates only himself and one other are alive today. He had experienced conversion and three years later returned to the streets, this time in a rescue capacity. "To be of help one must meet the street people in their own territory, one must respect them, not approach as a martyr representing God. To feed them spiritually one must begin with another type of food."

He told of bringing in an 11-year-old boy found intoxicated, of the street child he and his wife had adopted, who at 18 years of age had never had a Christmas tree, nor a present, who had run the gamut but who was being respected as she was with Christianity being molded into her rather than being molded by Christianity.

Forster said if people were real Christians there would be no extremes of wealth and no thieves in the world. "The churches must expand. We must tell the kids they are welcome to cross the river without change of their personalities, with a preservation of their own dignity while showing them with Christian example only, how to live."

After listening to Hear Our Prayer, O Lord, a musical mediatation, tapers were lit the one from the other, while Rev. Joseph Ponic and Paul Abbass conducted the Litany of The Third World followed by the signing of personal pledges and church pledges, pledges which involved monetary help, volunteers to work and pledges of caring. Twenty pledges came from individuals.

Churches represented were eight Catholic, 14 Anglican, 10 United, three Lutheran, one Baptist, one Reformed, one Society of Friends, and one Presbyterian which totals a commitment to fund and serve the Upper Room or Mustard Seed for 39 days of Lent.

B.C. promise unfulfilled

Still no aid to Viets

The need for promised aid from the B.C. government to help the children of war-torn Vietnam is greater than ever, but the aid has not been forthcoming.

At its Jan. 11 meeting, the executive of the Victoria Council of Churches offered its facilities for the distribution of a letter to member churches from the Canada-Vietnam Friendship Society to press for $2.25 millions unanimously pledged by the B.C. Legislature for humanitarian purposes in Vietnam in February, 1973.

The funds were to be released to internationally respected organizations including the Red Cross, the Unitarian Service Committee, the Save the Children Fund, the Society of Friends and UNICEF to help destitute children in Vietnam through medical and other aid.

Since then there has been much discussion and striking of committees to see that the funds are allocated for their purpose and destination but to date no money has been released.

In February, 1977, Premier Bennett stated "I'm sure the obligation remains with all of us. Nobody denies that. It was made and quite properly still remains a commitment . . . the money will be found."

Then a new all-party committee was formed and briefs were heard from agencies which would administer the aid.

During a CBC interview in December, 1978, Bennett stated the commitment had not yet been kept because he was waiting to hear from the committee. He said that previous committees had not come up with satisfactory answers on the problem.

The all-party committee has disbanded and no action has since been taken on the matter.

The Canada-Vietnam Friendship Society notes that the need for the promised aid is desperate. In this, the International Year of the Child, it is urging concerned citizens to communicate their feelings about the government's commitment to the children in Vietnam via letters to Premier Bennett, their MLAs and the newspapers.

The pledged aid goes beyond political conditions in Vietnam, which the society acknowledges are confused and contradictory. But the society says "the children are not responsible (for that). They are only the victims . . . Will we not help them when we can?"

It's 117th anniversary

Church Chronciles

First United Church, Quadra at Balmoral, holds its 117th anniversary service Sunday when visiting speaker will be Rev. George Morrison, late minister of Timothy Eaton Memorial Church, Toronto. Dr. Morrison also is past secretary to the general council of the United Church of Canada.

Special music will be by the Edmunds Community College choir from Seattle.

First United was the first Presbyterian congregation in Canada west of the Red River. It was constituted in 1862 under the guidance of the Rev. John Hall, who had been sent out by the Presbyterian Church in Ireland.

The first building housing the congregation was erected in 1863 on the northwest corner of Blanshard and Pandora.

The present building on the corner of Quadra and Balmoral was completed in 1915.

The congregation at the moment comprises 975 households and more than 1,100 members.

First United's annual congregational meeting will be held Sunday, Feb. 11, following the morning service. It will begin with lunch in the Fellowship Hall.

The annual meeting is important to the life and work of the congregation.

The annual congregational meeting of James Bay United Church, 511 Michigan, will be held on Feb. 14, starting with dessert and tea at 7 p.m. This will be followed by a sing-song and reports. Any persons wishing to have a ride home are asked to give their names to the minister or to Art Fuller.

A service of special significance to United Church followers in the Western Community will be held Sunday, Feb. 11 at 4:15 p.m. in Colwood Community Hall.

The service will precede the formal sod-turning for Pilgrim United Church at the site at Metchosin and Painter Roads.

Interim supply pastor Rev. Win Stoke will conduct the brief service before the shovel bites the dirt to start construction on the Western Community's second United Church.

The fledgling Pilgrim United grew out of the success of its "parent" church, Gordon United in Langford. The congregation already consists of about 30 families of regular churchgoers, plus guests.

Regular services are in Colwood Community Hall—until the new church is ready.

The Khalsa Diwan Society of Victoria, representing the Sikh community, elected its executive on Jan. 27 at the Sikh Temple, 1210 Topaz. A total of 1,204 ballots was cast. The executive:

Mohinder S. Randhawa, president; Nirmal S. Vaid, secretary; Amarjit S. Takhar, treasurer.

Members:

P.S. Attariwala, B.S. Bhalla, H.S. Johal, R.S. Johal, M.S. Kotli, M.L. Pallan, J.S. Purewal, U.S. Manhas and C.S. Sidhu.

A vision lives in Nanaimo idea

The new Nanaimo Ecumenical Centre at 6234 Spartan Road will be officially opened and dedicated at 2 p.m. Sunday by Bishop Remi De Roo, representing the Catholic Church, and Alice Potts, chairman, for the Nanaimo-Comox United Church Presbytery.

The ceremony of dedication is the culmination of a shared ecumenical vision by fellow Christians that a building should be constructed to serve both as a joint house of worship and a complex for community service.

A number of people shared this ecumenical vision of faith and were instrumental in the conception and completion of the new centre. Among the outstanding individuals were Rev. Les Clark of Lantzville-Wellington United Church and Father John Zuyderwijk of St. Peter's Roman Catholic Church.

The plan for the edifice was formulated in 1975 and has now born fruit with the opening of the structure. The achievement is being hailed as a significant milestone in the progress of ecumenism and inter-church relations.

The new centre will house the congregations of Trinity United Church and Trinity Catholic Church, served respectively by Rev. Art Lucy and Monsignor Michael O'Connell. Serving both congregations will be Sister Rosalie Dunn.

The congregations plan to worship in the spirit of ecumenism, which is not a watering down of one's faith but rather a reaffirmation of one's religious traditions while respecting and being open to the faith and traditions of fellow Christians.

Editor job for interim

The board of directors of the United Church Observer has made interim appointments following the death of Rev. A.C. Forrest, editor and publisher.

Patricia Clarke, acting editor during Forrest's sabbatical leaves, will be interim editor. Mrs. Clarke resigned a year ago as associate editor after 13 years with the magazine, but continued on a part time basis.

BEFORE THE JUDGE

Michael James McNeill, 18, of 135 Menzies, pleaded not guilty to charges of dangerous driving and driving while under suspension and June 14 was set as the trial date.

The charges were laid following a high-speed chase in Oak Bay about 5 a.m. Friday which lasted 6.4 kilometres and which police said reached speeds of more than 100 kmh.

The pursued vehicle finally skidded to a halt near the Fairfield Plaza shopping centre. Oak Bay police first spotted the speeding car shortly after 5 a.m. in the 900-block Beach Drive.

After the driver jumped out of the vehicle and began running, a police officer fired three shots into the air after yelling a warning. The fleeing man stumbled and fell, allowing police to catch him.

Green sentenced a 17-year-old who kicked an off-duty deputy sheriff in the face to two months in jail.

Crown counsel Robert Mulligan told the court Hasan Joseph Celebic, of 1414 Hillside, and a companion were in McDonald's Restaurant, 980 Pandora, about 9:20 p.m. Jan. 26 when they were asked to leave and a disturbance occurred.

Victoria police were called, Mulligan said, but the off-duty deputy sheriff stepped in to help when a fight broke out between Celebic and his companion. During the scuffle, Celebic kicked the officer, breaking his nose.

Mulligan said it was Celebic's second criminal conviction this year. He had been convicted of theft on Jan. 18 and was given a suspended sentence and probation at that time.

A 39-year-old Esquimalt man who has been convicted five times in less than three years for shoplifting offences was given a total of seven months in jail after he pleaded guilty to two theft charges.

Albert Short, of 681 Admirals, admitted taking meat from Fairways Market, 272 Gorge Road West, on Nov. 28 and Jan. 10 without paying for the items.

Mulligan said the meat was valued at $28.25 on the first occasion and $41.17 on the second.

Mulligan also told Green that Short was convicted for thefts March 22, 1976, in Vancouver, and twice in Victoria in 1977. Short received a $100 fine the first time, a suspended sentence the second and a one-month jail term on the third conviction.

Green, rejecting defence lawyer Jasper Bomhof's suggestion of fines, gave Short two months for the first conviction and five more months on the second. He also placed Short on six months' probation and ordered him to take any alcoholic counselling as directed.

Referendum Dangers Forecast

The provincial government has lined up with the federal Conservative and Social Credit parties in opposing the Liberal government's legislation that would permit Ottawa to call referendums on constitutional issues.

Environment Minister Rafe Mair, the cabinet spokesman on constitutional matters, said in an interview he sees grave danger in Ottawa being able to use a referendum to get around provincial governments.

"I frankly think that that's a lousy way to run a country."

Mair said B.C. has already made its position clear on this issue but he wouldn't be surprised if the matter comes up again before the first ministers' constitutional conference in Ottawa next week.

Jury Clears Accused Fur Thief

A county court jury Friday cleared Kevin John Case, 23, of two charges of theft of fur coats valued at $5,100.

The verdict of not guilty came after 1½ hours deliberation by the jury at the end of a five-day trial before Judge Peter Millward.

Case, who was represented by Douglas Christie, was accused of theft of a fur coat Dec. 20, 1977, and another fur coat Jan. 19, 1978, from Scuby Furs, 911 Government.

In another county court, Judge Montague Drake said unusual circumstances and his reluctance to send a first offender to the corrupting influences of the prison system led him to impose a nominal one day in jail and one year's probation for Bruce William Mooring, 20.

But he warned Mooring, who is prohibited from drinking during his probation, that should the offence occur again he could expect far more serious consequences.

Mooring pleaded guilty to robbery with threats of violence in an early morning incident June 17 in Beacon Hill Park. Court was told that Mooring, his elder brother and a cousin accosted a man and took money and credit cards from a wallet. They were caught by police.

Defence lawyer David Hatter said Mooring has a job offer and has taken alcohol counselling.

Character evidence said Mooring had changed from a bitter and angry man to one who is maturing and accepting responsibility. While his brother and cousin failed to appear in court on the same charge, he remained, court was told.

In another case, Millward sentenced Brian George Angus, 31, to time already served awaiting disposition of the offence — six weeks — for obstructing prison guards John Mossey and Roy Davis at Jordan River Camp July 8.

Court was told Angus had gone missing and was chased by the two guards but there was no bodily harm caused in his apprehension.

Defence counsel Patrick Sweeney said although Angus has an unenviable criminal record, including assault, obstructing a peace officer, robbery, prison breach, theft and confinement, he had already been punished for them. Angus was working and he suggested the time he spent in jail before release awaiting his case should be considered twice as long as time spent after sentence because of restrictions on activities.

Totem for U.K. Nearly Ready

A 16-foot totem pole to be donated by the province to a new Captain Cook museum in Middlesborough, England, is nearing completion at the Thunderbird Park native carving shed.

The carvers are chief carver Richard Hunt and Tim Paul of the Hesquiat band on the west coast of Vancouver Island.

SAVE SIDNEY ISLAND!

Development now threatens Sidney Island. It remains the last undeveloped and uninhabited gem of the larger Gulf Islands. A recent Islands Trust report states that "the public acquisition of Sidney Island is of great importance to the preservation and protection of the Gulf Islands Trust Area and would be of significant benefit to the people of B.C." The Sidney Island Committee continues its campaign to convince the government to purchase the entire island. A public trust fund has now been established for B.C. residents to demonstrate their concern.

You are asked to help. Please care enough to respond — NOW! Please check your involvement and forward to:

YOUR HOROSCOPE

Astrological Forecast for Sunday, February 4
By SIDNEY OMARR

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Money, budget, coming to terms in connection with home, family, basic needs — these are spotlighted. Taurus, Libra, Scorpio persons play important roles in your scenario. Guard valuables, don't give up something for nothing.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Moon esconced in your sign indicates surge of energy, ambition. You gain greater degree of freedom, independence. You have rare opportunity to erase past errors. You get your way. Your position is strong. Know it and act as if aware of your own strength.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Much that occurs is in "quiet" or subdued manner. Prssure is applied. Some persons might resort to threats. Older individual backs you. Cycle is such that you emerge victorious. Capricorn, Cancer figure prominently — and so does the number 8.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Accent on getting rid of burden. Steamline techniques, modernize methods. You'll know what to do and when to do it. Aries, Libra figure prominently — and so does the number 9. Friend provides needed information.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Set your own pace, advance towards goal. Another Leo — and an Aquarian — could become valuable allies. One in position of authority recognizes your talents, but is somewhat jealous — and frightened. Show that you are a friendly lion!

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Be aware of direction, distance and perspective. Pursue special study. Don't be dismayed by one who complains, broods and wants you to be ordinary as contrasted to "extraordinary." You receive communication which could lead to progress.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Answers come from within — you're put to test and you can win. Key is to act on what you feel is right. Money, security, investments, past obligations are involved. Make inquiries. Refuse to be restricted by those of little imagination — or faith.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Go slow, especially where long-range or legal decisions are concerned. Marital status receives more-than-usual attention. Fine points, details, subtle nuances, signals are very much a part of scenario. You gain better understanding of healing effects of time.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You're "involved," despite what others say. Means take a stand. Adhere to principles. Stand tall for beliefs. Gemini plays key role. Relationship intensifies. If you're merely playing games, you could be in for rude awakening.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Good lunar aspect coincides now with change, written material, variety, speculation and romance. Taurus, Libra figure prominently. You find out where you stand, what steps are necessary to gain greater fulfillment.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Accent on turf, home territory. Build on solid base, promote personal security. Be familiar with basic material. Define terms, see places, people in realistic light. What seems a foregone conclusion could be something very different.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Older relative could convey good financial report. Capricorn, Cancer persons figure prominently. Initial judgment is subject to change. Know it and prepare accordingly. Someone who cares could write a poem for you.

IF FEBRUARY 4 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are creative, inventive, at times rebellious and you lead rather than follow others. It is not unlikely that you were on your own early, could have been separated from one or both parents. Leo, Scorpio persons play key roles in your life. March and December will be you most significant months of 1979, a year featuring greater freedom of thought, action, intensified relationships. Marriage or an addition to family also are highlights. You break from restrictions. You write, express and engage in more creative activity. You have stamina and "true grit." You are loyal, your judgment is not always entirely correct, but your motives usually are of the highest order.

Astrological Forecast for Monday, February 5
by Sydney Omarr

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Emphasis on pulling chestnuts out of the fire, casting aside false reports — and doctrines. Your intellectual curiosity is on a rampage. You ask questions, demand answers. You'll get truth if you persist.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Money belt shakes, rattles and rolls. You could be in the chips! Evolution of process that started with investment, judgment and faith comes to fruition. You know where you are now — and you soon will pull strings of your own destiny.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): You get what you go after — maintain confident, aggressive stance. Cycle high — judgment, intuition are on target. You have come to the end of one period of your life — now could be the beginning of "something big."

CANCER (June 21-July 22): New light cast on area previously shrouded in mystery, superstition. Leo, Aquarius figure prominently. Key is to be original, creative, independent. Emphasis on discretion, clandestine conference, secrets.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Romance, establishing relationships, working towards goal, fulfillment of hopes and wishes — these are emphasized. Hunch is on target — be confident, earn and learn through teaching process. Yes, the pieces will fit together!

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Opportunities are plentiful — key is to be selective. Emphasis on career, superiors, ambition, goal, civic responsibilities, reputation. You may be asked to judge a popularity or recipe contest. Yes, you will be going places!

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Emphasis on details, linking together apparently unrelated events. Your future is in your own hands — now you'll know it and do something constructive about it. The more specific you are, the better for today and tomorrow and tomorrow.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Give full play to curiosity — you are not a cat! Make inquiries, ask questions. Gemini, Virgo, Sagittarius figure in scenario. Accent on basic finances, the money facts of life, taxes, rentals, leases. Gain cooperation of partner, mate.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Go slow, lie low, be aware of legal rights, permissions. Domestic adjustment is on agenda. One close to you wants "review of life style." Taurus, Libra, Scorpio persons could play key roles. You win with diplomacy, not force.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Avoid direct confrontations. Be realistic. Know when it is wise to make intelligent concessions. Coworker, one who shares your concerns will make valuable suggestion. Be receptive, especially where job, hobby, health are concerned.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Productivity is emphasized; you imprint style and find fresh creative outlets. Capricorn, Cancer individuals figure in scenario. What had evaded you becomes available. Gains indicated — in prestige and cash.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Yes, the curtain is being drawn on mini-drama. You've been heavily "involved." Now, you are relieved of burden. You feel better physically and emotionally, too. Children, changes, speculation, exciting contacts dominate.

IF FEBRUARY 5 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are stubborn, sexy, talented, restless, creative and on brink of important change in life style. You could change residence towards end of year. February and November should be your most significant months of 1979. Gemini, Virgo, Sagittarius person play important roles in your life. You have an abundance of charisma. You are often interested in so many things that your forces are scattered. You gain greatest success when analytical. Find out why an event occurred — don't be satisfied merely to know something happened. You are a natural entertainer, a good story teller; people want to be with you. In March, you can expect added recognition as some views are vindicated.

Lalonde Leery on Marijuana-Use Bill

OTTAWA (CP) — The government believes penalties for marijuana possession are too harsh, but Justice Minister Marc Lalonde said Friday he does not have high hopes that Parliament would move quickly to lighten the punishment.

"I am somewhat leery of bringing in a bill that would have no chance of being passed," Lalonde said in a interview. "I am not saying that it won't be brought in, but I don't want to raise expectations."

Lalonde was asked by Ontario Conservative Paul Dick if the government plans to introduce a bill to "decriminalize" the possession of marijuana.

Lalonde replied that the government's position still is to oppose the "legalization" of marijuana.

But the government would like to take cannabis-related offences out of the Criminal Code.

"The criminal character of the act of possession has led to tens of thousands of Canadians, young Canadians in particular, having criminal records for offences which have been in many instances mistakes which could be attributed to their young age.

"We feel it is a matter which should be corrected. While keeping possession as an offence, we don't think a criminal record should be carried on by young people.

"Over 57,000 convictions in the last year were registered."

Lalonde said in the interview if the government brought in a bill, it would be similar to one that was passed a few years ago by the Senate. That bill, which would have abolished jail sentences for persons charged with simple possession of hashish and marijuana, died on the order paper before the Commons had a chance to study it.

Dick said in the Commons the government has been promising such legislation for six years and it has never reached the Commons. He asked whether that was due to Senator Keith Davey's personal objection to the bill. Davey is the Liberal campaign manager.

Sex Offence Laws To Be Given Update

OTTAWA (CP) — Justice Minister Marc Lalonde says he plans soon to unveil new sexual offence legislation that goes beyond recent government proposals to reform rape law.

"My intention is to bring before the House a new series of amendments to the Criminal Code which will not only deal with the issue of rape but all sexual offences," Lalonde told the Commons Friday.

Officials said later the new package would be an expansion of former justice minister Ron Basford's proposals to reform rape law, establish a broader definition of obscenity, toughen prostitution laws, ease prosecution of child abuse and parental kidnapping cases and outlaw child pornography.

No specific details were available because the federal cabinet has not approved the new proposals.

But it contains improvements based on recommendations from the Law Reform Commission of Canada.

The commission recommended replacing such crimes as rape, buggery and gross indecency with sexual assault. It proposed wiping out little-used, so-called jailbait provisions which, for example, make it a crime for a 17-year-old to have sexual relations with a 15-year-old.

Lalonde did make it clear he flatly disagrees with one commission proposal — to take incest out of the Criminal Code.

Lalonde referred to the new legislation when replying to questions from Eldon Woolliams, Progressive Conservative justice critic, who said rape victims should not be "brutalized" by defence lawyers questioning their past sexual conduct during trials.

Toronto lawyer Keith Wright is challenging the rules on grounds they are restrictions on the defence. The past sexual history of a rape victim can be introduced as evidence during a trial at the discretion of the judge who first listens to it at a closed hearing.

UNIVERSITY OF VICTORIA UNIVERSITY EXTENSION IS . . .

AN EXPERIENCE IN MOVEMENT, MUSIC, POETRY AND DRAWING . . . through creativity in expression for women.

CREATIVE EXPRESSION FOR WOMEN . . .

Provides an opportunity to learn new ways of thinking about and using your personal creativity. We will discuss, in a cooperative non-competitive context, the creation of personal and group images in the field of dance-movement, music, poetry and drawing. We will also explore the cultural expectations that often constrict the individual women's productivity.

The course is especially pertinent to women who have doubts about their potential to be Poets, Painters, Musicians, Dancers and Scholars.

Co-ordinated by Janet Patterson with guest facilitators: Holly Smith for dance/movement, Judy Boel for drawing, Artemis Mountain Eagle for music.

Mondays, beginning February 5; 7:30-10:00 p.m.; 5 sessions; Clearihue A309. Fee: $45

INVOLVEMENT IN THEATRE WORKSHOPS . . .

DIRECTING THE PLAY is an intensive workshop in stage directing, modelled on the rehearsal schedule of the Phoenix Theatre's production of "Lysistrata". Guest instructors/lecturers will be drawn from the production and design staff on faculty and you will be able to compare your interpretation and analysis of the play with theirs. The study will culminate in a choice seat at the play followed by a seminar with the director and cast members.

Tuesdays, beginning February 13, 7:00-9:00 p.m., six sessions. Location: Room 109, Cornett Building. Fee: $40.

STORY THEATRE is a technique used to adapt almost any narrative material for stage presentation simply and effectively with a minimum of set or props. Most often used for children, it is equally suitable for more mature material such as the Chekov short stories.

We will focus on the difficulties of narration and characterization; developing stories from the narrative or book form to the dramatic; creating an imaginative stage environment. May be of particular interest to teachers and librarians.

Wednesdays, beginning February 14, 7:00-9:00 p.m. six sessions. Location: Room 109-Cornett Building. Fee: $40.

A SERIES OF ENGINEERING LECTURES . . .

"Legal Implications for Practicing Engineers in 1979" will be presented February 7 at 7:30 p.m. by Mr. B. Shapiro, LL.B., who is associated with the Vancouver law firm Bull, Housser and Tupper.

Location: Clearihue A306. Fee: $2.

PEOPLE TALKING BACK . . .

Speak up. Talk Back. Get in Touch.

People Talking Back begins on CBC Television Sunday, February 4, 1979 at 5 p.m. Using television as a medium of communication, Canadians will talk with one another across the street and across the country. We'll talk about our cultural differences — the positive and negative aspects. About politicians and the media — are we getting biased information? About our flagging and difficult-to-understand economy. About the unrest and change in the workplace. About where we go from here — alternative options for our political, economic, cultural and social future.

AN EYE IN THE SKY?

Remote Sensing

The advent of satellites has given a new dimension to our ability to look at the earth from above. Some spectacular results have been achieved which have led foresters, geographers, environmentalists, oceanographers and others to a new understanding of our planet. Results such as pinpointing effluents in our rivers, measuring heat loss areas in homes, delineation of coastal regions in arguments of fishing rights, measuring inaccessible forest resources, tracking forest fires, crop health and development of soils, environmental damage associated with development schemes, arctic ice formations in shipping lanes.

This course shows how we as humans see things, particularly how we see things in colour, and how the process is duplicated and extended by instruments such as cameras carried by helicopters, balloons, rockets and satellites. Special consideration is given to work currently being done in the Victoria area. The talks will be illustrated by films and coloured slides.

Mondays, beginning February 5; 7:30-9:30 p.m.; 10 sessions; Cornett 109. Fee: $35.

Call us for a complete list of our courses and events; 477-6911, local 4802. We're open 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday for registration; Room A214, University Centre, parking underground.

Drop Seen In Tourists

WASHINGTON (CP) — Fewer Americans will visit Canada this year, but those who go will spend more, says the U.S. Travel Service.

The service forecast Friday that Americans visiting Canada will spend $1.36 billion in 1979, up about 4.5 per cent from 1978.

However, spending by Canadians visiting the U.S. will increase by an estimated nine per cent to $2.5 billion.

The service says the number of people crossing the border in both directions is likely to decline. About 12 million Canadians may travel to the U.S., compared with 12.1 million in 1978.

Americans travelling to Canada may drop by just over two per cent to 11.75 million.

Economic conditions on both sides of the border are blamed for the projected declines.

In Canada, the survey says, weak consumer spending, no sizeable increase in disposable income and an eight-per-cent unemployment rate are contributing to the drop in Canadian trips to the south.

On the U.S. side, a sluggish economy and higher gasoline prices are major factors. As well, there is a general perception that despite the lowered value of the Canadian dollar, Canada is not as economically attractive as other countries.

This perception is reflected in part by the projection that while travel to Canada will decline, the number of Americans travelling to other countries in 1979 will increase by three per cent to 23.7 million.

In 1978, according to Statistics Canada, 39.1 million Canadians travelled outside the country while 33.3 million foreigners visited.

The number of foreign visitors was almost the same as the previous year, but there was a 1.4-per-cent drop in Canadians travelling abroad.

Iranian 'Bribes' Probed

OTTAWA (FP) — The RCMP is investigating bribery allegations concerning Canadians and members of the Iranian ruling classes, according to Solicitor General J. J. Blais.

He declined to comment other than to say the investigations were underway. He appealed to members of parliament to cooperate with the police by not making "sensational allegations" in the Commons.

He was replying to Allan Lawrence (PC—Northumberland-Durham). The opposition MP from Ontario said "very serious allegations have been in the hands of Canadian law enforcement agencies for over two years."

He asked Blais to report on the results of the investigations into the allegations.

The solicitor general said he could not comment on the investigations. He said the investigations were ongoing.

Lawrence said he and other opposition MPs believed the minister was resorting to that type of answer too often to evade reporting to the house on such serious matters.

Hush-Hush Start to Unity Meet

By PAUL WHITELAW
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — There'll be no glare from TV lights or reporters scribbling notes when Prime Minister Trudeau and the 10 premiers sit down Monday morning in their latest attempt to agree on constitutional reforms.

The first hours of the First Ministers' Conference will take place behind closed doors — a sure sign Trudeau hopes to engage the provincial leaders in some tough give-and-take before they go public later in the day.

There is no false expectation among federal officials of dramatic breakthroughs.

Briefing reporters, a top constitutional adviser to the PM said Friday that differences among Ottawa and the provinces have narrowed on only about five items, which he refused to specify.

Other sources say that at a series of preparatory meetings among federal and provincial ministers and officials, there was tentative concensus on only two issues. One was that Canada remain a constitutional monarchy and that "equalization" — payments to poor provinces by wealthier ones — should be entrenched in a new constitution.

At the most recent constitutional summit that wound up last Nov. 1, the First Ministers decided interim meetings at a more junior level might clear up differences on the 14 issues. They were: resource ownership and interprovincial trade; indirect taxation; communications; the Senate; Supreme Court; family law; fisheries; offshore mineral rights; equalization payments; a charter of individual rights; limits on the spending power of Ottawa and the provinces; the monarchy; patriation of the constitutional and an amending formula; and Ottawa's power to override provincial bills.

The current drive for a new constitution — the 10th such effort since 1927 — was lanched by Trudeau last summer when the government issued a White Paper and a draft bill outlining a set of sweeping proposals. They included changes to the Senate, the Supreme Court, guarantees for language rights, and an increase in importance in the role of the Governor-General that critics claimed would diminish the role of Queen Elizabeth.

It ran into stiff opposition — and the PM agreed to mark time while he and the premiers engaged in their current round of talks on constitutional reforms.

The federal government promised in the Throne Speech last year to issue another draft constitutional bill — the last one died on the Commons order paper — sometime during the current legislative session.

The senior official who spoke to reporters said the government "might" still reintroduce legislation even if the First Ministers achieve little progress toward narrowing their differences.

The official noted, of course, that a federal election could intervene before there is time to make any constitutional initiative.

Top Wives Set Adrift After Blaze on Boat

TORONTO (CP) — Five women, some of them the wives of leading Canadian businessmen, floated in the sea off the Bahamas for an hour this week after their boat burned and sank during a cruise, according to The Globe and Mail.

The newspaper said the 19-metre cruiser Deep Star, owned by Donald Willmot chairman of the brewing conglomerate Molson Companies Ltd., was carrying Mrs. Willmot, four guests and a captain.

It sank so quickly there was no time to release the cruiser's life rafts, a spokesman for the United States life guard said Friday.

Among the passengers were the wife of George Mara, chairman of the bricks, steel and electrical products company Jannock Ltd. and the wife of Karl Scott, former chairman and chief executive officer of Ford Motor Co. of Canada, the newspaper said.

It says the other two passengers were identified as Mrs. Walter Lind, mother of a director of Rogers Cable TV, and Helen Fletcher, a widow. No one was injured.

C. R. Haskell of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., captain of the boat, said in a report to the coast guard that a smoke alarm went off early Wednesday when the boat was about 20 kilometres off Cat Cay, the Bahamas, and fire spread so fast that the women were forced to jump into the water.

Taped Sobriety Tests Saved the Day

VERNON (CP) — Videotaped sobriety tests helped save a Vernon man with two breath analysis readings of .22 per cent alcohol in his blood from an impaired driving conviction in provincial court Friday — but he was fined $150 on a charge of driving with a reading greater than .08 per cent.

RCMP videotaped Russell Dunn performing four sobriety tests, including walking a straight line and touching his nose with his eyes shut, when they arrested him June 18, 1978, following a three-car accident in Vernon.

It was only the second time a videotaped sobriety test was used in a British Columbia court, and Judge Jurgen Behncke earlier ruled it was admissible evidence.

RCMP Cpl. Frank Baruta testified Dunn had breath analysis readings of .22 in two tests. The legal limit for driving is .08.

Judge Behncke said in his ruling that the videotape was of great assistance in determining that Dunn's ability to pass the tests showed he was not visibly impaired.

Videotaping of suspected impaired drivers has been conducted by RCMP here since May, 1978, and the program is to be expanded to Quesnel, B.C.

When the videotaped evidence was used for the first time in court last year, it resulted in a conviction for impaired driving.

The 'Pure Katy' Kick Scores Big Comeback

By RON ALEXANDER

Marilese Flusser of New York remembers sneak-reading Katy Keene comics

Katy Keene, with the assistance of Marilese Flusser, is making a comeback.

Katy Keene, in case you don't recall, was a clothes-crazy glamorpuss of the mid-1940s and 50s, who first appeared in Archie Comics before graduating to her own comic book. She spent most of her time either seated at her organdy-skirted dressing table dreaming about clothes or ascending and descending long flights of stairs with great aplomp.

Marilene Flusser, a fashion co-ordinator at Saks Fifth Avenue, grew up in Manhattan in the 50s, where, she recalled the other day, she did "the usual things like dotting the letter 'i' with a circle, writing in my diary every night and sneaking Katy Keene comics into my bedroom because my parents didn't approve of comic books."

Her twin sister, Suzanne, Miss Flusser related, "was a bigger Katy fan than I was when we were kids."

"But even then I flipped over those clothes," she said. "I mean, there I was attending Convent of the Sacred Heart school and wearing green plaid jumpers, crisp white blouses and brown oxfords; no matter what you really looked like, you always looked fat in those outfits. And there was Katy, wearing clinging tulle gowns in the middle of the afternoon."

Although Miss Flusser, who is 34, ceased circle-dotting long ago, she is still a Katy Keene fan. In fact, while she has also deserted her diary jottings, she is writing a book about her comic-strip heroine with the blue-black hair, as well as resurrecting her.

"Katy-type fashion is happening today," Miss Flusser said. As examples, she cited "strapless dresses, form-fitting tops, slit skirts, sexy shoes, conversation-piece hats, monograms."

"They're pure Katy!" she said. "Not only that, but today there are places, like discos, where you can wear fun outfits and movie star clothes."

Miss Flusser also expressed amazed delight that "Yves Saint Laurent's key dress last season seemed to have been inspired by one of Katy's old gowns" and that "Karl Lagerfeld's wedding gown for Paloma Piccasso was definitely reminiscent of Katy's old Queen-of-Hearts dress."

Miss Flusser, who admired Katy for her "fabulous clothes that were always sexy and humorous," added with a grin that "Katy had a significant influence on my career — and, as it turns out, on the careers of many others as well."

Most of those fabulous clothes, as well as the cars Katy's comic book boyfriends drove, were designed by the readers themselves. Bill Woggon, who created the strip acknowledged the contributors by printing their names and addresses, and often their photographs along with their creations. Some of today's most famous fashion names, Miss Flusser has recently discovered, were among those who answered the comic book call, "Hey kids, send in your designs for Katy and her freiends."

Willi Smith told Miss Flusser that he used to send in "several hundred a month and once won a butterfly fashion contest." (Katy Keene's clothes, besides being sexy, were often almost surrealistic.) And Smith concluded his recent spring showing with a tribute to Katy.

But Katy Keene never slipped into any of Betsy Johnson's designs. "Betsy told me she sent in sketches, too, but they were never used," Miss Flusser said. "One of our most creative designers!" Not one to hold a grudge, Miss Johnson confided that last year she had tried for that blue-black shade for her own hair.

"She almost ruined it," Miss Flusser reported.

Antonio, the fashion designer, is another who sent in sketches. Katy never wore them, but the designer told Miss Flusser that he has never forgotten Katy's "tight pants, hats and, especially, her outrageous shoes."

Miss Flusser herself never sent in any designers and she only rediscovered the old Katy comics about a dozen years ago while browsing around flea markets and antique fairs.

"I was working as a model at the time and just beginning to realize how much I really liked fashion," she said. "I didn't have much money but my imagination was going wild. I shopped in antique clothing stores and began dressing rather eclectically, mainly because I didn't have much money at the time. I remembered one strip where Katy put a heart-shaped candy box on her head and said to her kid sister, 'Sis, wouldn't this make a great hat?' And I remember thinking, my God, that's the kind of thing I do!".

For her job interview at Saks three years ago, Miss Flusser recalled with a smile, she wore "what I call my calf-length, kimono-shaped coat of many colors — it looks sort of both Mexican and Egyptian; a matching knitted bag shot through with gold threads; black drawstring Army fatigue pants which were tucked into my two-tone cowboy boots; a red beret and fabulous yellow gloves." For a "touch of Saks Fifth Avenue," she said, her outfit that day included "a white blouse and a red Shetland pullover with lots and lots of assorted fun pins on it."

As for the book, Miss Flusser said that although she had been "threatening to do it for some time," it wasn't until last summer, when her husband, Alan, who designs men's clothing for Pierre Cardin, dared her to start that she took the first step. That was to write letters and send questionnaires to designers of some of her favorite Katy outfits. Her key question: "Did contributing designs and reading Katy comics influence your choice of career or hobby or any other aspect of your life?"

Around 25 per cent of the 500 people to whom she wrote responded. One woman, now a cake decorator, replied: "I put Katy Keene outfits on the icing whenever possible." Another wrote: "The only drawing I do today is drawing grave sites to scale for the New Bedford, Conn., cemetery department." One man admitted that he had never told his family about his published designs.

"A lot of us males were Katy Keene closet cases," he said.

Origins of Knitting Lost in Time

By MAY E. MAC LEAN

KNIT AND CHAT

Handsome Fair-Isle Afghan

I think I mentioned before that I have a hobby of collecting old books on knitting or any of the crafts. Just recently I read that knitting like other arts came from the East, long, long ago, its origins lost in time.

From the Arabian peninsula it spread eastwards to Tibet and westwards as far as Spain, and from there to other Mediterranean ports by the Arabs who were the great traders of those days.

Egypt learned her knitting from the Arabs, and it is in the ancient parts of Egypt where the Arabian influence penetrated, that Egyptian knitting discoveries dating from the fourth and fifth centuries have been discovered.

At what date knitting actually originated no one knows, but in the ancient city of Yemen in Arabia, earlier known as Felix the city of the Queen of Sheba, it is said to be known forever and that the pattern on the serpent's back was knitted by Eve.

Many historians have attempted to place a date when knitting was actually begun, and some have even suggested this was about 200 B.C. But there is also a legend that the seamless garment of Christ was knitted and so could not be cut or divided up, so lots were cast for the one who was to receive it.

Winter is still with us and now is the best time of year to begin a larger project. This week's pattern is a handsome Fair-Isle Afghan, one that would be elegant in any room. Knit in colors that will compliment your decor, it will be a warm addition to any home.

Knit with a Knitting worsted weight of wool or sayelle and No. 6 or 5 mm knitting needles, it will provide pleasant and a rewarding pastime for the remainder of the winter evenings.

To order Leaflet No. 0878, send 75 cents in coin, PLUS a stamped self-addressed return envelope, long one if possible. If you do not have a stamp or envelope, please enclose an extra 25 cents to cover the cost of handling and print your name and address.

Send to: — May E. Mac Lean "KNIT & CHAT", c/o 486 Montford Drive, Dollard des Ormeaux, Roxboro, Que. Please be sure to state pattern numbers correctly when ordering and to enclose your stamped return envelope for faster service.

Allow two weeks for normal delivery. My catalogue of Gift & Bazaar Ideas is 25 cents, and all back numbers in the pattern series are 75 cents, along with a stamped return envelope.

Doing the Town

With DOROTHY FRASER

This personal touch is a real magic touch! . . .

Bath & Kitchen have just acquired a machine which literally made our eyes pop! . . . What it does is heat-seal embroidered applications like initials and all sorts of intriguing designs . . . butterflies, flowers, owls, bees, berries, golf clubs and other designs too numerous to mention . . . on towels, bathrobes, tablecloths, serviettes, slippers, placemats, aprons, tea cozies . . . in a word, anything made of cloth which you can buy at B&K! They'll do this for you right on the spot at a very nominal cost depending on the initials or designs you select (two sizes in all these) and you pay only from about 30¢ to $1.50 to have these very personalized designs put on . . . thus enhancing the pleasure these things will give if you're offering them as gifts! . . . But here's more . . . to introduce this new service to you . . . Bath & Kitchen are offering 100 dozen Cannon finger-tip guest towels . . . to each one of which a monogram or design has been applied . . . for only $1.99 . . . These would regularly sell for $4.98 without an applique! . . . We compared them with other towels whose monograms have been embroidered right on . . . and frankly we can't see a bit of difference . . . You really should pick up some of these guest towels right away and keep them on hand for shower gifts and such . . . Bath & Kitchen, James Bay Square, Simcoe and Menzies St., 385-2523.

Rent this Steamex and do your own carpets . . .

Machines seem to be rife at James Bay Square this week! . . . Right across, in the Mall, James Quality Cleaners are priding themselves on having acquired a Steamex Carpet cleaner which shampoos and vacuums and leaves your carpets spanking clean . . . They rent this out to you and you do the work yourself . . . at a mere fraction of what it would cost to have professional carpet cleaners go to your home . . . and with results every bit as perfect . . . We're told the machine is very easy to operate . . . and if you live in or around James Bay and can't cart it away yourself, that nice Mr. James will deliver it for you and pick it up! . . . Cost for renting is $15 for four hours . . . more than enough time to do all your rugs . . . or you can have it overnight for the same price . . . or over a weekend, Saturday to Monday for $25 . . . Mr. James will tell you which solution to get to do the most efficient job on the types of carpets in your home and for the amount of traffic which passes over them . . . the powerjets in the Steamex reach down and suck in all the dirt . . . your carpets are restored to their original colors, and they dry in no time flat . . . you can walk on them after just a couple of hours . . . Just one thing more to reassure you . . . Steamex is absolutely safe for your rugs, and all Steamex solutions carry the Good Housekeeping Seal . . . James Quality Cleaners, James Bay Square, Simcoe and Menzies St., 388-7514.

Soft, pretty — and very wearable . . . dresses . . .

This is a very good time to visit Wilsons . . . Sale's over, inventory's taken . . . and so many lovely new spring clothes are now on display for you to browse among and try on! . . . Simple, soft and pretty is the best way we can describe the Pat Sandler dresses we were shown on Monday . . . They're all hand-washable . . . and if you've ever thought the new styles are not for you . . . just try one of these on for size! . . . One, in 100% polyester crepe, has a braid trim around the neck, over the shoulders and back yoke . . . comes in cream, peach and blue . . . Another dress in a silk/poly blend with a slub finish has short sleeves and drawstring waist . . . Cream with a wide band of either lavender blue or dusty rose at the waist . . . A lovely dress in polyester jersey features elbow-length batwing sleeves, boat neckline and the very new tulip skirt with a curved slit on one side . . . Mint green or almond . . . We had to penetrate the nether regions to get a look at the new Malia sun dresses from Honolulu which were just being unpacked . . . Two charming styles in polyester sheer . . . one with string ties on the shoulders, a blue and white floral unmistakably Hawaiian . . . the other, two shades of blue, with a frill around the scoop neck . . . No room to tell you about the Hawaiian polished cottons and sailcloths, but do see them at . . . W. & J. Wilson Limited, 1221 Government St., 383-7177 and 1210 Newport Ave., 592-2821.

Professionalism at its best . . .

Now that the holiday season is well behind us . . . and nothing ahead but a couple of blah months . . . don't you feel the need of a lift . . . preferably something that will enhance your appearance . . . boost your morale . . . get people remarking on how great you look? . . . Then take our advice and go have a new perm at the Hair Society . . . the expertise of whose staff we can't praise too highly! . . . Just last Monday we remarked to Tibor what a beautiful permanent he'd just given a client and he told us it was a new method he'd perfected himself . . . Tibor's a man who knows everything there is to know about the chemistry of hair . . . and a terrifically good stylist to boot! . . . When you get a perm at the Hair Society you can relax because you KNOW it's going to turn out well . . . The staff are so professonal . . . so experienced . . . They decide what is best for your hair and use it . . . and the price quoted for your perm includes the cut and whatever treatment is necessary to help your hair look its best . . . Just to show you how very expert they are . . . would you believe that never a week goes by that they aren't called upon to correct hair problems which have been caused by not-so-professional methods? . . . If you've a hair problem of any kind, here's where to go for advice and repair! A new staff member was added this past week . . . Lois Penney who's another true professional! . . . The Hair Society, 1712 Douglas St., 385-8133 and Witch's Hut, 728 View St., 388-7368.

Custom-made dresses at ready-to-wear prices . . .

Mr. Suli dresses are really a phenomenon . . . They're washable . . . non-crushable . . . excellently cut and beautifully styled . . . are mostly in the $60 price bracket . . . and look good on females of any age! . . . Impacts 'N Imports . . . who are famous, among other things, for their Mr. Suli dresses tell us they've sold them to girls of 18 and women of 80! . . . New ones are just in . . . drip-dry summer dresses with raglan shoulder, ¾-length roll-up sleeves and tab front . . . in plain shades of light blue, yellow, green and pink . . . priced at $65 . . . Another pretty Mr. Suli dress is a polyester sheer in mulberry tones wth a leaf pattern . . . or same thing in greyish-blue . . . But the Mr. Sulis are not the only things that are new at Impacts! . . . Bonita, who makes so many lovely skirts and blouses for the store . . . is now making the most delightful drip-dry cotton dresses which are in stock so you can try them on, but they'll be made up individually for you if the stock size is not just right! . . . Cap or roll-up sleeves . . . Colors are grey, green or beige with a small pattern in the material . . . Very packable, and just what you need if you're going anywhere warm! . . . Price is $70 . . . and another dress in Boussac cotton in a muted paisley design is $80 . . . There's also a charming sundress with shirred top and wide shoulder straps . . . in red and white or green and white seersucker . . . Cool as a cucumber! . . . Impacts 'N Imports, 12 Centennial Square, 388-7023.

Amethysts for February . . .

The amethyst is a particularly happy choice as the February birthstone because it's becoming to women of every coloring . . . blonde, brunette, redhead and grey-haired alike! . . . We saw some magnificent amethyst jewellery at deCourtiere's this week . . . Among the amethyst rings . . . an oval stone with diamonds all around to set off the deep purple . . . $925 . . . A modern ring has a tilted stone with one small diamond on either side . . . Only $259 . . . which is a very good price for this . . . Another modern ring has three amethysts offset . . . and an antique style has three amethysts with diamonds between . . . Amethyst earrings would be a super gift for a February birthday girl too . . . some little heart drops priced at only $46.50 . . . Dainty little studs, at $61.50 . . . and a pair of drops . . . at $145 . . . While you're in deGoutiere's, be sure to see the gorgeous new Scarab pendant . . . pink and green cat's eye tourmaline with a diamond at the top . . . This was designed by Mr. deG. and is one-of-a-kind. Price . . . is $2,350 . . . A couple of 18k gold pendants also designed by Mr. de Goutiere are likewise one-of-a-kind . . . There are new carriage clocks by Frodsham of England . . . reproductions of old clocks, in six different styles and sizes . . . each one a real treasure . . . $410 to $1,250 at . . . deGoutiere Ltd., 2542 Estevan Ave., 592-3224.

Table looms at a bargain price! . . .

One of the stores we really enjoy visiting from time to time is the Victoria Needlecraft Centre on Oak Bay Ave. . . . Right now Mrs. Brandt has some table looms which she picked up in Toronto last fall at a very good price . . . so she has been able to tag them at but $19.95 . . . the very same looms that are selling in Eastern Canada for $32! . . . So if you'd like to weave cushions, wall hangings, etc. . . . here's the place to go for your loom . . . You'll find books with patterns here too . . . and all the wools you need . . . Speaking of wools . . . there are still quite a lot of knitting yarns being sold at greatly reduced prices . . . Victoria Needlecraft have a tremendous selection of needlepoint canvases . . . a lot of new designs with everything from Old Masters to contemporary designs . . . There's also a large selection of canvas by the yard in various mesh sizes . . . But getting back to the printed canvases . . . you'll find something here not obtainable elsewhere . . . The most beautiful bellpulls . . . birds and flowers worked in petitpoint . . . We're told these sell like hot cakes! . . . Something else we hadn't seen here before is the petitpoint jewellery from Vienna . . . there are brooches, bracelets, earrings, necklaces, pill boxes and letter openers . . . in gold or silver colored metal, with exquisite petitpoint floral designs. Nice gift items . . . Victoria Needlecraft Centre, 1863 Oak Bay Ave., 592-3711.

Yes, Calories Really Do Count And You Better Start Counting

I'm surprised by the mumber of girls who work with me who eat little or nothing day in and day out. They all bring along their cans of liquid protein. Two of the girls got very sick after they did this for about three weeks. Are there some people who should not be allowed to use this method for losing weight? I've thought of trying it. — Miss H.N.

Dear Miss N.: We will never see the end of diet fads. If you think back, it is only a short time ago that there was the water diet, the drinking man's diet, the eat-all-you-want diet, the high fat diet, the Mayo diet, the seven-day diet, the nine-day diet and heaven help us, the total starvation diet.

All of them are diets made to capture the attention of people who cannot discipline themselves into sensible control of their eating habits.

As I've often written, the rule to lose weight is a simple one. To adhere to the rule is much more difficult and often frustrating.

Calories do count and you must count them. The rule says that if you eat more calories than you expend in your daily activity then a gain of weight is inevitable. If you eat fewer calories than you burn up in activity, then a loss of weight must follow.

Only in rare instances are there some thyroid or other hormone problems which interfere with this basic concept.

Now, about your liquid protein diet. There has been growing concern about this method of weight reduction. A group of scientists have been carefully evaluating the potential dangers of the liquid protein diet. Dr. Harold Sours and Dr. Roger Feldman believe that "the risk of death from liquid protein diets is far greater than has been previously realized."

They have revealed that "in the last six months of 1977, 11 women died among the 37,000 women between the ages of 25 and 44 who had been on one or another type of liquid formula for at least two months."

Another bulletin says: "There is little reason to doubt that the present data shows an increasing risk with prolonged use of the diet for people of both sexes and all ages and all racial groups."

Readers who still entertain the idea of a liquid protein diet after all these warnings should first consult their own doctor and remain under his constant supervision to be sure that pointless and unnecessary risks do not mar their good health.

Wonderful World of Animals

Keep Truckin' But . . .

DEAR DR. MILLER: Isn't it bad for a dog to ride in a pickup truck bed this time of year? The ones I am seeing now look cold and miserable back there. Our neighbor always takes his dog in the back of his truck even though he has room in the cab. He says it doesn't get cold and it likes it better back there. Is this true? — H. B.

DEAR H. B.: Not for most dogs. The cab is indeed warmer and more comfortable though, for a few, less exciting. Ideally, the dog should never have that choice. It should be the cab or not at all. Even during warm weather, a pickup bed is a dangerous canine carrier. Wind-blown dust, dirt, pebbles popping up from passing cars and insects can all cause trouble to dogs' ears and eyes and, of course, this time of year pneumonia could be the result.

Even more hazardous is the distinct possibility that the dog won't remain in that pickup bed. Many are killed when they fall or jump out. Even some non-canine freeway fatalities may result, too. Beyond that, should a suddenly truckless canine survive the leap and the traffic, it's frequently lost, never to see its owner again. Hence, "trucking" canines should always be in the cab.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I saw Sasy, our cat, licking a philodendron leaf. That night, when she didn't eat, I looked in her mouth and her tongue was swollen. Could philodendron do that? If it did, would that mean she is allergic to it? — S.M.

DEAR S.M.: Sassy's swollen tongue was, undoubtedly, related to the philodendron encounter. If that's all that happened, though, she's lucky. About half of the cats feasting on philodendron — and not just licking it — succumb to the resulting poisoning.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I know it's not true that you can't teach an old dog new tricks, so I'm hoping you can teach an old bird new tricks. Can you? In particular, I am thinking of my myna bird, Blacky. He is eight years old and has never said a word in his life, though he does squawk plenty. Could I get him to talk, do you think, if I launched a crash conversation course? — A. A.

DEAR A. A.: Mum's the word, most likely; or, more accurately, not even "Mum." Chances of Blacky blabbering something intelligible after all these years are mighty slim indeed.

dear abby

DEAR ABBY: I have just begun to baby-sit and it would be helpful if I had some rules to go by. Will you please write some "Do's and Don'ts" on baby-sitting? — BETSY B.

DEAR BETSY: How's this:

WHEN YOU ARE ASKED TO BABY-SIT:

Be businesslike. State the days you will be available, the experience you've had, and the pay you consider fair. NEVER accept a job from a stranger. If you don't know the person calling, ask who recommended you, then call that person and check it out.

If you can't provide your own transportation to and from the job, ask what arrangements can be made.

Find out in advance the name, address, phone number, number of children, and how long you will be expected to stay. It's always a good idea to get acquainted with the family (and especially the child) before you go to baby-sit.

Always ask beforehand what your duties will be.

When you take a job, be sure your parents have the name, address and phone number of the people for whom you are sitting.

Before you are left in charge of a child, be sure you know where the parents can be reached.

Have the phone number of the family doctor, paramedics and a close relative or a trusted friend or neighbor handy in case of emergency.

Ask how you should handle incoming phone calls, and always keep a pencil and paper near the phone.

Get full information about locking doors and windows, lights to be left burning.

Ask what you should do if the doorbell rings.

Get special instructions (diapers, bottles, bedtime snacks, children's use of TV or radio, "lights out", etc.) and write them down if there are many.

If medications are to be given, have parents write down all pertinent information (name of medicine, amount, time, and child's name).

Accept escort to your home as planned unless the person who is to drive you home appears drunk. Then insist on phoning your own parents to make other arrangements.

WHEN YOU ARE LEFT IN CHARGE OF A CHILD:

Guard against strangers. Don't unlock the door for ANYONE! If you see a strange face in the window, or if someone tries to get in, call the police at once.

In case of fire, FIRST get the baby and other children out of the house or apartment, then call the fire department from a neighbor's phone.

Guard against accidents: be alert to possible hazards such as medicines in bathroom, knives, scissors and other dangerous utensils in kitchen; poisons, cleaning fluids, etc., under sink within baby's reach.

Check frequently on a sleeping baby.

Remember, you are a guest: take food only if you have permission. Eat moderately and wash dishes you've used.

Don't explore. Don't open closets or drawers, or read personal mail left open to view.

Don't allow friends to visit you while you are baby-sitting. Give your job your undivided attention. Avoid making personal phone calls. Keep line open for incoming calls from the baby's parents.

Multiculturalism recognizes the fundamental right of all Canadians to preserve their cultural background. All citizens, irrespective of their ethnic background, have equal opportunities for development.

The 120-page bilingual booklet Multiculturalism and the Government of Canada explains the background of Canada's policy with regard to multiculturalism. It discusses the role of federal cultural agencies which further the national policy, such as the Canada Council, the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, the National Film Board and others. There is also an outline of the activities of directorates and branches within government departments which are interested in multiculturalism.

An impressive bilingual folder General Criteria For Multicultural Assistance Programs describes the help available to ethnic groups to develop their organizational skills, to achieve cultural aspirations and to establish contact with other people.

These programs assist members of all cultural groups and encourage encounters and interchange. With some exceptions, applicants for financial assistance should be from voluntary organizations. You will find details on how and where to apply.

To obtain a copy of either or both of the above publications, write to: Multicultural Directorate, 45 Bastion Square, 2nd Floor V8W 1J1.

Equipment : Buy It Wisely

GARDENING

jack beastall

Our final preparations for a more pleasant, more relaxing approach to gardening, and a more productive year, pertain to those relatively expensive pieces of equipment we purchase to lessen physical labor.

Included are the garden cart, wheelbarrow, lawnmower, and the rotary tiller.

The retail price of these tools reflects the quality of the components and the manner in which the components are assembled.

The lowest price is often related to a piece of equipment that falls apart within a couple of years. A medium price represents a tool which will give service for many years when properly cared for. In this class the purchaser has to beware of paying for cheap construction or unnecessary frills.

The highest price group are usually tools for the professional who uses them every day, heavy and possibly too large for use in a small garden.

Garden carts vary greatly in design, the cheaper models having round rods for wheel axles held to the body of the cart by strips of thin metal.

When turning corners with a loaded cart the axle slips sideways and the wheel is dragged against the body. This wears the tires on the wheels to a point where they stretch and fall off, and also causes rapid rusting and pinholes in the part of the body rubbed by the tires.

Another feature of the cheaper model which is very annoying is one support leg attached to tha centre of the body just below the handle where it constantly catches the toes or heels of the operator when pushing or pulling the cart. When parked crossways on a slope the cart tips sideways when being loaded.

The axle problem can be solved by having two plates brazed to the axle each drilled with two holes for attaching with small bolts, but changing the support to two supports is expensive for a cart built of cheap materials.

Good quality metal can be judged by comparing the weights of different makes, the heavier carts giving the best value for the dollars invested.

Given the same care we lavish on our automobiles, a quality garden cart will last a home gardener 20 years or more, requiring only replacement of tires.

Rapid deterioration comes from leaving the cart out in the elements; leaving wet soil in the body; allowing rainwater to collect and remain in the cart; storing the cart on its wheels instead of turning it upside-down to keep the tires from flattening; failing to keep the body painted; handling roughly and denting the body when loading or emptying; failure to keep the wheel bearings greased.

Frequent hosing down to remove acculumated mud and dirt, waxing to preserve the protective finish, touching up scratches and rust spots and the removal of dents are considered essential for the family car but rarely thought of as necessary for the garden cart, wheelbarrow, lawnmower or tiller.

To have a garden cart that is a pleasure to use requires a few winter evenings spent on servicing job.

First remove the support leg(s), and the axle with the wheels attached. Wash the thoroughly, allow to dry, then apply a coat of good quality enamel.

Pry off the hub caps and remove the wheels from the axle, watching carefully for any roller bearings that may fall out of the hubs. Clean the rollers and bearing surfaces, grease, and reassemble.

When the enamel is fully dry and hardened, apply a coat of good automobile wax to protect the finish. During spring and fall hose down the cart frquently, dry, and rewax as needed. Store under cover when not in use, tipped against a wall or upside-down to prevent flat spots on the tires.

The same washing, painting, waxing, and greasing is needed on the garden wheelbarrow. The easier these tools are to operate the more pleasure there is in using them.

The lawnmower is another neglected tool which will give much longer service if given regular care. The body of the rotary mower usually falls apart from rusting long before the motor gives any serious trouble.

After each time the grass is cut the mower should be turned on its side and the underpart of the body cleaned of all grass and accumulated dirt. Always remove the spark plug wire to prevent the engine from starting when the cutting blade is moved by hand.

Leaving debris on the underside of the body not only causes rapid rusting, it also interferes with the built-in cleaning action of the machine when in use.

Remove the debris with a stiff brush; a putty knife can be used if necessary. Wash with a hose or stiff brush and pail of water, removing accumulated dirt from corners, crevices, and around bolt heads that hold the motor to the body. Rust around these bolts can cause the body metal to rip and release the engine.

Once a month loosen the bolts on the wheel height adjusting brackets, oil the threads and retighten. This makes height adjustment easy to suit the kinds of grass and the season. Each kind of grass has a definite height to which it should be cut.

Winter servicing of the lawnmower by the home gardener, in addition to the fall servicing of the engine befores storage, consists of cleaning underneath the body, removing rust, painting with enamel; painting the upper part of the body if necessary, or waxing; removal of controls, oiling inside the armor cable, and the bearing surfaces' cleaning dust and sediment from the gas tank.

If engine requires servicing it should be taken to the service depot immediately, since there may be a 4 to 6 week wait before it is returned. Later the waiting period will be longer, and so will the grass.

The efficiency of a rotary mower depends on the sharpness of the blade. A nicked and blunt blade wastes power and severely damages the grass leaves, often causing the browning so many gardeners report.

It is wise to have two blades on hand, one on the machine while the other is at the shop being sharpened.

These blades are not only sharpened, they also must be carefully balanced otherwise excessive vibration will damage the engine bearings, and tear the engine bolts from a rusty body. Sharpening is a job for the service shop which has the machinery for maintaining the correct cutting level and for balancing the blade.

The preparing of the rototiller for spring follows the same lines as needed for the lawnmower.

WORK FOR WEEK

If frost is again out of the soil, it may be suitable for continuing planting of deciduous trees and shrubs, including roses. Bare-rooted material should be put in at once for it is much better when done in fall. However, some work may have been delayed.

In sandy soil with mostly full sun, tuberous anemones and ranunculi will give brilliant display from late May until July.

Check stored dahlia tubers and gladiolus corms to see that they are cold enough to prevent much top growth. Discard soft or obviously diseased.

Look for hard shiny grey-black egg masses on twig ends of fruit and other deciduous trees. These are of tent caterpillar. Remove and burn.

In frost-free greenhouses or sunporch, sow seed of early Simpson lettuce; endive to go out later; also small boxes of mustard and cress to eat within 10 days, then cut off at soil level; fork over soil and re-sow.

Catch up with January suggested work of last few weeks.

How to Keep Prisoners Home

QUEBEC (CP) — Keep 'em busy building picnic tables and prefabricated garages and the prisoners will always stay home, says Gilles Blanchard, director of Orsainville Detention Centre here.

"Why do you think there were no deaths or escapes at Orsainville in 1978?" Blanchard asks.

"It's because the inmates are busy working."

Since last May, they have put together 4,000 picnic tables, hundreds of chairs, 400 pre-fab garages and filled laundry contracts with three local motels.

Things are so busy at the spacious prison workshop that, at one point last summer, officials put in a call for 14 prisoners from Sherbrooke and Cowansville to help out.

Twenty per cent of revenues from the workshop goes to pay the working prisoners. Each makes about $40 a week, of which half is held in a trust account at a credit union until his release.

Blanchard says the wages are being reviewed and may be increased, while taking into account that prisoners' room and board already are paid for.

Prices of the Orsainville products are competitive. A pre-fab garage, for instance, sells for $250—$50 less than elsewhere.

This Wheel Abrasive

By A. J. HAND

A few years back, I closed off my fireplace and installed a woodburning stove. Part of the installation involved replacing my old wooden mantle with one made of stone. The stone I used was a length of precut bluestone stair tread. It was just the right width and thickness — about 10 by two inches — but it was a little over a foot too long.

Solution? I cut off the excess with my portable circular saw. Needless to say, I didn't do the job with an ordinary saw blade. In fact, what I used wasn't really a blade at all. Strictly speaking, it was what is called an abrasive cutoff wheel.

What is an abrasive cutoff wheel? Basically, it's a disk about ⅛-inch thick, made up of super-hard silicon carbide particles and reinforced with a mesh of fibreglass. These wheels are made in sizes to fit all portable circular saws, and most table and radial-arm saws as well.

Most manufacturers offer these wheels in two types. One is for cutting masonry such as stone, concrete, brick or marble. The other type can make short work of most metals. They are a real improvement over hacksaws when you have a lot of heavy metal cutting to do.

Obviously, cutting masonry and metal is hard work, and cutoff wheels are fragile compared to steel blades. So using them calls for a certain amount of care and caution. Always handle and store these wheels with care. Don't drop them or subject them to shock that might cause cracking. Always inspect a wheel for possible damage before mounting it on your saw. When mounting the wheel, do not overtighten the mounting nut.

After mounting a wheel, stand to the side and let the saw run at full speed for a minute or more. Only then should you start a cut. For best results, don't make freehand cuts. Whenever possible, clamp a board to your work. Run the base of the saw along the board, using it as a guide. This technique should prevent possible binding of the disk and possible breakage.

Always cut slowly. Don't jam the disk into your work, and don't force the cut. If the work you are cutting is thick, make your cut in two or more passes. Start by setting the saw to make a shallow cut. After that cut is made, set the disc to cut deeper and repeat. I cut that two-inch-thick bluestone with a series of four separate passes.

One final caution: Wear goggles or some form of eye protection whenever you use an abrasive cutoff wheel. Chips of metal or masonry, even bits of the wheel will be flying about as you make your cut; you don't want them in your eyes.

TOP TOPPLER

NEW YORK (AP) — The challenge is out and the United States soon may witness an actual head-to-head domino "topple off."

A 23-year-old civil engineer from Britain has called on world champion toppler Bob Speca to match dominoes with him in June.

Speca set his record last year by toppling 97,500 dominoes as a fund-raising effort. The challenger, Michael Cairney, said at a news conference Friday that he briefly held the world mark of 33,266 in 1977.

Theatre Guild Presents I Remember Mama

The production, opening next week at Langham Court Theatre, of I Remember Mama, provides an especially apt commemoration of a milestone event in the long history of Victoria Theatre Guild.

The tender, very human comedy created by John Van Druten out of actual memoirs of "Mama's" real-life daughter, will be having its second performance at Langham Court 29 years — give or take a month or four — after it was first seen there.

Curtain goes up Thursday on the new production directed by Helen Smith, the Theatre Guild's recently elected president. There is a large cast, all genuine and fascinating characters, most of them members of an immigrant Norwegian family living in turn-of-the-century San Francisco.

The original book was entitled Mama's Bank Account, and in the play it is Mama's bank account that lies at the heart of the story.

The first performance of I Remember Mama took place in 1950 and was the production that marked the reuniting of the Victoria Little Theatre with a spin-off group, Victoria Players Guild.

Dissatisfaction with an artistic and financial stalemate at the Little Theatre caused a majority of the best actors to break away and form the Players' Guild in the late 1940s. This group prospered for nearly two years while the Little Theatre's fortunes deteriorated.

But the Little Theatre held a special place in the hearts of those who had been close to it in its beginning as the Mimes and Masquers Guild. Their influence was brought to bear, meetings were held, concessions made including the change to the present name, and the two organizations became one.

The Victoria Theatre Guild is the straight-line descendent of an organization that was conceived in 1929. It is, therefore, now in its 50th year which qualifies it as being one of the oldest continuously active arts organizations in the city, with only the Arion Male Choir and Victoria Musical Art Society senior to it.

I Remember Mama will continue its run at Langham Court until Feb. 17 with curtain time 8:15 p.m.

International Art Show Art Lover's Dream-Come-True

Most people, especially young people, dream dreams of the future that enshrine some particular ideal — a way of living, an occupation, an experience. Many cannot find the way to make the dream a reality so it fades with time.

Paul Kyle is not one of them. From early youth he dreamed of some day opening an art gallery of his own.

He knew the risk. He knew what lots of people would say. He had to accomplish it on a shoestring but 15 months ago he did it; he opened Kyle's Gallery in a neat concrete building at the Oak Bay Junction, 1545 Fort.

He had one concept: to establish and maintain the highest possible quality in the works he accepted and showed. Yet it was not to be exclusive in its clientele, but available to all. The venture has been good so far, averaging 200 viewers a week. So Paul decided to do something else he's always wanted to do — put together a major international show.

"I've always had a few international works on view," he says, "but this was to be a big exclusively European exhibition. Something I hope I will be able to make an annual event in the gallery."

The exhibition of original works by 14 European masters opens at Kyle's Gallery Sunday with viewing from noon to 10 p.m. The works, all of them for sale, are in considerable variety including 12 Picassos, three Rodin bronze sculptures, three Renoirs including a painting and two etchings, a Chagall pencil-crayon drawing, and works by Matisse, Miro, Jongkind, Valadon, Utrillo and many others. In styles and medium he says there is something for everyone. The Renoir painting, incidentally, was last owned by Benny Goodman.

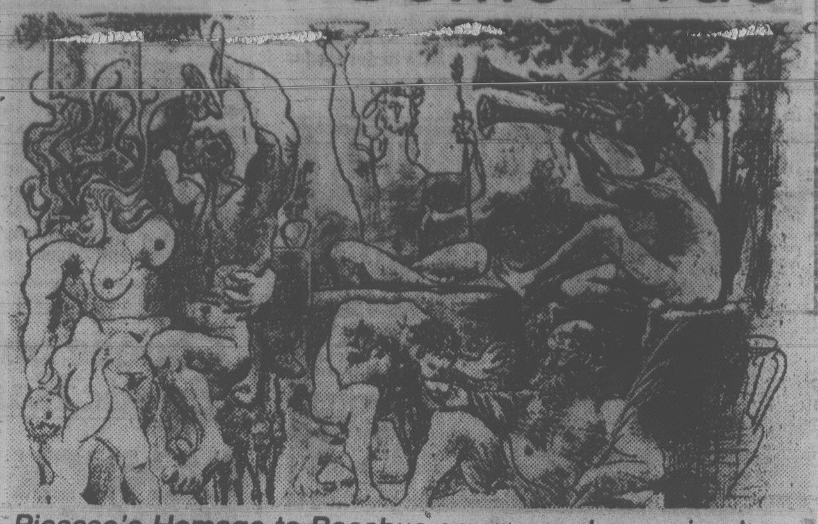
In some cases Paul says he takes less commission than is usual, making the price of works a little lower. The master works in this show, which will continue through March [illegible], are generally priced lower than you would pay in New York or London, he says.

Paul's family background prepared him for the career he has chosen. His father, Joseph Kyle, is both an artist and a composer and is now the head of the Victoria College of Art here. He has four sisters and a brother as well as a mother who are artists, and his maternal grandmother was a ballerina in London who taught ballet to the young Queen Mary, consort of George V.

He had his first gallery job at the age of 16 in Vancouver, and has also studied framing and has a framing studio in conjunction with his gallery.

"The art of framing requires a seven-year apprenticeship in Germany," he tells you. "One has to learn all about materials — in a way it's a chemistry course because certain chemicals involved in glues, papers and so forth react destructively together. Some original works by Picasso, for instance, were destroyed by framing which brought together the wrong elements."

Regular hours at the gallery are Tuesday through Sunday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.; Wednesday to Friday evenings, 7:30 to 10.



Picasso's Homage to Bacchus among works coming here

An important exhibition of Haida argillite carvings went on view and sale at Art Mosaic in Harbour Square, this week. The 60 pieces in the show are valued at $200,000.

Argillite is a black slate mined only in the Queen Charlotte Islands, the Haida Indians being the only people permitted to mine it, which makes the carvings particularly rare. The works will remain on view through Feb.13. Gallery hours are 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday though Saturday and through 9 p.m. on Friday.

A grant of $3,000 has been awarded University of Victoria's Maltwood Art Museum and Gallery, by the Samuel and Saidye Bronfman Family Foundation. The funds will be used to furnish the study gallery in the basement of University Centre, with dust-proof exhibit cases, print cabinets and artifact examination facilities.

The gallery has been designed for the Maltwood Collection of fine decorative and applied arts and will be used as a research facility open to faculty members, staff, students and the general public.

On Monday, Feb.12, Art Gallery of Greater Victoria Women's Committee will hold its monthly picture-loan event from 1 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. Gallery members may rent pictures from an ever-changing collection at the Gallery, 1040 Moss.

Artists whose work is available include Edythe Hembroff-Schleicher, Toni Onley, Flemming Jorgensen, Peter Goetz, Pegi Nicol and Andréi Zadorozny.

A STRONG CAST has worked under the guidance of director Don Shipley, to prepare the thoughtful as well as comic and tender interpretation of Peter Nichol's play A Day in the Death of Joe Egg now being seen nightly at The Belfry Theatre (except Monday). In this scene family and friends of Joe, the hopelessly crippled child, explore therapy techniques using a rag doll. From left, on the couch, Denis Arndt and Sylvia Hatchman as the parents, Margaret Barton as the grandmother. Meddling friends are Ingrid Blekys, behind, and Terence Durrant, right. Ten-year-old Jill Carfra plays the child.

Detroit Conductor Highly Accredited

Next to last of the candidate guest conductors for Victoria Symphony appears this weekend in Sunday-Monday concerts at University Centre auditorium.

The credentials of Paul Douglas Freeman are among the most imposing yet presented, and advance word is that he is as good as he looks on paper.

The Virginia-born, 43-year-old conductor is currently conductor-in-residence with the Detroit Symphony as well as being music advisor and conductor to the Saginaw Symphony and artistic director of the Delta Summer Festival of Music and Art. He is a recording artist for Columbia and Musical Heritage Society among other labels. His background includes study in Berlin on a Fulbright Scholarship and study in France with Pierre Monteux.

FREEMAN

Freeman has made guest appearances with most of the major U.S. orchestras including the N.Y. Philharmonic, Cleveland, Chicago and San Francisco Symphonies, and abroad with the Royal Philharmonic and London Symphony, the Berlin Symphony, Warsaw Philharmonic, Oslo Philharmonic, Helsinki Philharmonic and a great many others.

This year's activities include a guest appearance with the Sacramento Symphony and in Canada at Calgary and Edmonton. Many important awards and honors have come to him, among them the $2,500 prize in the 1967 Dmitri Mitropolous International Conductors Competition and in 1968 the special Spoleto Award to conduct Tristan und Isolde at the Festival of Two Worlds.

Guest soloist for the Victoria concerts is world-renowned Canadian flutist Robert Aitken. Aitken has performed concerts throughout Europe, in Japan and across Canada. He spent four summers on the faculty of Rudolf Serkin's Marlboro Music Festival and three as principal flute with the Stratford Festival Orchestra. He was invited to Paris to participate in a program opening a new great concert salon.

With Freeman conducting, Aitken will perform Mozart's Flute Concerto No.1 in G. Freeman will also conduct the Sibelius Finlandia and the Rachmaninoff Symphony No.1.

SOLOIST and ensemble player, violinist Susan Eddlemon will give a second Victoria recital 8 p.m. Thursday in the recital hall of UVic's new music building, with Kathleen Solose at the piano.

From the Musical Notebook

By AUDREY JOHNSON

For pianists this week the big news concerns a series of master classes to be presented by Martin Isepp, pianist and harpsichordist, at Victoria Conservatory of Music. The Austrian-born and British-educated pianist electrified critics first in 1966 when he shared the concert stage at New York's Town Hall with lieder singer Janet Baker.

This was a debut for New York to remember, said the critics, likening him to the great Gerald Moore in praising accompanist as much as singer. For the past five years he has been head of Juilliard's opera training department, and each year he returns to Glyndebourne where he recently took on the position of chief festival coach.

His classes at the Conservatory will take place Feb. 13 to 17. All those interested should phone the Conservatory 595-2151, for information.

Friday at the Conservatory will bring the last but one of the immensely popular Trio Victoria concerts. The program features the Shostakovich Piano Trio Op.67, and two Mozart works — the Sonata for Violin and Piano in A Major K.305, and Piano Sonatain A Major K.331.

Electronic and computer music created in the University of Victoria's new Electronic Music Studios is to be featured in a concert Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the music building recital hall.

Tape compositions using UVic's electronic sound generating equipment and computer controlled digital synthesizer along with live electronic performance pieces are included in the program. UVic composers Rudolf Komorous, Martin Bartlett, John Celona, Michael Longton, Anthony Genge, Doug Collinge and Lawrence Russell are featured. Admission is free.

In the free lunchtime concerts at McPherson Playhouse, next week, silver medal-winning pianist Monica Pfau will be heard in recital Tuesday. The film series exploring Quebec continues on Wednesday, and Thursday's treat will be a concert of baroque music performed by Victoria Symphony musicians Katharine Hartung, oboe, and Jan Menting, flute.

Everybody in Victoria seems to be newly conscious of buildings.

"I don't necessarily want to live or work in an old building but I'll fight to the death to deny your right to tear it down," we say to the owner of some more-than-50-year-old structure that lies squarely in the path of progress.

Some of us seem to have got a little high on the concept of "heritage." There is a tendency to apply it to almost any building, no matter how indefensible architecturally and how scruffy, if it's reached the mystical 50-year mark.

Nevertheless, thank goodness for the alert and the heritage-minded. We should all be eternally grateful for the perceptiveness that saved City Hall and low-keyed the design of the new wing. Anyone recall the recurring discussions that centred around tearing it down? In the obtuse and aesthetically impoverished climate of the '40s, no doubt it would have been replaced with some aridly functional lump of concrete and glass.

You think I'm defaming the period between the mid-'40s and '50s? You only have to look back to the beginning of the present Art Gallery of Greater Victoria to know that "obtuse" and "impoverished" are not too-strong words to describe official attitudes.

There we have a building with a fantastic story too long to go into here. Everyone knows that the Victorian period mansion is the core — the starting point — of what is now regarded as one of the most beautiful and well-appointed small galleries in Canada. But everyone does not know that it came near to slipping through our fingers.

Everybody knows about the buildings we ought to have but don't. There has been talk and argument for at least 30 years about a building to house a convention centre. Verbally it has been placed in half a dozen different locations. The Chamber of Commerce, downtown businessmen and the hotel association have been plugging for something that would seem a thoroughly reasonable amenity for such a city as Victoria. But no action is taken where it counts — where the money is.

Part of the trouble is that the rest of the people don't see it as benefiting them. With extremely limited vision, they figure a convention centre could only be good news to the business community.

Another long-debated building that isn't, of course, is an arts centre. And it's unlikely that many people living in the city now will see a genuine arts centre rise in their lifetime. The city will soon have a revamped Royal, and with the McPherson and the University Centre auditorium, no one would consider it sensible to contemplate at this point the building of a new arts centre.

With all this discussion of buildings — heritage or otherwise; old, new or in-between — we come crashing against one important building concerning which there has been an incomprehensible lack of decision on the part of the government. St. Ann's Academy.

There it stands in its large grounds. A genuine heritage site. Old. Commodious. Wasting.

The building was dedicated by the Sisters of St. Ann to education, to the nurture and care of the young. It has dozens of rooms of various sizes, including an auditorium, a recital hall and a chapel with an organ.

Over on the other side of town another genuine heritage building stands on its height of land, a unique relic of an ornate past, a building that charms and fascinates visitors Craigdarroch Castle.

Its greatest potential use is as a museum. Yet it continues to house a Conservatory of Music that has long outgrown it; while St. Ann's, by its very tradition, but more especially by its physical attributes and surroundings, is the obvious and ideal location for this acclaimed organization.

Why can't we have a decision?

Hints have been dropped, inferences made that its ultimate dedication will be to the conservatory and allied uses. God knows there is space there for all 1,326 conservatory students and the 100-member faculty and staff as well as to accommodate the other urgent needs of compatable organizations.

Why on earth was it necessary for the new minister in charge of government services, Hugh Curtis, a few days ago to announce that he would like suggestions as to the use of St. Ann's Academy?

All aspects of the business have been gone over and over with the parties so vitally concerned. What is this? More of the red tape the government never seems to run out of despite Sam Bawlf's new responsibility.

Or does it look more like some subtle game of politics in which a priceless and nationally recognized Victoria institution and industry is being shamefully used?

There are not many other institutions anywhere around that can equal these statistics: The conservatory squeezes over 50,000 lessons a year out of 26 rooms. (Of its 1,326 students, 38 commute from up-Island centres, and another 38 have come to study here from other Canadian cities, from Hong Kong, England, Germany, Holland and the United States.)

What big name or clique (or what big city) is the government afraid of offending in the matter?

One thing is virtually certain — I've said it before but it bears repeating — if any other capital city in any other province of Canada had such a lustrous and fantastically growing institution as the Victoria Conservatory of Music, a suitable home would have been found for it long ago, before its very growth and program development were handicapped by impossible space deficiencies.

Fire Probe Continues

An official of the provincial fire marshal's office is still trying to determine the cause of Wednesday's $500,000 fire in Esquimalt.

Esquimalt police Insp. Peter Merriott said investigators have been able to pinpoint the origin of the blaze — a basement locker room — but how and why the fire spread so quickly through the Gorge Vale Apartments at 1180 Colville is still not known.

Although only 12 of the 37 suites in the apartment were gutted, all occupants of the block have been forced to find other accommodation.

Owner Cedric Steele of Cedric Steele Realty Ltd. says he is reviewing the situation with his insurance adjuster with the view to repairing the damage.

Meanwhile, numerous church groups and the Salvation Army are offering free clothing to the victims. Members of the Mormon Church have offered to take in families for a few days until other living arrangements are made.

The Victoria Foursquare Church at 891 Esquimalt Road is collecting clothing, furniture and toys. Anyone wanting to make a donation should contact Rev. Ron Wallis at 595-3397.

Peter Bevan, manager of Cedric Steele Realty, said the company has placed seven of the 12 families who occupied suites destroyed in the fire.

"We'd like to find the others so we can direct them to buildings we know have vacancies and put them on to groups and agencies who have offered help," he said.

Floods Kill 53

RIO DE JANEIRO (Reuter) — At least 53 persons have died and more than 10,000 left homeless in Brazil's east-central state of Minas Gerais as a result of flooding, officials said Thursday. They said 30 towns had been isolated by floods brought on by steady rains since the beginning of January.

When you call your government, June Bates answers.

June Bates is one of the Government switchboard operators. She's been an operator for the Government for over 14 years.

That's a lot of phone calls.

But she does it because she enjoys helping people. And because she knows how important her job is to the operation of the government.

There's a good chance that you'll never meet June at work but there's a good chance you'll be talking to her.

June is only one of the more than 43,000 members of the B.C. Government Employees' Union working for you all over the Province.

At all kinds of jobs.

Under all kinds of working conditions.

All people whose skill, experience and dedication have made our provincial public employees among the most efficient anywhere in North America today.

And that's something to be proud of.

The B.C. Government Employees' Union
We're working for you.

Conservatory Eyes St. Ann's

The Conservatory of Music has applied to use the St. Ann's Academy building as its new home.

Principal Dr. Robin Wood and vice-principal Winnifred Wood in notices sent to supporters has urged them to write to Provincial Secretary Hugh Curtis asking him to consider the conservatory's application for the site of the former Catholic girls' school.

Wood said the conservatory requires at least 35,000 square feet compared to its present 10,000 square feet in Craigdarroch Castle if it is to continue to function at its present standards.

"Every square foot of available space in Craigdarroch Castle has been made use of, including a windowless former storage and electrical room (now a teaching studio) and an old shower room (now a library)," the notice said.

Curtis has asked for suggestions on how the property could best be used.

Two years ago Deregulation Minister Sam Bawlf favored turning the building into a cultural centre.

A NEW COMPUTER CHAMP

An improved version of Belle, pride of Bell Telephone Laboratories, in a startling upset won the Ninth Annual Northern American Open Computer Chess Championship in Washington, D.C. last December. Belle, which finished tied for fourth place in last year's world computer championship in Toronto, beat the current world champion CHESS 4.7 and three other opponents for a perfect score of four points.

CHESS 4.7, programmed by a Northwestern University Team and programmed to examining 300,000 to 500,000 positions before it makes a move, took second with three points.

"Belle has special-purpose hardware built to play nothing but chess," said David Levy of England, tournament director. "This idea speeds up the thought process considerably."

Levy was asked how long before such machines can be competitive against top human players. Levy's answer: "Maybe ten years, maybe considerably less."

Bell Labs had been at work on their machine in New Jersey since the Toronto title event. In the past, it was judged to be about 1475 strength, the equivalent of "C" class in the USCF ratings.

The Northwestern team is revising their program, which when finished will be called CHESS 5.0.

Levy, who beat CHESS 4.7 in Toronto in a close and celebrated match last August, was asked if that computer, reprogrammed, could successfully defend its world title. "It's difficult to say. If it didn't win here, maybe it isn't going to win the world championship."

Hint of Drought

Snowpack levels throughout much of B.C. are below normal for this time of year, posing a threat of summer water shortages, says a recent survey by the provincial environment ministry.

Ministry spokesman Hal Coulson said the Kootenays have the lowest snowpack level in the province with 50 per cent of its average level. He said the south coast and Vancouver Island regions are slightly above 50 per cent, the Okanagan has received 70 per cent of its average but northern areas are close to normal.

While Coulson said the low levels pose a future threat of water shortages, the snowpack will not reach its maximum level for another two months so the situation could improve.

School Exam Urged

The chairman of the Vancouver School Board has urged a return to provincial examinations in schools along with more discipline and a greater emphasis on achieving excellence.

Dr. Nathan Divinsky, speaking at a B.C. School Trustees conference at the Empress Friday, said recent assessments of the public school system indicate a marked decline in student achievements.

He said assessments in such areas as writing skills, science and mathematics show students are performing at an unsatisfactory level.

Pouring more money into the system isn't the answer, he said. Rather, schools should direct their energies back to basics.

He said examinations are valuable because they protect students from teacher favoritism, help identify students in trouble, and stimulate study.

He said ways have to be found to give diplomas more meaning and urged a greater recognition of the importance of excellence.

"Excellence lifts the soul of everyone who comes near it," he said.

Divinsky warned low achievement encourages narrow, immature and even irrational thinking.

Ex-Newsman Joins Bench

Former newspaper man Ian MacAlpine has been appointed to the provincial court bench.

MacAlpine, who studied law after 15 years as a reporter, is a partner in the Abbotsford law firm of Rosborough, MacAlpine, Koot and Burke.

He was a reporter with Saskatoon Star-Phoenix, Nelson Daily News, Vancouver Sun and Province, Canadian Press and CBC.

Weddings

Brown — Elliott

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church was the scene of a lovely double-ring ceremony on Saturday, October 28, 1978, when Mary Arlene, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Art Elliott of Meadow Lake, Sask., became the bride of Ronald Norman Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Brown of Victoria, B.C. Reverend J. Lewis W. McLean officiating.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride looked radiant in a floor-length gown of arnel jersey with sheer lace trimmed yoke and sleeves. A flowered crown held her fingertip veil edged in lace daisies. She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow tea roses, daisies and baby's breath. The maid of honor Charlene Barker, and bridesmaid Jeanne Clayards, wore identical dresses of yellow jersey with lace trimmed cape collars, and carried colonial bouquets of brown, gold and beige daisies, accented with tiny yellow carnations. The groom and his attendants, Dave Prescott and Jeff Dick, wore camel colored tuxedos accented with chocolate brown.

The reception followed at the Westwind International Motor Inn. The three tiered cake, decorated with yellow roses was made by the bride's sister, Mrs. Peggy Graham, Maple Ridge, B.C. Master of ceremonies was Bill Andrews of Comox, B.C. The toast to the bride was given by the bride's brother-in-law John Gorst of Prince George, B.C., and Dave Prescott proposed a toast to the bride and groom.

The dance following the reception was enjoyed by all. For the first time in 10 years, all 22 members of the Elliott family were together for the wedding.

The couple will be residing in Victoria.

FOSTER HOMES NEEDED

13 yr. old "Greg" — a pleasant, gentle, though immature lad with a learning disability — needs a foster Aunt and Uncle who would have him to stay on weekends and holidays — possibly to foster him full time if the need arises. "Greg" needs to experience normal family life, to know that someone will care about him over a long period of time. For info call Resources and Placement Section, Ministry of Human Resources, 598-5121.

Nice-looking, likeable "Michael" is 13 yrs. old but seems more like 10 in every way — physically, emotionally and academically. Poor experiences in his early life have given rise to his enormous need for love and attention, for encouragement and firmness, for resilient foster parents who can make a long term commitment to him. If you think you can help, call Donna Gaw 598-5121, Ministry of Human Resources — Capital Region.

IMPOSING FAIRFIELD CHARACTER

Built approx. 50 years ago and one owner owned for the past 30. Many thousands of dollars have been wisely spent over the past 5 years completely updating this home including new roof, plumbing, wiring, furnace and complete insulation but yet retaining the old fashion solidarity and charm of yesteryear, with its impressive bedrooms. A rare specimen on todays market you will agree when you see this huge house offering over 1650 sq. ft. main, a further 900 up plus full high basement ready for development.
Located on a beautiful lot with detached garage and one of the finest streets in Fairfield just 1 block from the ocean and offered for the first time at the modest price of just $82,900. Viewing strictly by appointment only. Call

One of My Favorite Homes

IS IT YOURS? Old time Victorians have loved this home since it brought genuine New England charm to its corner of Rockland in 1923. Let me take you through its inviting front door into the gracious Georgian interior with its spacious halls, reception rooms and sunporch. Let's admire the intricate mouldings and fine fireplaces — a far cry from today's colonial imitations. Then let's climb the beautiful stairway to the five bedrooms so well endowed with convenient storage and bathrooms. Down the back stairs to a kitchen remodelled to modern standards without losing colonial flavour. Oh and there are bonuses too, an attic and basement levels. SO MUCH LIVING FOR YOUR FAMILY. Come with me to see it by appointment $235,000. ML.

308 CARDS OF THANKS

THE DEATH OF OUR BELOVED wife, mother and grandmother, Norah Duncan, has left an emptiness in our hearts that can never be wholly filled, but the many kind words, flowers and acts of sympathy from our relatives and friends have helped immeasurably. We are deeply grateful to the Ladies Auxiliary and members of the Royal Canadian Legion, Branch #191 Chemainus, Father Bob Kelly and Sisters of St. Joseph's Church, Chemainus, the doctors and staff of Chemainus General Hospital, Dr. Robert Hosie, Victoria, B.C. and the organist, Mrs. Irene McBeth.
Dick Duncan and family.

THE FAMILY OF THE LATE Jack Gelling would like to express their heartfelt thanks to our relations, friends and neighbours for their many acts of kindness, for flowers, contributions to the Cancer Society, also members of the Dogwood Club and Victoria Horticultural and Gordon Head Garden Club. Many thanks to Dr. D.M.L. Shortning for the wonderful care. Also Rev. Laura Buckler for her inspiring words at the Memorial Service. Mary Gelling and family.

The family of the late Kathleen E. Benn would like to express their heartfelt thanks to our relatives, friends and neighbours for their acts of kindness, expressions of sympathy and donations to the heart fund. Also thanks to Rev. R. Sansom for his kind words and to the thoughtful efficiency of McCall Bros. — The Family.

I REGRET NOT TO BE ABLE to thank personally the many friends who sent the comforting letters and beautiful floral tributes and Gideon Bibles in memory of my dear friend, Miss Maude Batchelor, also Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Templeton and friends at North Park Manor.
Miss Agnes Barrow.

309 IN MEMORIAM

DOERTHIN — In remembrance of Harry Gladstone Doerthin, Passed away Feb. 5, 1978.
"The Fisherman's Prayer"

God grant that I may live to fish until my dying day
And when it comes to my last cast
I, then most humbly pray
When in the Lord's safe landing
net and peacefully asleep.
That in His mercy I may be judged as "Good enough to keep"
Until we meet again may God hold you in the palm of His hand.

In remembrance wife Winifred and Family

THEY SHALL GROW NOT OLD AS WE WHO ARE LEFT GROW OLD, AGE SHALL NOT WEARY THEM, NOR THE YEARS CONDEMN, AT THE GOING DOWN OF THE SUN, AND IN THE MORNING, WE WILL REMEMBER THEM.
WITH GRATITUTE, SANDS

Sunday Morning Down for Nancy

WINNIPEG (CP) — Employment wanted: satirical news-singer seeks fresh challenges.

WHITE

Nancy White, for the last two years the musical Lloyd Robertson of CBC radio's Sunday Morning, feels it's time to try something different — at least for a while.

"I get bored with my own sense of humor, especially the political stuff," said the lady who has become the darling of the show's 1.5-million fans.

And so, besides touring the west with Toronto composer-musician Hagood Hardy, she plans on exercising a six-month "out clause" in her CBC contract, "to see if I can write anything more than one minute and 10 seconds long."

"My sanity's at stake," White explains. "I think I'm becoming part of the establishment."

She even was asked to sing at a Liberal party function in Toronto.

White, who performed in Victoria with Hardy last week, said she has written about 400 new songs for the show at the rate of four a week. Each time it becomes more difficult to churn out another tune between Thursday afternoon and Friday night.

"Finding the topic is the worst part, and it gets harder and harder, especially between Christmas and New Year's. Nothing happens then except natural disasters, and I'm not supposed to sing about them."

Despite her readiness to get serious about her music, she finds her audiences aren't yet prepared to take her seriously. People laugh during live performances even when she isn't trying to be funny.

One thing that might stand in the way of fans taking Miss White seriously is her inability to tackle the same problem herself.

The way she tells it, her life sounds like a comic opera in which her biggest problem seems to be "getting organized."

"I need a producer for my life, or a wife or something."

Miss White grew up in Charlottetown, attended Dalhousie University, and worked as a reporter before going to Toronto in 1970 to act in a Young People's Theatre production of Under Milk Wood.

She developed her musical interest singing in choirs as a child and at the keyboard of a piano.

"Everybody took piano lessons in Charlottetown."

In Toronto, she sang in coffee houses and nightclubs and at folk festivals then started getting involved with revue theatre. She helped write and performed in Hey Seester, You Want My Sailor and Mail Order Brides as well as skating in a revue called the Ice Folly.

She was offered the job of adding comic relief to the otherwise serious Sunday Morning news roundup in 1976.

Now, each week she attacks sacred and non-sacred cows alike — everything from constitutional reform to the RCMP and everyone from the Pope to Anita Bryant.

She recently released an album called Civil Service Songwriter.

Ottawa Hikes Museum Aid

The federal government has renewed its grant to the Provincial Museum to pay for travelling exhibits throughout B.C.

Museum director Yorke Edwards said the museum received a grant of $135,000, $10,000 more than last year.

"Some grants were cut, but this one was actually increased," he said.

The displays, prepared by the museum, have beem extremely popular, he said.

Last Round-Up for Teng

HOUSTON (AP) — Vice-Premier Teng Hsiao-ping of China looked on with glee as cowboys tested wild horses and bulls at a rodeo and took home a bit of the Wild West — a prize bull and a cowboy hat.

It was a day of fun and contrast for Teng.

The Chinese leader and his party attended a barbecue and rodeo at Simonton, 80 kilometres northwest of Houston, where he stood to hear the reading of the Cowboys' Prayer.

Teng, an atheist, apparently wasn't aware of the prayer's references to the "Heavenly Father" and the "Last Roundup in the Sky." His interpreter didn't translate it.

Teng came to Houston from Atlanta Friday. About 700 demonstrators with Taiwanese flags and protest banners picketed peacefully at the airport and near his hotel.

At the Texas-style barbecue, he dined on beef, spare ribs, sausage, potato salad and pickles.

Teng arrived in the covered rodeo arena hatless, but two women on white horses presented him and Vice-Premier Fang Yi with cowboy hats, which they promptly put on.

A few minutes later, Teng clambered into a replica of a 19th-century stagecoach and was driven a couple of turns around the arena.

The rodeo began with a parade of prize bulls, and the Seaberg Ranch presented Teng with a 14-month-old Brahma bull to encourage China's cattle industry. Ranch officials said the bull is worth $10,000 but likely to become more valuable because of its pedigree.

'Broadaxe' Chopped Through Nazi Brass With Lies

By THOMAS O'TOOLE
Washington Post

WASHINGTON — Unbeknownst to German intelligence in Berlin, the United States was in full control of one of Germany's most trusted spy rings during the crucial Second World War years of 1944 and 1945.

From Jan. 7, 1944, to the end of the war with Germany in May 1945, according to once-secret documents just turned over to the National Archives by the National Security Agency, the United States wrote 342 messages sent by German agents under U.S. control in New York, Baltimore and Washington to Intelligence Headquarters in Berlin.

The messages contained a mix of fact and fabrication deliberately designed to mislead the Germans about U.S. war plans. So convincing were the messages that the Germans passed many of them on verbatim to their Japanese counterparts in Tokyo.

In releasing the declassified messages, the National Security Agency made no mention of how many German agents were under U.S. control in 1944 and 1945.

Under the codenames Bluebird and Broadaxe, the Joint Security Control Section of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff radioed coded messages to Hamburg under the real names of German agents detailing American war plans, production figures and troop movements.

Often, the messages complained about late payment for services to give them a flavor of reality. Messages also worried about the way the war was going against Germany. Said one message from Washington: "I am preoccupied with my security in case of the sudden end of the war. What am I to do? Do you want me to continue to send reports?"

Mostly, the messages were intended to mislead the Germans by concealing fabrications behind a veil of unimportant fact. Many messages were constructed to give the Germans and Japanese the impression that the United States was even stronger than it was.

The messges to Berlin said the United States was producing a weapon like the German V-1 rocket, which in fact it was not. Other messages implied that the United States was testing at least three jet fighters in 1944, when in fact it was not. On several occasions, reports were sent to Germany hinting at an American invasion of China, knowing this misleading information would be passed on to the Japanese.

One message pointed out that stories of atrocities to American prisoners of war only stirred public opinion against the Germans and Japanese. This message said that atrocity stories resulted in wounded American soldiers staying in the Army to fight rather than accepting disability discharges.

Totally misleading were exaggerated stories of U.S. might, of "robot bombs" that flew unguided to their target, of 40,000 pound bombs that devastated cities and of 600 mile-an-hour jet fighters soon to be deployed in Europe and the Pacific.

Stolen Conjurer Recovered By French Police

PARIS (AP) — A 475-year-old painting by the Dutch artist Jerome Bosch, entitled The Conjurer was recovered by police Friday just as the suspected thieves were to have negotiated for its disposal, officials said.

The painting which was insured for more than $700,000 portrays a juggler and a monk.

It was stolen Dec. 13 from the museum at St. Germain en Laye by two armed men.

Police and investigators from France's Central Office for Stolen Art Works learned of the planned negotiations, moved in and arrested one of two suspects. The other escaped.

Skyjack Cooper . . . New Suspect

STOCKTON, Calif. (AP) — The FBI has questioned more than 1,000 suspects in the D. B. Cooper hijacking, the only unsolved air-piracy case in the United States. Now there's speculation the FBI has another suspect.

A man calling himself D. B. Cooper parachuted from an airliner with $200,000 and disappeared in rugged terrain of Washington state more than seven years ago.

Robert Wesley Rackstraw — pilot, explosives expert and a suspect in assorted crimes — was sought for questioning in the Cooper case last year, FBI agent Pete Norregard said.

But Rackstraw disappeared, allegedly by faking a plane crash in Monterey Bay to avoid trial on bad-cheque charges. Now he's in custody again. Rackstraw, 35, is in San Joaquin jail in lieu of $650,000 bail.

"He's a helluva con man — you'd buy a used car from him every time," said Deputy District Attorney Clark Sueyres.

"He was also in the Pacific Northwest operating a light plane service at the time of the D. B. Cooper hijacking and was trained in parachuting while a Green Beret.

"I think that's how the speculation started. I know it crossed the minds of the Stockton police investigators and they mentioned it to the FBI."

The FBI in Seattle is handling the Cooper case, and would not confirm or deny interest in Rackshaw.

The Cooper hijacking occurred Nov. 24, 1971, on a Northwest Airlines flight between Portland and Seattle. Cooper let passengers off in Seattle and collected $200,000 ransom and four parachutes.

After the plane took off again, he bailed out over forest land in Clark County, Washington. No trace of him, the parachute or the money has ever been reported, despite several searches.

Rackstraw was arrested Friday in southern California for allegedly trying to duplicate a pilot's licence and medical certificates at a Fullerton printing shop, authorities said.

He was returned to Stockton to face charges of grand theft of an airplane, possession of explosives, cheque forgery and issuing cheque with insufficent funds.

VIRGINITY TESTING ENDED BY BRITAIN

LONDON (AP) — Britain has ended virginity tests for Indian, Pakistani and Bangladesh women after lawmakers blasted the restrictive immigration procedure conducted by male doctors as "degrading," "monstrous" and "dreadful."

Immigration officials said the tests were performed on the Victorian notion that brides-to-be qualified as immigrants only if they were virgins. The tests were conducted under a law that allows unrestricted entry to anyone engaged to someone in Britain.

One woman was quoted as saying: "I have been feeling very bad mentally ever since (the examination). I was very embarrassed and upset."

Pair Named to Challenge Kremlin Bloc

MOSCOW (WP) — Marxist historian Roy Medvedev and a woman who tried unsuccessfully to flee the Soviet Union last year in a small, private plane have been named as candidates by a Moscow voter's group to challenge the official Communist Party nominees for the Supreme Soviet in elections next month.

The voter's group, calling itself "Election '79," told Western reporters at a press conference Friday they chose Medvedev, a former Communist Party member whose historical works on Stalin and other contemporary themes of Soviet life are widely circulated in the West, after dissident figure Dr. Andrei Sakharov refused to accept their support.

Medvedev, who was not present at the press conference, later told reporters he believed the move was a "political experiment," not a form of dissent.

Such an independent move is virtually without precedent in the U.S.S.R. today, where Communist Party candidates for the Supreme Soviet, or parliament, are carefully chosen and certified well before the election — and are the only nominees for the job.

About two dozen persons signed themselves as supporters of Medvedev for the Supreme Soviet of the Republics, one of two houses in the bicameral, rubber-stamp parliament. The official Communist Party candidate is Bolshoi Theatre prima ballerina Natalya Bessmertnova.

Medvedev, 53, was reported to have said that if his nomination is accepted, he will seek election in the March 4 nationwide poll.

The loose-knit and apparently ad hoc voters group also said it will seek official certification as a candidate for Lyudmilla Agapova, 40, who has sought without success to emigrate from the Soviet Union to join her husband, a Soviet seaman who jumped ship some years ago in Sweden and became a political defector. Last spring, Mrs. Agapova said she had tried to be flown out of Russia in a light plane that landed on a frozen lake north of Leningrad. But the aircraft landed and took off before she could reach the rendezvous point, she said.

Her story has never been corroborated by the tight-lipped Soviets, but Finnish authorities detained the pilot of a light plane in the border area near where she said the rendezvous point was.

Tories Pledge Migrant Curbs

LONDON (CP) — The opposition Conservative party today warned it will restrict entry of immigrants to Britain if it gains power in this year's general election.

Keith Speed, party spokesman on home affairs, said quotas would be imposed on immigrants from all countries except the European Economic Community.

In a policy statement, Speed said the Conservatives would establish a non-discriminatory register of those dependent wives and children legally entitled to enter the United Kingdom.

"We shall cut back on various categories of people allowed to enter or stay here at the moment," he said.

"We shall not allow male finances and husbands of wives living here to enter freely and add to primary immigration, as the present government does.

"Under the Conservatives, there will be a major drive against overstaying and illegal immigration. There will not be any more amnesties for illegal immigrants."

Ford Trial Set

ELKHART, Ind. (AP) — A federal judge has upheld an indictment charging Ford Motor Co. with reckless homicide in the deaths of three young women in a fiery rear-end crash of a Ford Pinto.

Superior Court Judge Donald Jones on Friday denied a motion by Ford to dismiss the indictment, the first criminal charges brought against a manufacturer in an auto-defects case. He set arraignment for Feb. 15.

The indictment, alleging three counts of reckless homicide, was handed down in September by an Elkhart County grand jury. The indictment said Ford recklessly designed Pinto fuel tanks.

The women were killed Aug. 10 when their 1973 Pinto sedan exploded in flames after being struck from the rear by a van police said was travelling at 80 kilometres an hour on a northern Indiana highway.

Two multi-millfon-dollar suits were filed this week in Austin, Tex., in connection with a Jan. 20 rear-end collision that killed three persons who were riding in a Pinto.

One survivor and six children of the driver, who was killed, asked for $7 million in a suit filed Thursday in state district court.

Two other survivors, both Mexican nationals, and the families of two Mexicans killed in the crash filed a $4-million federal suit Wednesday.

ANDREOTTI TRIES AGAIN

ROME (UPI) — President Sandro Pertini asked outgoing Premier Giulio Andreotti today to try to form Italy's next government after the withdrawal of Communist support toppled his previous Cabinet three days ago.

Christian Democrat Andreotti, who has served on Italian governments longer than any other living man and pulled off difficult political tricks, asked for time to decide whether he should accept the unpromising task.

Boy, 14, Sentenced to 48 Years

JACKSON, Miss. — Robert Earl May pleaded guilty to armed robbery and was sentenced to 48 years in jail — with no chance of parole. If he behaves, he can be free at age 46, authorities say. He's now 14.

Prison officials, besieged with angry calls Friday after a television station reported the boy's imprisonment, said the sentence was unusual for such a young offender.

"We don't get many 14-year-olds at the penitentiary," said Tom Gregory, spokesman for the state corrections department. He told callers: "Our hands are tied. We just do what the court tells us."

May, who is four-foot-seven and weighs 75 pounds, has been assigned to the prison hospital to isolate him from older convicts, he said. May was imprisoned on Monday.

The state penitentiary at Parchman is Mississippi's main prison. May and three others — ages 17, 18 and 24 — were sent there after they pleaded guilty to armed-robbery charges.

"He wasn't just whisked into the court one day and then railroaded off to Parchman," said District Attorney Jack Kitchens. "We're talking about a serious crime.

"When someone is looking down a gun barrel in an armed robbery, it makes no difference whether they (the gunmen) are 40 years old or 14 — they're still strong enough to pull the trigger."

Circuit Judge Joe Piggott, who sentenced the boy was not available for coment.

A consideration in the sentence, Kitchens said, was fear that the boy might pose a threat to youths in a juvenile facility. May spent four months in a training school for vandalism as a 13-year-old.

"We feel the parents of the kids in juvenile detention centres have a right to have their children protected too," Kitchens said.

The maximum sentence for armed robbery in Mississippi is life. Under the law, Gregory said, May is not eligible for parole, but could be released in 32 years with time off for good behavior.

May and his companions were accused of holding up three firecracker stands and a convenience store near Brookhaven, Miss., during the Christmas season. May carried a gun in one holdup, authorities said.

A woman clerk was beaten in one of the robberies. Gregory said he did not know whether the boy was accused of taking part in the assault.

Punk Rocker Vicious Dies of Drug Overdose

NEW YORK — The nude body of punk rock musician Sid Vicious was found by his mother and a girl-friend in a Greenwich Village apartment Friday; dead of a heroin overdose. Police said a syringe, a spoon and "what was probably heroin residue" were found near the body of the former Sex Pistols star. Vicious' body was discovered shortly after noon by his mother, Anne Beverly, and the girl-friend, Michelle Robinson, who rented the apartment. "At this point we don't know whether he wanted to kill himself or just got too potent a dose," one police officer said. Miss Robinson said that the musician had used the heroin to celebrate his release from prison the previous day.

TORONTO — A children's musical, based on a book by Mordecai Richler, has been chosen as Canada's representative in an international children's festival to be held in London next October. The musical, Jacob Two-Two Meets the Hooded Fang, recently was performed at Young People's Theatre Centre in Toronto. Susan Rubes, producer at the centre, said she chose the play as the Canadian entry in the festival — to be sponsored by the Young Vic Theatre — because it is "the most-universally acceptable children's play since Peter Pan."

SEATTLE — Author Frank Herbert of Port Townsend has sold the movie rights to his science-fiction novel Dune for what he calls "the second-highest price ever paid for screen rights to a book." Producer Dino de Laurentiis, who bought the rights, said the best-selling novel will become "one of the most costly movies of all time." Immediate payments are "not so great," said Herbert, who will receive an advance and subsequent money based on a percentage of the movie's gross receipts. He also will be paid for writing the movie script.

Rocky Eulogized

NEW YORK — More than 2,500 mourners jammed Manhattan's Riverside Church Friday to honor former U.S. vice-president Nelson Rockefeller and listen as his children, brothers and friends eulogized him as a man of unlimited spirit and energy.

Leading the mourners were President Jimmy Carter and his wife Rosalynn while among the congregation were former U.S. secretary of state Henry Kissinger, former president and Mrs. Gerald Ford, Secretary of State Cyrus Vance, and delegations from the Cabinet and Congress.

Luring Americans With Cars?

A bargain for Americans — Canadian new cars

By AB KENT
Times Staff

Victoria auto dealers may be missing out on a lucrative new sales angle that is already being exploited in Manitoba.

A dealer in Winnipeg is advertising in nearby Grand Forks, N.D., that U.S. citizens can buy their 1979 cars cheaper in Canada than they can at home.

"Maybe we should look into it," said Suburban Motors sales manager Les Starling.

Neither he or his counterparts at other major Victoria dealerships had heard of Winnipeg's South Park Mercury Sales over-the-border campaign.

The ad blitz says North Dakotans can save hundreds of dollars on their new, Winnipeg-bought cars.

Citing a 1979 Zephyr as an example, South Park salesman Brian Jones said a U.S. buyer would pay $4,300 in American funds for the car in Winnipeg, $400 less than a U.S. dealer would charge.

Until recently, practically everything was cheaper in the U.S.

The big switch is due to poor performance of the Canadian dollar which has made U.S. dollars worth about 20 per cent more if spent in Canada.

Jones said an American purchaser in Canada is entitled to a rebate of the 9 per cent federal sales tax on automobiles and is also exempt from his own government's 15 per cent import duty.

Canadian tax and customs spokesmen confirmed the 9 per cent tax can be recovered. A U.S. customs spokesman said he is not aware of any 15 per cent import duty but said there is a 2½ per cent U.S. duty.

In a survey of Victoria and Port Angeles dealers, the Times discovered price comparisons definitely favor U.S. buyers at the current rate of dollar exchange.

Judging by prices quoted by dealers in Port Angeles and Victoria, substantial savings could be enjoyed by Americans in this area.

An American border officer said he has cleared Canadian-bought autos for U.S. citizens, including a Japanese car for a California buyer who claimed there was a saving to be had by purchasing on this side of the border.

Comparisons shown below are for 1979 basic, mid-size, four-door, medium priced domestic cars, including freight and federal taxes:

In Port Angeles in U.S. dollars, the cars and their cost: Monarch, $4,954; Aspen, $4,501; Malibu, $4,966.

In Victoria, the same cars with their Canadian costs and the comparable price in U.S. dollars with the discounts, and after Canadian sales tax deduction: Monarch, $5,665 Canadian ($4,150 U.S.); Aspen, $5,217 Canadian ($3,824 U.S.); Phoenix, $5,204 Canadian ($3,814 U.S.).

A Port Angeles buyer who bought here could save $804 on a Monarch, $677 on an Aspen, and $1,152 on a Phoenix/Malibu.

The $1,152 spread could be unrealistically great because of a difference in engine options and current model changes, bringing the difference closer to $600.

"I've never heard of anything like that before," Starling said, adding the good deal for Americans in Manitoba might be due to the fact Prairie prosperity has seen more cars shipped there by manufacturers with resultant lower wholesale prices.

"We haven't looked into it," said Brian McLean, of Empress Pontiac Buick.

Paul Smith, sales manager at Wille Dodge Chrysler, wondered how the Manitoba dealer could come out below his U.S. competitors.

"Our wholesale price is about equal to the U.S. retail price," he said.

Smith quoted from an invoice for a 1979 Dodge Aspen, basic four-door, six cylinder, no options, showing a dealer cost just $400 below the Port Angeles retail price.

Normal Victoria markup would put the retail price about $700 over the Port Angeles customer price, without taking dollar exchange into account.

McLean conceded that American used car dealers are onto something along similar lines.

He said recently at large dealer auctions in Vancouver, about 70 per cent of sales have been to U.S. buyers, apparently due to the favorable rate of dollar exchange.

Holy War Vow

Times News Services

Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini today threatened to launch a "Jihad" — an Islamic holy war — to topple Iran's Prime Minister Shahpour Bakhtiar.

Diplomatic sources said Khomeini's announcement had pushed Iran to the very brink of civil war.

It was the first time the white bearded, 78-year-old patriarch of Iran's Shiite Moslem majority has publicly threatened civil war and the second time he bitterly attacked the United States in three days.

Speaking to 200 reporters at a news conference in the Moslem school which Khomeini has made his headquarters, the ayatollah accused the United States of using Iran's oil for its own needs and "foisting unneeded weapons and advisers on the country."

Khomeini also said he has drafted a new constitution for an Islamic republic and will shortly announce the names of the Revolutionary Council's members.

Both the new government and the consitution will be submitted to a referendum, he said.

The armed forces "must join our ranks as soon as possible," he said. "They must not use machine guns against the people."

He appealed to the army's patriotism — "We want them to be free of foreign commanders and not to be under the thumb of foreigners," Khomeini said in a clear reference to the U.S. advisers who helped build Iran's army into one of the world's most powerful military machines.

After the news conference, thousands of Khomeini supports took to the streets chanting, "Welcome to Iran's holy soil!"

Meanwhile, the shah was quoted today in interview published in Paris as saying that he had been too radical in trying to modernize his country but does not regard the situation as "irremediably lost."

The shah was interviewed in Marrakesh, Morocco, for the Paris newspaper Le Figaro.

Angus Matthews and Carmela Costigan hunt for blossoms

It's Blooming Awful For Flower Count Folk

By AL FORREST
Times Staff

The flower count people are supposed to be tallying snowdrops next week, not snowballs. But are they downhearted?

"Sure we are," says campaign co-ordinator Carmela Costigan.

"This weather is very disappointing. Still, we should be able to find a large number of flowers if we try harder."

The Greater Victoria Chamber of Commerce, which organizes the annual event, will send teams of searchers into parks and other likely areas looking for blooms.

The search will be difficult.

"We've already checked out a lot of places," Mrs. Costigan said.

"There's almost nothing at Butchart Gardens, very few flowers at Beacon Hill Park. And at Government House, which always has a lovely showing, hasn't got a ruddy flower this year."

Still the count goes on, beginning Thursday, and Flower Count Central will be in Eaton's window, where girls will be receiving telephone calls and the rising totals will be displayed.

It all began in 1976 when the chamber decided to count flowers to prove to Canada that spring comes to Victoria first. A total of 183,000 flowers were counted that year.

In February, 1977, the total was 434,138, and last February it rose to 894,000.

Early predictions were for one million flowers this time but the vagaries of weather have changed all that.

"We will be happy with 500,000 — very happy," Mrs. Costigan said.

The totals, whatever they are, will be telephoned daily to Portland, where a group of 30 Victorians will be carrying out a tourist blitz, starting Sunday, Feb. 11.

The flower count ends on Feb. 14, Valentines Day.

Socred Wants 'Frog' Apology

A Socred back-bencher whose riding has a high population of French Canadians called Friday on Municipal Affairs Minister Bill Vander Zalm to publicly apologize to the province's French-Canadian community.

George Kerster, whose Coquitlam riding includes the francophone community of Maillardville, said in a letter to Vander Zalm he was making the request with deep regret "when a man in public life has gained the admiration and respect of so many."

Francophones, human rights activists and civil libertarians in B.C. are complaining about Vander Zalm for a song he wrote which they say denigrates French-Canadians.

Kerster said that, although he feels the media had blown the incident beyond reasonable proportions, "the fact remains that the entire performance was unnecessary and without meaning.

"We do have sensitivities in this day and age which we must respect."

Meanwhile the Edmonton Journal has initiated an effort to ensure that Vander Zalm gets a copy of a cartoon the newspaper published Friday.

The cartoon, by Edd Uluschak, shows Vander Zalm pulling the leg off a frog and carries the caption: "It's a fun thing, don't you see?"

"We'd be interested in his comments," Journal publisher J. Patrick O'Callaghan said in an interview.

The newspaper published the cartoon two days after Vander Zalm told reporters in nearby Spruce Grove that his song labelling French-Canadians "frogs" was a "fun thing,"

O'Callaghan said: "We're disturbed at the apparent attack through the courts in B.C. on the traditional right of a cartoonist to puncture the balloons of political pomposity.

Another cartoon showing a gleeful Vander Zalm pulling the legs off a frog was published today. This one appeared on the editorial page of The Gazette in Montreal.

Lotteries Complaints Face Probe

OTTAWA (CP) — Consumer Affairs Minister Warren Allmand Friday promised to investigate and act on charges that lotteries exploit the poor and soak up funds that otherwise would go to charities.

His remarks in the Commons were prompted by Toronto Liberal MP Jim Fleming who said a group of social agencies feels donations are declining because of lotteries. And he personally suspects that lotteries are "a voluntary tax on the poor."

The federal government and most provinces are involved in one lottery or another.

Allmand said in the Commons he will follow up on Fleming's observations and later he told reporters "if what he says is correct it deserves some action."

He said similar concerns were raised about a year ago when critics questioned the ethics of lottery advertising.

Allmand said he isn't sure what action would or can be taken. And he hadn't thought out the possibilities because Fleming had taken him by surprise.

"But the way he put it in the House made a lot of sense."

Conservatives applauded Fleming's remarks.

Fleming said Allmand's reaction gave him some hope that the government will finally take seriously the concerns he has been raising sporadically for more than a year.

He said the National Advisory Council on Voluntary Action, representing many social service agencies, said in a report many months ago that lotteries may be the reason why they are getting less revenue.

In short, people may be spending money on lotteries that they used to give to charity.

And, although he has no proof, Fleming said he suspects lotteries are a form of tax on the poor who are lured by a powerful promise that winning means "they can live happily ever after."

"We're hitting the poor on two fronts," Fleming said.

"It's sort of a double whammy."

Fleming said the government should have examined these possibilities a long time ago. He had secured a promise for some action from State Secretary John Roberts last year but nothing came of it.

Stuart Drummond, executive director of the United Way of Greater Victoria said today there is no evidence the growth of lotteries is affecting fund-raising activities here.

He said the United Way campaigns have grown at an average of 10 per cent a year for the past three years. Last year the campaign slightly exceeded the $926,000 goal.

A spokesman for the Victoria Salvation Army Red Shield Appeal also said Fleming's concern is not reflected in the Army's fund-raising drives.

"I don't think any of the large established social agencies are affected although it might be hitting some of the smaller groups," he said.

The spokesman felt that although some groups may be having difficulties raising money through raffles and ticket draws of their own they are making more on commissions selling lottery tickets.

Smoke Illness Wins Compensation

TORONTO (CP) — A woman has been awarded workmen's compensation after being subjected to high concentrations of tobacco smoke in the office where she worked.

In what is considered a precedent-setting case, a recent appeal decision by the Ontario Workmen's Compensation Board states that "unusually high concentrations of dust and tobacco smoke . . . and failure to properly recycle the air" in the office where Murdeena Johnson worked were precipitating factors in the onset of her bronchial asthma.

Mrs. Johnson, 43, a divorced mother of three, said Friday she is convinced her condition was caused by second-hand cigarette smoke.

Mrs. Johnson, who has not worked since May, 1977, was hired in 1970 by East York Hydro in a Metropolitan Toronto office as a clerk and later was promoted to billings supervisor.

"My doctor will not allow me to work in an environment where there is cigarette smoke," she said.

"They're still smoking in the office . . . so I can't go back there."

Mrs. Johnson said her condition did not start until some time in 1974 after the installation of a new ventilation system in the office.

When Mrs. Johnson's health forced her to leave her job, she submitted a claim to the compensation board but the claim was disallowed.

Lawyers for the Non-Smokers Rights Association appealed the decision on Feb. 17, 1978, and the board granted Mrs. Johnson compensation on Jan. 2, 1979, but did not notify her until Jan. 17.

In the decision, the board adds that "it is not expected that such conditions would ever again be encountered by Mrs. Johnson as most offices today are air-conditioned and all but a minority would likely be suitable for her."

But Garfield Mahood, executive director of the non-smokers' associaton said medical evidence shows that "people with the kind of susceptibilities as Mrs. Johnson can be affected by very low levels of tobacco contaminants."

Citing the 1972 U.S. surgeon-general's report, Mahood said that even in modern buildings, someone sitting next to a smoker may be exposed to a level of 90 parts per million of carbon monoxide, nearly twice the level considered hazardous for industrial exposure in the United States.

Mrs. Johnson said she has not been told by the board what her compensation will be. At present, she is receiving long-term disability benefits from East York Hydro, which amount to two-thirds her salary.

Glazier Makes Book Curtis Won't Shelve Central Library Move

It's mess now but new site would be just perfect location — Glazier.

Will Greater Victoria's central library ever get moved into the spacious new facilities available only a few blocks away, or is it doomed to stay in its cramped quarters on Yates?

That question has been asked hundreds of times over the past two years, and somehow an answer has always eluded the library board.

But the final decision could be known Monday, when Provincial Secretary Hugh Curtis meets with civic and library officials.

Victoria Ald. Murray Glazier, one of those who have been pushing for a new library, says despite recent set-backs he believes Curtis will support the move to Broughton St.

"I'm fully confident it will go ahead," he said Friday.

"Curtis has been a strong supporter of the library system for some time. He's new in his portfolio, but when he's had a look at the proposal I feel he'll support it."

Library board members and Greater Victoria municipal officials were knocked back on their heels recently when Deregulation Minister Sam Bawlf warned that an expected $400,000 provincial grant would not be forthcoming.

Bawlf said the library could expect a start-up grant more in the order of $150,000.

In agreeing to support the library move, however, the four core municipalities had made it clear the endorsements would stand only if the province came through with about $400,000.

They claim — although Bawlf denies it — that the minister indicated earlier in the year that amount would probably be made available to help defray the $412,000 annual rent that's being charged.

Glazier said the possiblilty of a major reduction in financing came as a blow to municipal officials but those familiar with the library's history didn't give up hope.

"The library was established by a gift of books, in the 1880s, from a private citizen. Right from the start there was a financial controversy because there was some question about storage fees that had to be paid before the books could be acquired . . . the mayor of the day eventually put up the money.

"That was the beginning and it was a financial hassle. If you go through the history of the library now you find there were quarrels and cost-sharing fights all the way through."

Glazier said the problem is that there are a lot of differing opinons over the importance of a library.

"Sewers and water mains, sidewalks and pavement are seen by everyone as a necessary service but when it comes to libraries not everyone agrees on the importance."

He says he feels the new building on Broughton offers Greater Victoria the chance to get the kind of library facility it deserves.

Right now the proposed new library doesn't look like much, with its spacious floors cluttered with an obstacle course of construction material, but the potential is obvious.

There are walls of glass everywhere; covering in the balconied entrance, looking out over Courtenay St. to provide views of The Empress and the legislative buildings and looking in to the four-storey open courtyard.

So much light floods into the building that it seems it was designed to be an library rather than the office complex originally planned by the previous NDP government.

"It's a first class building," says Glazier, "just the kind of building you'd want for a library."

The old library, however, is found in a 1903 building that is both cramped and fluorescent-lit.

Perhaps the greatest thing the Broughton facility has is space.

There is 36,000 square feet up at the Yates location but only 20,300 of that is public space. There isn't enough room to display all the books on hand.

In the Broughton office 40,000 square feet will be set aside for the public — a 97 per cent increase.

The space, the flood of light, the open courtyard and balcony would mean a lot to a lot of people, because Victorians are book lovers.

Statistics tell the story — in an average month, 50,000 people pour through the library doors.

"And that's another reason this is such a good location for the new library," says Glazier. "If this becomes the office building it was originally supposed to be these streets around here will just be dead."

Rain Blanket Rolling In As Snap Snow Vanishes

Victoria had its biggest snowfall of the winter overnight and the immediate outlook is for rain, rain and more rain.

The wet snow ended the Prairie-type weather that has dominated the region for a month, with unusually cold temperatures.

A few snowflurries are possible in outlying districts tonight but by Sunday rain will be general in the region.

About noon Friday a warm system from the Pacific moved in over the cold Arctic system that has dominated the region since early Januaru.

Moisture falling through the cold air quickly turned to snow, which continued until sunrise today.

The snowfall measured 7.9 centimetres, but most of it melted quickly and it was reduced to slush in most areas by this morning.

Driving was difficult however on side roads and hazardous on the Malahat, where a rash of minor accidents occurred despite sanding.

Saanich police reported a number of fender benders but no serious injuries.

Driving conditions were rated as fairly good in Victoria.

Taxi companies and tow trucks were busier than usual early in the morning but the rush eased off as the snow melted.

Sunday and Monday will be overcast and rain can be expected Tuesday and Wednesday.

Temperatures will continue to rise. A high of three degrees was forecast for today, rising to five Sunday and up as high as eight during the daytime next week.

Reservoirs for water supply and power generation had fallen dangerously low as a result of the drought but that problem should end with the February rain.

January was the second-dryest ever, according to weather office records.

Only 35.8 millimetres of precipitation fell compared to a normal fall of 146.3 mm. Record low for the month was in January, 1949, when it measured only 22.6 mm.

The mean (day-night average) temperature during January was one degree, compared with a norm of 2.9 degrees.

However the Prairie-type weather created the sunniest January on record with 91.6 hours, compared with a norm of 57.3 hours. However, sunshine records have only been kept for the past 10 years.

'Disc' Promoter Charged

A Victoria man was charged in provincial court Friday under the Combines Investigations Act in connection with an "energy disc."

James Freeman Batt is charged with making a representation to the public in the form of a statement, warranty or guarantee of the performance, efficiency or length of life of a product that was not based on an adequate and proper test thereof.

Batt is charged under the business name of Sunshine Jim Products and the offence is alleged to have taken place July 28 in Victoria.

Batt, who appeared pleaded not guilty in front of Judge Fred Green and a trial date of June 15 was fixed.

Ask the Times

Q. I have received an inquiry from a friend in Britain who is trying to locate sheet music, words, record or tape in connection with two of Sophie Tucker's old numbers "I'm Having More Fun Now I'm 50" and "I'm Starting All Over Again." Apparently the material is not available in the U.K. but might be obtainable in the U.S. My inquiries here in local sheet music stores have not proved fruitful. J.M.C.

A. "I'm Starting All Over Again" is available in a book of old movie themes and can be ordered through Nelson's Music, 1315 Government. They do not have the other number in their catalogue but would be willing to try and get it for you.

U.K. Mail Backlog Arrives

Victoria-area residents whose mail from Britain has dried up in recent weeks may be in for a bonanza next week.

The post office here has been alerted by British postal authorities to stand by for 68,000 kilos of mail which has been held up by labor problems in recent weeks.

Victoria post office information officer Buz Sawyer said Friday a significant proportion of the load — probably hundreds of thousands of pieces of mail — is destined for this area.

Drug Suspect Caught

Victoria drug squad officers have arrested a 41-year-old Duncan man who had eluded police since August, 1977 after failing to appear in court on a major drug charge.

Dale Stuart Elliott was picked up shortly before noon Friday as he arrived at a marina in North Vancouver aboard a 30-foot pleasure cruiser.

Sgt. Bob Hawkes, head of the drug squad, said today Elliott will be returned to Duncan where he will face charges of conspiring to traffic in MDA and MDA-hydrochloride and trafficking in both drugs.

The charges were laid on Aug. 1, 1977 following a year-long police investigation into an MDA operation on the Island.

Also charged at the time were Arthur James Williams, 53, and Raymond Albert Ridge, 30, both of Ladysmith.

Williams is missing and presumed dead following the crash of his light plane in the Strait of Georgia Dec. 1, 1977.

Ridge was sentenced to three years in prison last November after his conviction on the conspiracy charge.

Hawkes said Elliott is also charged with possession of MDA for the purpose of trafficking stemming from an incident in Dec. 1973 also in the Duncan area.

The boat carrying Elliott was registered in the name of an unidentified woman who accompanied him. She was not arrested and no charges are contemplated.

Following Elliott's arrest officers searched a remote house on Indian Arm a couple of miles north of Deep Cove accessible only by water.

Hawkes said receipts and papers seized indicate Elliott had been living in B.C. for the past 18 months, spending much of his time on a boat.

Bay Residents Oppose Permit

Cordova Bay residents are mounting substantial opposition to Saanich school district's application for an effluent discharge permit for Claremont senior secondary school.

A Pollution Control Branch spokesman said Friday 28 objections have been filed since the school district submitted its application Jan. 3.

With the exception of the Cordova Bay Association for Community Affairs, all the objections received to date are from residents, said PCB processing engineer Jack Donald.

The Claremont application seeks a permit to discharge an average 7,500 gallons of effluent daily into a storm drain.

The school has been operating for two years without a permit.

Nearby residents claim the school's septic disposal system is faulty and that effluent seeping into ditches poses a health hazard.

However, school district officials say tests indicate the system is working efficiently and that the sewage content discharged, at 11 parts per million, is well below the permissible 40 parts per million.

Donald said no work has started on processing the application because "under controversial circumstances we don't do anything until the objection period has passed."

As the application was not advertised in the B.C. Gazette and elsewhere until Jan. 14, the 30-day period for filing objections expires in mid-February.

Donald said on the basis of tests conducted the processing engineer is required to submit a report to various PCB supervisors, and eventually a recommendation goes to the branch director or his deputy.

"If the recommendation is to refuse, it's just refused," he explained.

'Twas a Labor of Love for Wilma

Work is love made visible, Syrian writer Kahlil Gibran said once.

"And if you cannot work with love but only with distaste, it is better that you should leave your work . . . ."

Not everyone is fortunate enough to be able to say they work with love nor to be able to chose to leave or stay.

But Wilma Hunter was.

The Victoria woman has just retired after 21 years of teaching English to new Canadians, first under the Victoria School Board's adult education program and more recently at Camosun College, and can look back and say she loved it all.

Though since 1965 she has been pretty involved with administration as the teacher in charge of the English as a Second Language (ESL) program, Mrs. Hunter, a busy mother of four children, has over those years taught immigrants from just about every country in the world.

"It's really a joyous kind of teaching and one from which you truly get more than you put in because there are no discipline problems," she explains.

"The students are always intensely motivated to learn. You can certainly tell when you've taught a lousy lesson because they're adults and if you've bombed, you know. They don't want to waste their time and that's how a teacher knows if he or she isn't doing a good job — the students stop coming."

Wilma first started teaching English to new Canadians in Victoria in the fall of 1957, the year the Hungarian refugees came to Canada, but she became interested in the idea years before that when teaching in a Prince George high school.

"I was there when the Displaced Persons (DPs) came to this country after the war years," she says. "I met some of these people and became aware of the need for them to learn English.

"That was probably the first need for English as an additional language in Canada," Wilma points out. "It got me excited. A man started teaching the refugees in Prince George and when I came to Victoria I thought I'd like to try my hand at it.

"There hadn't been much research done on the subject but in the first year we taught we had Dr. Edith Lucas' book English and Citizenship to follow.

"That first year the students were mostly Hungarians, though we have always had mixed nationalities — Europeans from many different countries, Iranians and lots of Asians — and we have always tried to mix them up as much as possible so that English will be their only common tongue and they'll have to speak it."

When the ESL program started in Victoria there were six teachers and a few evening classes. But it grew like Topsy.

"In 1968 we opened day classes for the Czech refugees," Wilma says. "Just one day a week at first, then almost immediately it became two, then three and four."

Now there are eight classes in the day (mostly mornings), seven or eight classes running two nights a week and three more classes running four nights a week.

"This semester started Jan.8 and runs 10 weeks," Wilma explains. "But we have ongoing registration and never turn a student down. The next semester starts about March 15. We circulate information sheets around the schools and ethnic societies in five languages — English, French, Spanish, Punjabi and Chinese — pointing out there are classes and telling people to contact Camosun College."

Wilma Hunter appologizes for saying "we" all the time even though she has left (her place has been taken on an interim appointment by Mary Nemeth) but as she says, 21 years is a long time to forget.

"Everyone enjoys teaching English as a second language as there are none of the usual problems you encounter in teaching," she says. "In fact, often the students can be so funny that the only problem is you have to leave the room so you won't laugh at them."

WILMA HUNTER

I agree with Wilma on both those counts. With all due respects to my present employer, I haven't enjoyed any job as much as I did my spell of teaching in Iran.

Unlike the foreign advisers who worked on big salaries for the oil companies, I was employed by the newspaper Kayhan International on a meagre Iranian wage and both my wife and I supplimented it by teaching English. My job was with three different classes of young men who were learning to be ground control staff at Tehran International Airport. And truly, for me nothing has been so rewarding.

And that leaving the room bit . . . I can tell you!

Like the morning when Akbarzadeh handed me a letter he'd written to a friend overseas and asked me if it was okay.

"I decided write to you to invite you in Tehran," it read. "I hope you will agree to my inviting."

And the time I asked one class what you call a box in which you find matches and Hafezi said proudly "A boxing match."

On my last day at the school I was halfway through a sentence when I was interrupted by Hossein Pakravan (my brightest student) and his impromptu farewell speech.

"We are sorry Mr. Low . . . we have been as brothers with you and I am sure, wherever you travel in the world, you will never find such brotherhood and friendship as you have found in Iran and at this school."

You know, he was right.
